Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, March 30. [To the Editor of The Times:] I see by this morning's news prints that Secretary Cotton says that Mr. Hoover says "we are with the American delegation," and he is right, too. From the looks of things we are coming nearer being with them every day. I look for 'em on any boat now. If they can just get out of there before war is declared they will be fortunate, and we can charge the whole thing off as a business loss, but a social success. It will go down in history as a dressmakers' triumphal conference.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

HAWKS SAFE IN TUCSON

Glider Outrides High Wind

Motorless Craft Whipped About Behind Plane by Light Gale

First Leg of Cross-Country Flight Completed in Dark

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 30. (AP)—Four hundred miles and ten hours forty minutes on his way toward New York, Capt. Frank Hawks, transcontinental glider pilot, cut loose from his towplane over Tucson tonight and landed safely in the dark at 7:25 o'clock. Automobile lights marked the airport for him.

Capt. Hawks, in tow of a plane piloted by J. D. Jernigan, Jr., left San Diego at 7:45 o'clock Pacific standard time this morning. By 11:30 a.m. mountain time, he was over the mountains, had refueled his tow plane at Yuma, Ariz., and was bouncing and bumping on a stiff breeze toward Phoenix.

At the Arizona capital Hawks slipped free from the lead rope at 3500 feet and disported himself over the Phoenix Airport for half an hour before setting the gracefully veering glider gently to earth at 2:05 p.m.

Borne up by a thirty-five-mile-an-hour wind, he demonstrated to massed spectators some of the fine points of gliding.

The breeze, which was stronger than had been expected, did not occasion him any difficulty in land-

NEW REVOLT AT MOSCOW

Lenin's Widow in Opposition

Demands Measures to Save City Populations From Starvation

Issue Expected to Determine Future Economic Policy of Communists

[Copyright, 1930, Chicago Tribune.]

RIGA, March 30. (Exclusive)—Mme. Krupskaija, Nicolai Lenin's widow, who is considered the greatest authority in Russia upon her husband's writing, is leading a new opposition group within the ranks of the Communist party against the dictatorship of Joseph V. Stalin, and the coming fortnight is expected to reveal the victor in the present secret conflict proceeding behind the walls of the Moscow Kremlin. According to a Baltic diplomat who arrived from Moscow, the entire diplomatic colony is watching the Kremlin battle, which is expected to decide the future policies of the Communist party for a long period.

Dictator Stalin, who exiled Leon Trotsky and deposed Commissars Kamenev and Zinoviev for opposing his policies, and who later turned upon his friend Commissar Bukharin, for the same reason, is at present opposing Mme. Krupskaija's demands that the new economic policy inaugurated by her husband before the famine of 1921, shall again be introduced into Russia to prevent the Moujik from starving the city population.

Behind Mme. Krupskaija stand Commissars Michael Kalinin, Russia's peasant president, and Aleksei Rykoff, president of the council of people's commissars. Both Commissars Kalinin and Rykoff directed delegations of peasant women to visit Mme. Krupskaija, who, after listening to the tales of unbelievable Communist persecutions of Russian villagers which have taken place in the last three months, began to write articles to the soviet press demanding that Dictator Stalin make another swing toward the right, following Lenin's example. Dictator Stalin ordered the censor to confiscate the articles, confining the fight within the Kremlin.

Moscow diplomats are awaiting the decision which is expected this month, as formerly, through the soviet comissariat of health, which orders the losers to take indefinite vacations on the Black Sea coast.

COAL MINE RESCUERS FIGHT GAS

Sixteen Men Trapped by Kentucky Blast Expected to Be Found Dead

KETTLE ISLAND (Ky.) March 30. (AP)—Rescue crews, fighting carbon monoxide that makes short shifts necessary, tonight have reached within 200 feet of where they believe sixteen men trapped by an explosion yesterday in the Pioneer Coal Company mine here are entombed.

They expect to reach the victims early tomorrow, but fear only dead men will be found.

Though all the rescuers wore gas masks, many of the rescue workers were affected by the poisonous gas drawn from the mine, and fifteen were sent to Pineville tonight to recuperate.

Dockland Paid Visit by Queen

LONDON, March 30. (AP)—Queen Mary went into the heart of London's dockland, down by Limehouse, yesterday, attending the dedication of a new church by the Bishop of Chelmsford.

Her visit was a surprise to all but a few, but within an hour after it was known she was coming the whole of the drab area was given a festive air by hastily placed flags and decorations.

The Queen entered the church through an honor guard of boys drawn up in two ranks. Behind the youngsters were hundreds of street-traders who had left their Saturday afternoon stalls and pushcarts to greet Her Majesty.

Waitresses Pick Lottery Plum

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—The Jobe Sisters—Bubbles, 21 years of age, and Sophie, 19—came down from their native Chiccopee (Mass.,) not so long ago and got themselves jobs in a Second-avenue coffee shop.

With another waitress who is known only as Margaret, they chipped in 50 cents apiece and bought a ticket in the Grand National Lotteries of England.

Today a cablegram came from England—announcing that the ticket had won $12,000.

Lee Schoenhair Rushing Films From Panama to New York by Plane

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) March 30. (AP)—Lee Schoenhair, bringing the pictorial record of the Byrd Antarctic expedition from Panama to Newark Airport, N. J., in his speedy airplane Miss Silvertown, landed here this afternoon. Owing to reports of bad weather over Honduras, he decided to remain overnight.

SCHOENHAIR PLANS ON MAKING RECORD

COLON (Panama) March 30. (AP) Lee Schoenhair, chief pilot of the Goodrich Rubber Company, Akron, O., hopped off from here at 7:58 a.m. today for New York with pictures taken by the Byrd expedition. The plane, a Lockheed Vega capable of 200 miles per hour and with a cruising speed of 150 miles, will be pushed for a new record.

Heading into favorable skies and toward Managua, Schoenhair planned to chart his course after ascertaining the wind currents aloft. He intimated he would head toward Miami, Fla.

The pictures, destined for the Associated Press, New York Times and Paramount News, are expected to be in New York by Monday afternoon at latest.

Village Traced Back to 1370

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—The oldest continuously inhabited community in the United States is Oraibi, an Indian village north of Winslow, Ariz.

The National Geographic Society said today Oraibi was in existence in 1370, more than a century before the Spaniards reached the mainland of North America, and long before Columbus discovered the new world. The statement is based upon explorations made for the society by Dr. A. E. Douglas and Neil M. Judd.

Sothern Rests After Collapse

DENVER, March 30. (AP) — E. H. Sothern, veteran interpreter of Shakespearean roles, who collapsed in the midst of a lecture at a theater here last night, was reported "resting easily" today in his hotel room.

Sothern, under advice of his physician, is delaying continuance of his dramatic lecture tour. He is expected to leave his bed by tomorrow if he continues to improve.

Ship Refloated; Towed to Dock

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30. (AP) The lumber schooner Claremont, which was beached near Crissey Field on San Francisco Bay after striking a submerged rock during a fog Friday night, was floated today and towed to a dock.

A large part of her cargo will be moved and the schooner then towed to Alameda and put on dry dock. The owners said they can not estimate damage to the vessel until she has been thoroughly inspected.

Presidents of Four Nations to Tell World

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—Four Presidents will carry on a telephone conversation Thursday morning while the whole world listens in.

President Hoover will talk over telephone from the White House to Dr. Hipolito Yrigoyen, President of Argentina, at Buenos Aires; to Gen. Carlos Ibanez, President of Chile, at Santiago, and to Dr. Juan Campisteguy, President of Uruguay, at Montevideo.

The Columbia Broadcasting System will carry the conversations over a nation-wide and international network of radio stations, and also will use a short-wave transmitter to dispatch the conversations to the most remote parts of the world.

MEN OPPOSE WOMEN FOR TOWN POSTS

Missouri Village Has Two Parties in Trustees' Race and May Best Sex Win

ALTAMONT (Mo.) March 30. (AP) Altamont has two new political parties, one called "women" and the other "men."

At the recent caucus a man nominated another's wife and that started a campaign of retaliation. Finally, the women's ticket had to be pared down to an even dozen to oppose the twelve male nominees for the five places on the village board of trustees.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dulin, both candidates, are in opposite camps.

Menfolk have dominated public office at monthly salary of 50 cents each as long as the oldest of the 349 inhabitants of the village can remember.

The election is to be held Tuesday.

ARKANSAS HAS SIMILAR SITUATION

HUGHES (Ark.) March 30. (AP)—Voters in the municipal election here Tuesday will cast their ballots for a male or a female administration. Of the two tickets one is composed entirely of men and the other of women.

Air-Mail Pilot Hurt in Crash

WARREN (O.) March 30. (AP)—Harry Sievers, air-mail pilot on the Pittsburgh-Cleveland run, crashed near here today on his last trip with the mails, and escaped alive only after a struggle as ice forming on the wings of his ship forced the craft earthward in a tight spiral.

Sievers jumped as the ship plunged down, but was knocked unconscious when he struck the ground. His only injury, however, was a slight cut over one eye. The ship was wrecked. The mail bags were not damaged.

SKULL OF 'PEKING MAN' EXHIBITED

Relic, Freed From Stony Matrix, Shown Geologists; Shape Peculiar

PEIPING, March 30. (Exclusive) After several months' labor the skull of the Peking Man has been freed from its stony matrix and was on view at the annual meeting of the Geological Society of China today.

Much delicate work with dentists' drills and special tools was required to cut away the mass of hard travertine wherein the skull was imbedded. The process revealed the absence of the facial part of the skull but heavily developed superorbital ridges remain and the cranium is complete except at the base.

The study of the cleaned skull is not yet complete and there is nothing fresh to say on the subject except that the skull showed a peculiar condition and shape of the ear region and very unusual expansion of the tympanic bone, from which, after examination, important conclusions may be reached.

LADY DEAD 4000 YEARS DISTURBED

Pendant and Necklace on Mummy, Whose Name Was Sat-Her-em-Hat

PHILADELPHIA, March 30. (AP) A mummy, which, with its decorations of amulets and jewelry, lay undisturbed for 4000 years, has been discovered by the University of Pennsylvania museum expedition at Meydum, Egypt, Alan Rowe, field director, advised the museum authorities in a report made public today.

Mr. Rowe said the mummy was that of a woman named Sat-Her-em-Hat, who lived about 2000 B.C.

"Around the neck of Sat-Her-em-Hat," the report stated, "was hung a semicircular pendant formed by several concentric rows of faience cylinder beads, alternately green and black. In addition to this, a string of large graded beads of polished amethyst was found as well as a string of exquisite miniature amulets cut in carnelian, jasper and lapis lazuli.

"The semicircular end pieces of the pendant are of bluish-green faience, shaped and painted on the inner corner to represent hawks' heads. A scarab found in the coffin bore the proper name 'Hat-em-Hat, the elder,' doubtless a relative of the deceased."

Flyers Forced Down in Wilds

SYDNEY (Australia) March 30. (AP)—Two Australian airmen, David Smith and Lieut. Shiers, attempting a flight to England, were forced down by a broken engine shaft yesterday in the barren, trackless country of the northern territory.

They have kept in touch with civilization so far, wirelessing that they are in urgent need of food and assistance, but saying water supplies are abundant. Searching parties have not yet been able to find them, however.

STATE UTILITIES' MERGER FORMS GIANT CONCERN

Deal Involving $650,000,000 Has Fused Companies Into Third Largest in United States

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30. (AP)—President A. F. Hockenbeamer of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company today announced a merger involving $650,000,000 has been completed. It combines Great Western Power Company, San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation and various other minor corporations controlled by North American Company of New York, with Pacific Gas.

All of North American Company's interests in California have been turned over to Pacific Gas in exchange for 1,825,000 shares of the latter's common stock. Both boards of directors have approved the transaction, which now awaits only the formal sanction of the California Railroad Commission. An application for such sanction will be filed tomorrow.

THIRD LARGEST

The combination will make Pacific Gas the third largest public utility in the United States, ranking next to Consolidated Gas Company of New York and Public Service Corporation of New Jersey in the array of gas and power operating companies. Gross revenues of the new Northern California system are estimated to exceed $87,000,000 annually, serving more than 1,200,000 customers.

The consolidated electric system will have a generating capacity of 1,473,000 horsepower, distributing more than 3,000,000,000 kilowatt hours. Gas sales are estimated at 23,158,000,000 cubic feet. In addition there is an appreciable business in water and steam sales.

The merger is the largest public-utility transaction of its kind in the history of California, and one of the largest in the annals of the rapid growth of American power systems. It will afford numerous opportunities for cutting down operating expenses, besides making possible increased efficiency in service.

APPROVAL EXPECTED

It is understood that informal discussions have been held between the power company executives and the State regulatory authorities. Hence approval by the Railroad Commission is looked on as entirely probable, particularly as the commission will be presented new opportunities to pass on to the public benefits made possible by the combine.

The field of operations of the enlarged company will extend from Bakersfield and San Luis Obispo on the south to Eureka and Redding on the north. Pacific Gas Company will materially strengthen its gas distribution system in the San Joaquin Valley, where it has operated for many years in Fresno and Stockton. Recently gas systems in Modesto and Tracy were acquired. The merger adds Bakersfield, Selma and Merced, thus taking in all the principal cities of the southern branch of the great Central California valley.

AGREEMENT DETAILED

Under the terms of the agreement, North American Company undertakes to transfer to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company $43,886,700 par value common stocks of the Great Western Power Company of California, San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation and Midland Counties Public Service Corporation. This includes all the outstanding common stocks of these companies except a small minority interest of $133,300 par value of San Joaquin Power common.

Control of minor companies coming with these stocks includes Feather River Power Company, California Electric Generating Company, Napa Valley Electric Company and other smaller units.

North American Company transfers to Pacific Gas $4,606,100 par value 7 per cent preferred stock and $146,200 par value 6 per cent preferred stock of San Joaquin and Midland corporations. It also cancels all advances made up to February 1, 1930, by North American Company to its California subsidiaries for construction purposes. These advances total $19,180,781. They have been carrying 6 per cent interest.

MANY INVESTORS

Computation of the foregoing brings the total of stocks and advances to $67,819,781. Against this Pacific Gas common stock will be issued of par value amounting to $45,625,000. The merger, therefore,

Hunt for Security Formula at Standstill as Britain Resists Commitments

Big Five Delegates to Check Notes Today on Results So Far Achieved

LONDON, March 30. (AP)—The profits and losses of disarmament at the five-power naval conference will be made known to the world this week. Through what proved to be one of the busiest week-ends of the lengthy negotiations, the delegates pored over their ledgers and tomorrow the big five delegates, as chief accountants, will meet at St. James' Palace to compare notes on what is to be publicly and officially announced at the plenary session Friday.

At that session Prime Minister MacDonald, Secretary of State Stimson, Ex-Premier Wakatsuki, Foreign Minister Grandi and Foreign Minister Briand, acting for Premier Tardieu, will declare just how much of the task that brought them here two and a half months ago has been accomplished.

LIMITED TO THREE

Over the week-end the delegates still continued heroic efforts for world-wide naval reduction by the five great sea powers, but the general opinion tonight was that if this cannot be consummated this week, disarmament will actually be limited to three powers, Great Britain, Japan, and the United States. In other words, the Atlantic and the Pacific will be covered by a form of war-risk insurance, and the Mediterranean will have to shift for itself.

The French and the British experts today continued their search for a security formula satisfactory to both. The discussions will continue, but the official British spokesman in Downing street tonight could not indicate any material progress that had been achieved.

While these efforts were being discussed at an important meeting of the British dominion delegates at the Prime Minister's residence, the spokesman restated the British position as follows:

LIMIT REACHED

"Great Britain is anxious and willing to do everything she can for peace, and for improving the machinery for keeping the peace and thus giving security against war. But any further military commitments are absolutely impossible.

"For Great Britain to attempt any more of these would be tantamount to tying her down to engage in military operations without being able to control the situation from which they have arisen. No British government could undertake such commitments. It would be contrary to the whole British people."

Though this considered and deliberate statement direct from Downing street promises very little for the development of the Franco-British discussions, there still remains a possibility of reaching something tangible by repeating the existing British commitments under Article XVI of the League of Nations' Covenant. It is toward this end that Sir Robert Vansittart and Mr. Malkin, for

PRINCE WINS IN MONACO

Mayor Marquet, Backing Present Dynasty, Given Large Majority in Peaceful Election

MONTE CARLO, March 30. (AP)—The party of Mayor Eugene Marquet, favorable to the maintenance of the present dynasty in Monaco, today carried the national and municipal elections by an overwhelming majority.

The elections passed off calmly under the watchful eyes of army and police. The military forces, supplemented by French detectives and secret service men, crowded in front of the City Hall, appearing to outnumber the voters, who came and went in small groups.

In view of his large majority, title principality where the roulette wheel rules the revenues. Sympathetic to the ambitions of Prince Pierre, recently separated by decree from Princess Charlotte, daughter of the reigning Prince Louis, its position has become difficult because under the decree of separation Prince Pierre no longer belongs to the Grimaldi Dynasty, of which he became a member on marrying the Princess.

Mayor Marquet is expected to prevail upon Prince Louis of Monaco, who is understood to be thoroughly disgusted with the party bickerings and casino quarrels in his principality, to abandon the idea of abdicating. The Prince considered doing this in February, but was dissuaded by the French government, and decided to await the result of the elections.

His retention of the throne will eliminate the friction between the followers of Prince Pierre and of Princess Charlotte.

Chinese Bandits in New Raid

Fellow Religious Workers Escape Band by Fleeing Into Mountains

SHANGHAI, March 30. (AP)—The British North China Daily News correspondent at Changsha, Hunan Province, reported today that Kiangsi Province bandits have captured three more foreign missionaries, two women and a man, at Yuanchow, Western Kiangsi. Three others, two women and a man, it was reported, escaped by fleeing into the mountains.

The bandits, the correspondent said, considered to be the same ones who on February 3, last, carried off and presumably murdered three Finnish missionaries, raided Yuanchow and after plundering the city carried off the three representatives of the British China inland mission. Those captured are Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Porteus of England, who have been in China for almost a quarter of a century, and Miss N. E. Gemmell, an American. Miss Gemmell has been in China since 1919.

The dispatch said those who escaped are two British missionaries and one American, the latter being Rev. R. H. Glasier. They fled into the mountains of Western Kiangsi Province and their immediate whereabouts are unknown.

The location of the captured trio, the correspondent said, also is a mystery, and although missionaries of the district have searched throughout the region thus far they haven't found in which direction the brigands are moving. Headquarters of the mission are at Germantown, Pa.

Yuanchow is approximately 150 miles northwest of Kanchow, Kiangsi, where sixteen American Catholic missionaries were believed still held. Inability to communicate with Kanchow or other towns of the northern part of the province, because of bandit interference with telegraphic facilities, has made it impossible to determine their safety. Despite Chinese reports that the Communists and bandits have been dispersed at Kanchow, no confirmation has been possible, and fears for the safety of the missionaries are held.

The wind-riding pilot remained in Phoenix for lunch.

At 5:20 p.m. the air train proceeded toward Tucson, with the glider whipping behind like the tail of a kite. The wind velocity had increased, but no difficulty was experienced.

Capt. Hawks expects to reach El Paso, Tex., by tomorrow night, refueling en route at Lordsburg, N. M.

He is due in New York City next Sunday.

MEXICAN PROPOSES SENSATIONAL FLIGHT

SAN DIEGO, March 29. (AP)—There have been glider flights and glider flights, but Col. Pablo Sidar, chief of the Mexican Army Air Service, who arrived here today to investigate gliders and their flying, has planned a real glider flight. He said tonight that it will be from Mt. Popocatapetl, 17,876 feet high, to Mexico City, whose elevation is about 7000 feet.

The flight was suggested to the colonel in a joking way by a local aviator. The colonel took up the challenge like a flash. "I will do it if it can be done," he said, and at once he began to discuss plans for the flight. He says it will be a great stimulant to flying in Mexico.

ART GOBEL PLACES FOURTH IN GLIDER MEET

WICHITA (Kan.) March 30. (AP)—Col. Art Goebel, Dole flight winner, making his first glider hop, took fourth place in the primary training plane event at a glider meet here today, flying 402 feet and attaining a height of seventeen feet. In the elimination contest preceding the finals of this event, Goebel did even better, averaging 444 feet in distance and twenty-one feet eight inches in height in three trials, to lead all other contestants.

Capt. Nielson of the Davenport said: "I was in my bunk when we struck. All I can say is that our lights are standard and our crew competent to handle the ship in any emergency."

Panic seized the 286 passengers aboard when the crash collapsed the forepart of the Swan. The barge took a sudden dangerous list and water washed over the lower deck. There was a mad rush for the stairs to higher decks and many were trampled in the rush for safety. The tug Dix sank almost immediately, carrying Mitchell with it.

The excursion was organized by the Vancouver Chamber of Commerce.

Capt. Frank X. Edthofer and John E. Wynne, Federal steam vessel inspectors, announced that an investigation of the fatal collision will be started tomorrow.

They said the first step will be the taking of depositions by licensed officers of the two crafts. A hearing date will be set, the date to depend on when Capt. Nielson of the Davenport will be in Portland again.

WHEAT ACREAGE CUT APPEAL BROADCAST

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Thomas D. Campbell of Montana, one of America's largest wheat farmers, broadcast in a radio talk to the country today a request that farmers reduce spring wheat acreage. Mr. Campbell said that on his Montana farm spring wheat acreage is being reduced "100 per cent, as we have found that flax or beans are a more profitable crop."

lowers accused the Bonaventurists of nominally campaigning for the Princess, but really seeking to get control of the government in order to oust the princely family and found a republic.

As a result of the election Prince Pierre is expected to be appointed as regent on behalf of Prince Reynier, their son and lineal heir to the throne, in case Prince Louis dies or abdicates before Prince Reynier becomes of age.

The party led by Bonaventure withdrew early in the morning, and a third party, headed by M. Aureglia did likewise in the afternoon, so that the Marquet followers had things all their own way.

The Bonaventurists did not give up without a protest. Their official reason for withdrawing was that "the Marquet party has sold out to the casino interests; the Bonaventure party cannot combat such financial backing."

AUTOS GATHER VOTES

Under the balmy Riviera air, the voting became a kind of public festival. It was almost a "light opera" election. The Marquet party rounded up their voters with twenty limousines, transporting them to and from their home, though in the little principality few of them would have had to walk very far.

Two superb automobiles made several trips to the docks in the little fishing port, where they picked up all the eligible males in sight, including a party of coal-heavers engaged in refueling a yacht, and drove them up to the City Hall to vote.

The chief issue was whether more revenue from the casino should go for public improvement in the principality. The Marquet party conducted a violent campaign against Rene Leon, manager of the Societe Anonyme de Bains de Mer, which pays annual tribute to the government for the gambling monopoly concession.

The resignation and expulsion of M. Leon were demanded by M. Marquet, who charged him with being responsible for all Monaco's recent financial ailments. The gambling revenues have recently decreased and Monte Carlo has lost much of its prestige to the rival Riviera gambling city of San Remo, Italy.

Certain bonds coming under control of Pacific Gas by the deal were $88,813,850 par value, and preferred stocks likewise outstanding in the hands of the public were $37,384,900. The preferred stocks are widely distributed in California, 95 per cent of the 25,000 investors living in the State, mainly in the territory served.

Gradual acquisition by Pacific Gas of fee-title to all properties involved is presumed to be planned, as the company has pursued a policy of keeping its financial and operating structures as simple as possible. Hence retirement of the preferred stocks will be involved, possibly through exchange of Pacific Gas preferred for the preferred of the acquired companies.

VOTING POWER

The transaction makes North American Company the largest single stockholder of Pacific Gas. It will own about 32 per cent of Pacific Gas outstanding common stock. The management, however, will remain independent and self-contained. Preferred stockholders as well as common stock owners have their vote in control and direction of policies.

North American Company will own approximately 20 per cent of the combined common and preferred stock outstanding. The New York company's representation will be reduced to 17 per cent when conversion of preferred stock is achieved. At that time Pacific Gas is expected to have more than 85,000 shareholders.

In recognition of its holdings North American Company will have three directors on the Pacific company's board of fifteen, and one member on the executive committee of five.

Among benefits to stockholders and customers cited in the official statement released today by President Hockenbeamer, and Vice-President James B. Black of North American Company are: "Co-ordination of facilities and administration, . . . economies in operation, more efficient use of existing plant facilities, unification of construction programs to meet future requirements and the avoidance of future duplication of large capital investment."

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA COMPANIES UNAFFECTED

The merger of several Northern California gas and power companies with the North American Company of New York will not affect any of the distributing companies in Southern California, according to Paul Overton, chief counsel for the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation.

Mr. Overton said that the combination of the northern companies was the logical outcome of a situation with several of the companies serving the same territories.

YOUNG PLAN APPROVAL APPLAUDED

French Press Confident Chamber Result Will be Repeated in Senate

PARIS, March 30. (AP)—The French press today generally referred to the practically unanimous ratification of the Young plan in the early morning hours as an historical event of major importance.

The newspapers point out that the international bank may now start work toward mobilization of the first annuities to be paid under the plan. The press regards nearly unanimous ratification in the Senate as a foregone conclusion.

The radicals and Socialists in the Chamber voted solidly in favor of ratification, the official vote being 527 for, 38 against, with 21 abstentions and fourteen Deputies absent. The radicals contributed 106, the Socialists ninety-eight approving ballots. The thirty-eight nays included nine Communists and a sprinkling of dissenters in the Center and Right parties.

In the press it was said that "European economic collaboration at last is under way." Le Temps said, "Based on new foundations of financial solidarity of the nations, instead of the formal political accords, peace at last has come to Europe."

EXPENSES OPEN EYES OF GANDHI

Mahatma Now Regards Salary of Viceroy With More Lenient Attitude

BOMBAY (India) March 30. (AP) The heavy expenses of Mahatma Gandhi's volunteers in their march from Ahmadabad to the Gulf of Cambay, where they will manufacture salt in violation of the government monopoly as part of Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign, have led Gandhi to view the size of the salary of Lord Irwin, Viceroy of India, with a more lenient eye.

"I am no longer justified in twitting the Viceroy about his salary," said Gandhi to a group of followers yesterday, with the touch of ironical humor characteristic of him. He was referring to a letter he wrote to the Viceroy in March comparing the vice-regal remuneration with that of the average native's toil.

The expenses of each of his volunteers, now reduced by sickness below their original strength of seventy-nine, might easily amount to fifty times the income of the average native, he explained.

GRANDI ENTERTAINED

Meanwhile, at Chequers, Prime Minister MacDonald was host today to Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy. During an hour's talk after luncheon, he drew the Italian chief delegate for the first time officially into the new and critical political discussions. Together they discussed the Locarno pact, and the interpretation of the League's sanctions and of Article XVI, but at the end of their talk nothing conclusive had been decided.

In an Italian communique this evening it was announced that once more the Italian viewpoint on the problems of disarmament had been explained to Mr. MacDonald as chairman of the conference. As might have been expected, that viewpoint is founded on Italy's demand for naval parity with France.

Signor Grandi, according to the communique, also gave a significant hint that if France gains additional security by a political arrangement with Great Britain, Italy should be granted parity without further question.

STAGE SET FOR AIR MANEUVERS

Open Army Event Tomorrow at Mather Field

Plans Made to Accommodate Many Thousands

Exercises Include Battle for San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30. (Exclusive)—After a month of intense preparation Mather Field at Sacramento is ready for the opening Tuesday of Army Air Corps maneuvers on the largest scale ever attempted in the history of American military aviation.

In the opinion of many high military authorities the next war, if there is one, will be fought in the skies, and residents of Central California are to see during the next three weeks mimic air battles which will have their conclusion in the final week in the attempted repulse by the "blue" air forces of a superior force of "red" enemy ships, troops and planes trying to capture or destroy San Francisco.

Thoroughgoing preparations have been made to accommodate the thousands of spectators who are expected to flock to Mather Field for first-hand view of the exercises. Those who come to the field will be given "orchestra seats in the theater of war." A strip of land, nearly a mile long and fifty feet wide directly in front of the hangars and giving an unobstructed view of the entire field, has been set aside for the spectators. Loud speakers along the "front" will keep them informed. Automobiles will be parked in the rear of the hangars.

A total of more than 25,000 miles will be flown by "blue" aviators tomorrow morning on missions of reconnaissance.

Approximately 1,000,000 man-miles will have been flown during the three weeks of maneuvers.

YOUTH CLEARED OF 'CRIME WAVE'

Analysis of Trials Shows Growth of Morality

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—The United States Children's Bureau today produced figures to dispute statements that there is a crime wave among youths.

In a report based upon a study of crime among boys between 17 and 20 years of age in Chicago the bureau said offenses there by youths of that age were decreasing both numerically and in ratio comparisons.

Census Bureau figures on the country at large also were quoted as showing the number of 18 to 20-year-old males sent to penal institutions as decreasing 11.7 per cent in the thirteen years following 1910, which included the World War period.

More detailed investigations will be made in the coming decennial census, the Children's Bureau said.

CHICAGO EXAMPLE

Chicago was taken as the sample for the youth and crime study because it was the pioneer city in providing a separate court for youths above Juvenile Court age and below the age of majority. Records dating back to 1915 were available to Dorothy Williams Burke, who made the study under supervision of Miss Katharine F. Lenroot, assistant to the chief of the Children's Bureau.

Though frank in its criticism of certain phases of handling youthful crime in Chicago, the Children's Bureau report commended the principle established with its boys' court.

Commenting that all but two States have juvenile courts for children under 16, the report added that "the feeling is developing that treatment different from the usual criminal proceedings should be extended to young people of the next age group."

The following summary was made of 972 cases selected for study by sampling at set intervals the general run of the boys' court:

Violations of liquor laws constituted 1.1 per cent of the charges.

Automobile joy riding, with all its law-breaking possibilities lumped together, comprised 12.2 per cent of the whole group.

Four-fifths of all the charges were based on disorderly conduct and offenses against property.

DELINQUENCY DROPS

The delinquency cases decreased numerically from 7500 in 1915 to 5409 in 1925, the report said. During that period, while the ratio of Municipal Court cases to population was trebling, the cases of boys from 17 to 20 decreased about 41 per cent in ratio to population.

Detailed studies of eighty-two of the young men involved in the 972 cases filled eighty pages of the report. On the basis of this human-factor study the report recommended for older boys "such individual study and scientific treatment as constitute the basis of juvenile court work."

BEAUTY DIES OF INJURIES IN PLUNGE

Allyn King, Once Queen of Follies, Was Victim of Nervous Breakdown

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Allyn King, southern beauty who became a Follies star, died in Bellevue Hospital today from injuries suffered yesterday when she jumped from a window of her bedroom on the fifth floor of an apartment-house.

Miss King had suffered a nervous breakdown, relatives said, as a result of continued dieting to keep the slim figure demanded by the stage. She had been a patient in a private sanatorium for nearly three years. About eighteen months ago she left the sanatorium apparently much improved, and resumed the study of voice, hoping to return to the stage.

The daughter of a physician in Winston Salem, N. C., she went on the stage when she was 17 years of age. One of Ziegfeld's scouts found her singing in a cafe in New Haven, Ct., and she entered the "Follies of 1916." Her rise was rapid and she became prima donna in the "Follies of 1922." At the time of her breakdown she had a contract with the Shuberts.

She was at one time reported engaged to Carl Widman, wealthy Kentucky brewer, and owner of the noted race horse In Memoriam, which once beat Zev.

GIRL FLYER CATAPULTED FROM PLANE

Mildred Kauffman Saved by Parachute When Craft Stalls Upside Down

BUFFALO (N. Y.) March 30. (AP) Mildred Kauffman, Kansas City aviatrix and holder of the woman's world record of forty-six inside loops, escaped with a few slight scratches and bruises after she was catapulted from her plane at a height of 3200 feet today at the Buffalo Airport. She was attempting to break her own record.

She landed safely with the aid of her parachute while the plane crashed to earth, its motor wide open. The accident was witnessed by several thousand persons.

Miss Kauffman said she was making the thirty-first loop when she was thrown from the cockpit as the ship went into a partial stall. Helplessly, she dangled upside down from the plane with her feet caught in the safety strap. After several attempts to right the craft and climb back, the aviatrix kicked herself free and pulled the parachute cord.

GOVERNORS IN MEXICO UNDER FIRE

Four Accused by Federal Officials of Misconduct in Campaign Affairs

MEXICO CITY, March 30. (Exclusive)—Four State Governors are in trouble under what is equivalent in American law to Congressional indictment, accused chiefly of political irregularities in connection with the approaching elections of Deputies and Senators. The accused are the Governors of Chiapas, Puebla, Durango and Guerrero.

Because the usual weekly session of the permanent commission of Congress that acts for the legislative body when in recess was cancelled, all four cases are held up pending a decision at the next session of the commission. Meanwhile Federal committees appointed to investigate the charges in each case are working on their reports on which the permanent commission will act.

All of the Governors, except the executive of Durango who holds a provisional appointment, are constitutionally in office making their removal, should this be decreed, more complicated and entailing considerable legal action. As a result of asserted political irregularities several severe clashes have occurred recently between supporters of the contending factions which have resulted in a number of deaths and injuries.

Joy Overcomes Reprieved Man

OSSINING (N. Y.) March 30. (AP) Fred Edel, recovering from a partial collapse suffered yesterday when he learned his death sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment, said today he felt as if he were "coming out of a fog."

Edel, who previously had been saved from the chair four times by reprieves, was removed yesterday from the Sing Sing prison death house to the hospital for treatment for nerves.

"I didn't realize until I awoke today what it all means to me," he said.

WOMEN'S HONOR LIST GIVEN

Names of Suffrage Leaders to Be Memorialized, Announced by Voters' League

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—With the late Susan B. Anthony leading, the names of twenty-three women, memorialized by their home States as outstanding in the women's suffrage movement, were announced today as a partial national roll of honor by the League of Women Voters.

A $250,000 foundation fund for the league is being amassed with the memorializing of the women leaders. A memorial tablet or scroll also will mark this phase of the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the nineteenth amendment. Definite plans, however, have not yet been decided upon.

The complete national roll of honor is to be announced at the annual League of Women Voters' convention in Louisville, Ky., May 1, in a formal report by the jury of award.

The twenty-three names announced today, with their States, are: Susan B. Anthony, Kansas; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Iowa; the late Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and Mrs. Wilbur Brotherton, Michigan; Mrs. George Gellhorn, Missouri; the late Mrs. Isabelle Beecher Hooker and Miss Caroline Ruutz-Rees, Connecticut; Miss Julia Lathrop, the late Mrs. Florence Sylvester Cheney and the late Mrs. Katherine Hancock Goode, Illinois; Alice Stone Blackwell, the late Julia Ward Howe and the late Lucy Stone, Massachusetts; Mrs. Harriett Taylor Upton and Judge Florence E. Allen, Ohio; the late Miss Maria Sanford and the late Mrs. Andreas Ueland, Minnesota; late Rev. Olympia Brown Willis, Wisconsin, Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, District of Columbia; Mrs. Armenia Smith White, New Hampshire; Mrs. Guildford Dudley and Mrs. George Fort Milton, Tennessee; Miss M. Eleanor Brackenridge, Texas.

TWAIN'S FIRST WORKS FOUND

Newspaper Files Disclose Wit of His Early Days

Discovery Made at Hannibal, Humorist's Home Town

Woodcut Cartoons Included Along With Writings

HANNIBAL (Mo.) March 30. (AP) Long-sought newspaper files containing original first works of Mark Twain, famous humorist, and described by him in his autobiography as representing "my first literary venture," have been discovered in Hannibal, his native home.

They reveal the boy Sam Clemens (Mark Twain) in his "teens" as substituting as editor of his brother's newspaper here and striving to "liven up" the columns of the paper with his wit. His methods reveal him as even then richly possessed of the ingenuity he later instilled in his famed fiction characters, Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn.

The newspapers were found by Rev. C. J. Armstrong, Hannibal pastor and long a student of Mark Twain, among seven volumes of old Hannibal papers preserved by the late W. H. League, boyhood friend of Sam Clemens and shelved away by his daughter, Miss Nettie League.

FINDS DESCRIBED

Dr. Armstrong's discoveries, including one original poem, several witty articles and editorials and a few cleverly designed "woodcut" cartoons by the famous humorist, are described by him in articles published in the Hannibal Courier-Post.

He found copies of the old Hannibal Journal, published by Orion Clemens, elder brother of Mark Twain, in 1851, 1852 and 1853.

Mark Twain worked on the Journal from 1851 to 1853.

His poem traditionally called "To Mary in H—l," his catchy way of using the title he explained to mean "To Mary in Hannibal," was discovered in an issue of the Journal of May 6, 1853. The poem is not entitled "To Mary in H—l," but is "Love Concealed," and is addressed "to Miss Katie of H—l." It is signed "Rambler," now revealed as the earliest nom de plume used by the humorist.

WITTY CORRESPONDENCE

In ensuing issues is a witty correspondence between "Rambler" and "Grumbler," obviously written by Mark Twain in his efforts to "liven up" the paper.

An original poem, believed never before found, is in an issue of the Journal May 12, 1853.

It is entitled "The Heart's Lament," is addressed "To Bettie W.—E. of Tennessee," and is signed "Rambler."

The original woodcuts about the Hannibal citizen who resolved to commit suicide but didn't, and about "a dog-deviled citizen," both referred to by Mark Twain in his autobiography, also were found in the old newspaper files.

The return of Orion to discover that his younger brother had been making the paper "Spicy" is indicated in an editorial by the editor May 13, 1853, saying that "Rambler and his enemies must stop their stuff." This editorial edict seems to have ended Mark Twain's fun and what probably were his first literary and journalistic efforts.

Law Hitting at Phone Company's Film Plan Urged

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 30. (Exclusive)—"The fight of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to control the Fox Film Corporation and its chain of motion-picture theaters is a powerful argument for the immediate passage of the Couzens bill to create a Federal communication commission," said a statement issued by the Audio Research Foundation today. This organization is made up of the independent manufacturers in the talking-picture industry.

"This $4,000,000,000 telephone monopoly has no right to use the patents or the financial power piled up by the contributions of the telephone users of the country to create a private monopoly in a field with which the telephone company has nothing whatever to do. Except for its asserted control of patents, the telephone company has no connection whatever with the motion-picture industry."

INSTRUMENT IMPORTERS

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—Latin America bought 55 per cent of America's exported musical instruments last year, with a sales value of $10,693,096. Canada was second, taking instruments valued at $2,524,349.

DE VALERA HAS NO VOTE HOPES

Election Would be Only Greek Gift, He Says

Cosgrave's Majority Must be Overcome First

Irish Leader Continues Tour for Newspaper Fund

CHICAGO, March 30. (AP)—Eamonn De Valera, former President of the Irish republic and candidate for election to the same office, today said his selection by the Dail Eireann Wednesday is highly improbable, and added that if he were named the gesture would be comparable to the bestowal of a "Greek gift."

"My election next Wednesday is altogether impossible," he said today. "The Cosgrave party and its allies have a majority.

"A minority administration would be constantly harassed and, hampered by the hostile majority opposition and could scarcely hope to put through any measures on which the success of its policies would depend."

Mr. De Valera, who has been in the United States since last December aiding a campaign for funds with which to establish a daily national newspaper in Ireland, left for St. Paul tonight.

AMBASSADOR EDGE BALKS AT GIVING CAFE EXHIBITION

NICE (France) March 30. (AP)—Ambassador Walter E. Edge, arriving here today in pursuance of his industrial inspection tour of Southeastern France, had a shock when he discovered a large restaurant was advertising the fact that the American Ambassador would dine there this evening and selling tickets at 60 francs (about $2.35,) to those desirous of dining in the company of the Ambassador.

Mr. Edge, who is on a tour of commercial study, felt this was carrying commerce a little too far, and announced he would refuse to be put on exhibition at any price.

The management then arranged to have his party secluded from the other diners by screens, plants and palms.

AUTHOR DOUBTS BILL'S WISDOM

South Dakotan Hits Measure Sponsored by Him

Increasing Commissioners' Power Held Dangerous

More Judges Thought Best Congestion Relief

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—Doubt that the legislation recommended by the Law Enforcement Commission to broaden powers of United States commissioners to handle minor liquor cases will bring about desired relief in congested Federal courts was expressed today by Representative Christopherson, Republican, South Dakota, who is sponsoring the measure in the House.

An increase in the number of Federal judges in courts having crowded dockets, he said, will result in speeding up justice without Congress becoming involved in a question of constitutionality by broadening the commissioners' powers.

OPINION DIFFERS

Christopherson declared the Judiciary Committee is of a divided opinion on the bill, however, not only as to constitutionality but, as to whether it would actually bring about relief in the Federal courts.

The measure will provide that a Federal judge review the report of the commissioner handling a case, and gives the defendant the right to ask for trial by jury.

The procedure under the Wickersham plan, Christopherson said, might result in added court congestion and subsequent delay in justice.

MORE JUDGES

If the Wickersham recommendation were discarded, the South Dakotan added, the committee probably will recommend legislation to provide for additional judges in the districts where congestion is most acute, particularly in New York, Kentucky and District of Columbia.

"Appointment of additional Federal judges," Christopherson continued, "should not be considered as a temporary expediency to meet the problem of handling prohibition cases because business in Federal courts is on the increase. Should prohibition cases slacken the continued growth in Federal court business will keep busy the additional judges, who will be appointed for life-time service."

BILL UP THURSDAY

The House Judiciary Committee will consider the commissioner's bill Thursday after the dry forces conclude the presentation Wednesday of their witness in prohibition hearings which have been under way since January.

Prohibitionists plan to conclude their argument with F. Scott McBride, general secretary of the Anti-Saloon League, as the leading witness. After a two-week recess the Judiciary Committee will listen to rebuttal testimony from the wets. Pierre S. Du Pont of Wilmington, Del., is again to take the stand for advocates of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

TO CALL RASKOB

In the meantime the Senate lobby investigating committee is preparing to inquire into the activities of both wet and dry organizations, including the Methodist Board of Temperance, the Anti-Saloon League and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, plans to call John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to inquire whether he has any connection with the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, who requested the Senate lobby committee to look into the Methodist Board of Temperance and the Anti-Saloon League, probably will be one of the first witnesses to be called.

Atty.-Gen. Mitchell is scheduled to appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee within a few days to express his views on the Norris resolution calling for an investigation into prohibition enforcement. A Senate judiciary subcommittee also will open hearings this week on the Williamson bill to transfer prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

CUCKOOS HAVE BIRTHDAY

FREIBURG (Baden) March 30. (Exclusive)—This year brings the 200th anniversary of the Black Forest cuckoo clocks, which are known all over the world. The first one was made by the clockmaker Franz Anton Ketterer in Schonwald in 1730. Ketterer also discovered a method of making cogwheels by machinery, doing away with filing them out by hand.

FUNERAL PYRES FOR WIDOWS

Relicts of Ancient Prussians Burned with Husbands

KONIGSBERG, March 30. (Exclusive)—The excavations that are being carried on in the Samland district of East Prussia have disclosed finds that indicate that the widows of the most ancient inhabitants of this part of Germany were burned alive on their husbands' funeral pyres. The conclusion is the more probable because it is known that these ancient Prussians preserved much of the language and customs of their original Indogermanic home.

SPEED BLAMED FOR ACCIDENTS

Drivers' Condition Normal in Most Wrecks

But Too Fast Pace Left No Margin of Safety

Straight Roads Scene of Many Disasters

SACRAMENTO, March 30. (AP)—Give an experienced auto driver a fast car, a straight, smooth highway, a clear day and let him "step on the gas" and you have a potential fatal accident. This is what statistics compiled by the State Motor Vehicle Division indicate.

A recapitulation of figures assembled on accidents on the State for one year showed the following interesting results:

That in 85.02 per cent of accidents, fatal and otherwise, the driver's condition was apparently normal; in 81.36 per cent, passenger cars were involved; 80.13 per cent occurred on straight roads; 66.13 per cent occurred during clear weather; 61.21 per cent occurred where the road surface was dry; 49.78 per cent involved collision between two vehicles.

Approximately 60 per cent of all accidents occurred within the urban district, the figures showed. 56.93 per cent occurred at street intersections, 71.85 per cent involved pedestrians apparently in normal condition and 49.69 per cent occurred in daylight.

TILSON ATTACKS FOES OF HOOVER

Democratic Leaders Charged With Hiding Facts

Sights Studied Efforts at Misrepresentation

List of Beneficial Legislative Recommendations Cited

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—A charge that Democratic leaders concealed facts in discussing publicly the first year of President Hoover's administration was made today by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the Republican leader.

In a statement issued through the Republican National Committee, Tilson said that "in the welter of discussion in which some of our Democratic friends have been indulging there has been such a continuous concealment of the facts as to make it appear that there has been a studied effort at misrepresentation."

Tilson made the statement public shortly after leaving the White House, where he has been convalescing since last Tuesday, following a severe attack of the grippe.

"So that the situation may be clarified," the Republican leader said, "and the record kept straight, I list here some of the high lights of the legislative proposals recommended by President Hoover and passed by the Congress."

IMPORTANT MEASURES

The list consisted of six items: The $160,000,000 tax-reduction program; the $500,000,000 farm-relief legislation; the $230,000,000 public buildings program; the $300,000,000 good roads legislation; the act setting up a permanent Federal Radio Commission, and the reapportionment measure.

"Most of these measures have their direct reflection upon business conditions, and more especially tax reduction and the buildings and roads bills," he said. "These last two measures represent the government's own part of the very comprehensive program which President Hoover so promptly and energetically set about after the stock market crash last fall as a means of restoring confidence and alleviating the unemployment in the country."

The building program would not only permit the government to proceed with housing itself throughout the country, Tilson said, but would "furnish employment to many thousands of skilled workers, and along with the construction program of public utilities and other private enterprise will continue to augment the improvement already noticeable in the employment situation."

WHAT ACTION MEANS

After eight years of delay, Tilson said, the farm-relief bill was passed last June along the lines recommended by President Hoover. He added:

"This legislation has already brought help and courage to agriculture. An illustration of the effective assistance the Farm Board is able to render agriculture was shown by the prompt action of the board in the recent embryo wheat panic, which, if left alone, might have precipitated a major disturbance in commodity prices generally."

The public roads bill would permit the States to extend road construction with greater Federal aid, he said, and would be a move toward relieving unemployment. The radio and reapportionment measures were held up as outstanding accomplishments and Tilson cited the creation of the commission to study the policy toward Haiti as another.

Within a brief period, Tilson added, the Haitian commission has completed its study and President Hoover has proclaimed a new policy.

"Under this policy," the leader said, "there will be a gradual withdrawal of the marines from Haiti with United States intervention in Haitian affairs limited definitely to those activities for which provision is made for American assistance by treaty or by specific agreement between the two governments, and a complete withdrawal at the end of the treaty made in 1915, which expires in 1936."

OKLAHOMA'S LARGEST OIL WELL 'WILD'

Gusher Defies Efforts at Capping While It Spouts 48,000 Barrels a Day

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30. (AP) Running wild, Oklahoma's newest and largest gusher today continued to spout thousands of barrels of petroleum high above its derrick, defying all efforts of oil men to control its flow. A stiff wind scattered the oil spray across the countryside at a mounting loss to the owner of the well, the Mary Sudik No. 1, of the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Company.

The well came in last Wednesday as a dry gasser, but later blew itself in for an initial oil production estimated by operators at approximately 2000 barrels an hour. Oil men estimate its gas flow at 200,000,000 cubic feet a day.

Indian Brigand Faces Theft and Murder Charges

KARACHI (India) March 30. (AP) Pir Pagharo Sahib, arrested last week after a raid on Rohri Fort, his high-walled stronghold, has been charged with murder and theft, it was announced today.

Eight officers and 105 constables who raided the fort found a large supply of cartridges, revolvers and rifles, also large quantities of opium and liquor, and a youth 22 years of age imprisoned in a large box. The youth had been missing several months. It was asserted here today that the youth's mother, who petitioned a magistrate to search for her son, was murdered later.

Pir Pagharo Sahib, although only 22, is an influential Moslem religious leader with thousands of followers. "Pir" is a title given a religious teacher or "saint."

GRUNDY ASSAILS DAVIS BACKERS

Charges Conspiracy to Gain Control of State

Atterbury and Philadelphia "Gang" Linked in "Plot"

Says They Sought Pact With Him to Aid Hoover

PHILADELPHIA, March 30. (AP)—United States Senator Grundy, who seeks the Republican nomination for Senator, issued a statement today attacking W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Republican national committeeman from this State, and members of the "war board" of William S. Vare who are backing Secretary of Labor Davis for Senator and Francis Shunk Brown for Governor.

Senator Grundy coupled the names of Councilman Charles B. Hall, Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham, and State Senator Samuel W. Salus of the Vare organization in his attack on Atterbury.

"CONSPIRACY" TO RULE

"By grace of the political machine now guided by the so-called "war board" composed of Tom Cunningham, Charlie Hall, Sam Salus, et al," the statement says, "Mr. Atterbury is now the Republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania, and in his dual positions as Republican national committeeman and president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Mr. Atterbury has been and is the directing hand in the conspiracy being carried out by Cunningham, Hall, Salus and their pawns, by which the Philadelphia gang and the Pennsylvania Railroad are attempting to grab control of the State government and the public treasury, dictate the personnel and policy of the Public Service Commission, and dominate all the important relationships of this great State with the Federal government."

AGAINST WHAT?

The statement asserts that "in a floundering effort to explain the political conspiracy that has been afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad-Philadelphia gang combination, Hall says they sought an alliance with me 'in order that President Hoover's hand might be upheld.' I leave it to others to resent the impudent audacity of these words," says Senator Grundy.

"However, Mr. Atterbury, as the Republican National Committeeman from Pennsylvania, is, officially at least, the ranking member of the Republican party in Pennsylvania in the party's relationship to Federal affairs. It would seem to me to be in order, therefore, and hence I make the suggestion, that Mr. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the directing head of this Pennsylvania-Railroad-Philadelphia gang combination, explain to the people of Pennsylvania in just what way that sinister combination is 'upholding President Hoover's hand'—and against what."

Young Mother Escapes Unharmed as Suitor Tries to Wound Her, Too

WENATCHEE (Wash.) March 30. (AP)—As the result of a double shooting Saturday night at Cashmere, near here, in a love affair over a young prospective divorcee and mother of a 3-month-old baby, Walter Hornsby was killed and Delbert Brown is hovering between life and death in a local hospital. Lela Morris, 17 years of age, the woman in the case, is watching at Brown's bedside.

Jilted by the woman, Brown said he believed Hornsby responsible. He fired four shots into Hornsby's back, then turned his revolver on the girl, who grappled with him and escaped after a brief struggle, leaving the baby in the cabin as she ran to obtain the aid of officers. The baby was unharmed.

Brown returned to his home after killing Hornsby and shot himself through the chest.

ARRIVAL OPENS NEW SERVICE

Motorship Dagfred Here on Her Maiden Voyage

First of Four Vessels for Coast-Australia Run

Port Activities Spurred by Thirty Incoming Ships

BY WALDO DRAKE

Pathfinder of Swayne & Hoyt's new North Pacific-Australia Line, the new Norwegian motorship Dagfred, arrived at the port yesterday from Oslo on her maiden voyage. Harry Adam, district manager for Swayne & Hoyt, announced that the Dagfred is the first of four thirteen-knot motorships, which will operate on a monthly frequency in the service.

Los Angeles Harbor will be the terminal port, the vessels sailing direct from here to Australia and New Zealand, after loading on Puget Sound, and at Portland and San Francisco, and will return to this port direct from the Antipodes, sailing thence up the coast. It is planned later to increase the frequency of the new line to fortnightly sailings, said Mr. Adam, with refrigerated motorships now building in Europe.

The Dagfred will sail out of Los Angeles for Australia on her pathfinding voyage on April 30, next. She will be followed late in May by the motorship Brand. In August the new motorship Minerva will arrive from Norway to enter the run and a fourth unit is yet to be named. The North Pacific-Australia Line units are owned jointly by two Oslo shipowners, John Pedersen & Son and H. M. Wrangell, A.S.

HARBOR HAS DAY OF HEAVY TRAFFIC

Thirty ships arriving at the port yesterday kept all sections of the harbor in unusual activity. The petroleum industry took the lead, with fourteen tankers coming in to load out approximately 1,000,000 barrels of oil. The offshore passenger trade was led by the Panama-Pacific liner California, in from the north and out this morning for New York with 500 passengers and the Dollar globe circler President Polk, from New York and out this noon for the Orient.

Merritt, Chapman & Scott's salvage steamer Peacock spent yesterday getting gear aboard the wrecked Japanese steamer Rhine Maru, which went on the rocks off Point Sur in thick weather last Friday night. Capt. M. A. Varnum radioed last night that much work is ahead before the Rhine Maru's flooded holds can be pumped out.

As the first molasses tanker to discharge at the terminal of the Pacific Molasses Company, Ltd., the British Molasses Company's new Athelsultan yesterday was pumping 19,200 barrels of Philippine molasses directly into the tanks at the Terminal Island establishment.

The Athelsultan, on her maiden voyage, today will shift to the Shell Oil Company terminals to load 80,000 barrels of fuel oil for Japan.

On her nineteenth trip around the world, the Dollar liner President Polk was an arrival yesterday afternoon from New York. Among her passengers was Norman F. Lang, Indianapolis capitalist, en route around the world; Miss Matilda Hull of Brooklyn and Mr. and Mrs. Meigs Bland of Chicago.

Bank Line's around-the-world freighter Comliebank was in yesterday from Norfolk to load 6500 barrels of fuel oil in her deep tanks for Yokohama delivery.

John E. Marshall, Bank Line agent, announced that the Bank Trading and Transport Company is replacing its entire globe cargo fleet with eight new 13.5-knot steamers and six new 14.5-knot motorships, the last steamer to be on the run in August and the first motorliner in September, next. Twenty-one-day schedule will be maintained.

Swayne & Hoyt terminals this morning will have the Calmar intercoastal freighter Massmar in from Baltimore and Philadelphia to discharge 4000 tons of steel and general cargo, and also the Pacific-Gulf freighter Point Montara, southbound. Tomorrow her sister, the Point Arena, will be in from the Gulf to discharge 1800 tons.

BILL TO RETIRE FLYER OPPOSED

Navy Objects to Program for Lieut. Williams

Officials Say It Would be Blow to Morale

Racer Resigned When Given Sea-Duty Assignment

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—The Navy Department is opposed to legislation pending before the House Naval Committee to retire Lieut. Alford J. Williams, noted speed and acrobatic aviator, with the rank of a captain, because to single him out would "be a severe blow at navy morale."

Chairman Britten of the House Naval Committee was advised by Acting Secretary Jahncke in a letter made public today that "in the opinion of the Navy Department there is no justifiable warrant for placing Lieut. Williams on the retired list."

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

Williams resigned, effective May 8, when he was ordered to sea duty, following his failure last year to get his privately built Mercury racer in condition for the Schneider Cup races in England. He gave as his reason his desire to develop speed planes. The Navy Department revoked the order sending him to sea and accepted his resignation.

Representative Fitzgerald, Republican, Ohio, introduced a bill to retire Williams with the rank of captain and with retired pay and allowances.

Britten asked the Navy for a report on the measure after a review of Williams's record, which shows he enlisted November 10, 1917, and later earned a commission. Jahncke wrote that a study of Williams's service career showed that he had "specialized in individual flight and in racing."

CAREER OUTLINED

"He is unquestionably one of the Navy's best individual flyers, particularly in acrobatic manoeuvers and in racing, in which fields his work along with that of Lieuts. Rittenhouse, Irvine, Brow, Cuddihy and others brought great credit on the Navy," the letter said. "However, Lieut. Williams has had no experience on sea duty or with organized combatant units, either afloat or ashore, and, consequently, is not proficient in such essentials of military aviation as tactics with gunnery.

"In May, 1928, Lieut. Williams engaged in a valuable study of inverted flight, the merit of which was recognized by the award of a Distinguished Flying Cross.

"The Navy Department considers that Lieut. Williams has rendered conspicuous service to the Navy and to the country in addition to the knowledge of safety of aviation in the fields of high-speed flying and in acrobatics."

CATHOLICS CELEBRATE JOYFUL FETE

Laetare Sunday Observed With Due Church Pomp; Pope Blesses Rose

ROME, March 30. (AP)—Laetare Sunday, the joyful feast in the ecclesiastical calendar that corresponds to the mi-careme or media quaresima which the laity celebrated last Thursday, was commemorated today with due pomp in all Rome's churches, in the Vatican City, and generally throughout the Catholic world.

On this Sunday, fourth in Lent, the clergy were by century-old usage permitted to wear rose-colored vestments instead of the somber Lenten purple they have worn for nearly a month.

In the Vatican City the Pope himself performed the nearly 1000-year-old ceremony of blessing the golden rose with incense and holy water, thereafter pouring balsam and musk into the cup formed by the fragile petals. The flower of precious metal was then carried in solemn procession to the sacristy of the Pope's private chapel.

"WISEST WOMAN" CAN KEEP SECRET

Mme. Edith Bobe

DIVORCE OF MME. BOBE REVEALED

"Wisest Woman" of New York Parted from Spouse Seventeen Months

NEW YORK, March 30. (Exclusive)—Edith Bobe, known as "one of Broadway's wisest women," who was revealed as proprietor of a modiste's shop for the pets of rich men after footpads de luxe took $100,000 in jewels from her in a 1924 hold-up, has been secretly divorced from Robert L. Hague for seventeen months.

Hague, who married the dressmaker after he had been identified as her covictim in the hold-up, was divorced by her in Portland, Me., October 19, 1927, the records show.

Since then Mrs. Lala Cramer, a Washington widow, has announced her engagement to Hague, who is vice-president and marine superintendent of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

But, despite this announcement to Washington friends, both Hague and the dressmaker have insisted that they are not divorced.

The mystery rests between the glib little Mme. Bobe, a former Detroit beauty, who won the "wisest-woman" title from police investigating the 1924 hold-up and the Washington widow, whose husband, Charles F. Cramer, killed himself in the old Warren G. Harding house at Washington while under fire in the Veterans' Bureau scandal.

Girls Brighter Than Boys on Study of Bible

ST. CHARLES (Mo.) March 30. (AP)—Parents now may determine how quickly a child is likely to grasp the meaning of a biblical quotation.

For 8-year-olds the chances of understanding are found to average forty-two in 100 and for 16-year-old intelligence eighty-eight, with a regular increase in ages between.

This finding is reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Ralph T. Case of Lindenwood College. The analysis is a guide in selecting passages for children which shall be readily understandable.

Tests were tried upon 3200 school children in four representative Iowa school systems. Dr. Case found "there proved to be a slightly superior comprehension on the part of girls at every mental age."

CANVAS FEED TROUGHS

OGDEN (Utah) March 30. (AP)—Sheepmen of this area have adopted a method of feeding their flocks from strips of canvas, laid out on the ground with a steel rib every ten feet to prevent curling.

Commission Head Declares for Compromise

No Immediate Prospect of Independence Seen

Opinion Raises Storm Among Native Debaters

MANILA, March 30. (AP)—Senator Juan Sumulong, minority party leader, at a banquet tonight in honor of the departure this week of the Philippine independence commission, stated that there is no immediate hope of Filipinos obtaining their independence and urged that they accept a compromise.

This is the first public expression in the Philippines of a leader's willingness to give up the Filipino traditional demands of immediate, absolute and complete independence from the United States. The speech created a storm of conflicting comment among leaders.

Sumulong heads a permanent commission going to the United States to give vigor to the long-standing campaign to persuade the American people to give early consideration to the status and station of the Philippines.

"We are forcing the independence issue," said Senator Sumulong, "but our stand should not be so rigid that it will prevent the possibility of acceptance of any compromise measures in the end."

HOOVER TO GET GIFT OF BOOKS

Nation's Sellers Collecting White House Library

Five Hundred Volumes Will be Placed on Shelves

Idea Originated With Man in San Francisco

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Don Quixote, Sherlock Holmes, Tom Sawyer and Uncle Remus are about to occupy the White House permanently for the mental diversion of America's Presidential families.

The nation's booksellers are collecting a home library of 500 volumes as a gift to the executive mansion.

The arbiters of the first family's reading include Alice Roosevelt Longworth of Washington and Douglas S. Watson of San Francisco, both of whom know what a White House is without personally purchased books.

The idea originated with Mr. Watson, father-in-law of Herbert Hoover, Jr. The evening after President Hoover's inauguration and before the Hoover private library was installed, Mr. Watson noticed that members of the family wished to turn to books for relaxation and that none was available.

Informed of this, the American Booksellers' Association undertook to present the White House with a comprehensive choice, which now is virtually complete and provides for a catholicity of taste.

First Los Angeles Boat Show Brings Tang of Seven Seas to Landsmen

The latest models in motorized craft, from tiny speedboats and canoes powered by outboard motors to 48-foot cruisers, are displayed by exhibitors at the first Los Angeles Boat Show which opened Saturday at the Ambassador Auditorium. A tang of the Seven Seas has been caught by the exhibitors in their displays. Relics of the old sailing days when buccaneers roved the high seas and the fate of a merchantman depended largely upon luck and the amount of canvas she was able to carry, are ranged alongside the most modern of nautical instruments and equipment. The show will run until Saturday night with an afternoon show opening daily at 2:30 o'clock. Above is a panorama of the interior of the auditorium shortly before the gates were thrown open. Below are camera shots taken during the day at the show. (Times photo.)

LOTT RALLIES TO TRIM DOEG

Santa Monican Wilts Before Perfect Placements

Canadian Davis Cup Star is Winner in Doubles

MIAMI BEACH (Fla.) March 30. (AP)—George Lott, Chicago, fourth ranking amateur tennis player in the country, defeated Johnny Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., third ranking player, in the finals of the South Florida championship today. The scores were 2-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 8-6.

GEORGE LOTT.

Behind almost from the start, Lott relied on his overhand game and a smashing serve to overcome Doeg's early advantage. It was late in the final set that the break came to give the Chicagoan the victory. Lott was four-five in games, and 0-40 in points on his own service in the tenth game. Lott pulled the game out of the fire by a superlative display of placements.

In the doubles finals, Marcelle Rainville, Davis Cup star of Montreal, and Fred Baggs, Ocean City, N. J., won from Lott and Sam Hardy, New York, 7-5, 6-6, 6-3.

Stanford Coach Has Never Seen Oxy Track

Plans Inspection Tour of Patterson Field

BY BRAVEN DYER

"Dink" Templeton, Stanford track coach, will probably come to Los Angeles today or Wednesday to find out if the Occidental College cinderpath is a fit place for his athletes to take their dual-meet drubbing from the Trojans of Southern California.

"DINK" TEMPLETON

The meet is scheduled to be held one week from next Saturday. Ten days ago Templeton let out a squawk and declared the Oxy track didn't suit him by a long shot.

Saturday, Templeton and Gwynn Wilson, Trojan graduate manager, talked things over in Berkeley and after two hours of heavy chinning were just about where they started from.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Dink wound up by saying he might wire Wilson that he would be down Monday (today) to look things over. In the next breath the Stanford mentor declared he might not come down at all and that un...

Bush Checks Buc Onslaught After Root is Routed

National Champs Get Seven Runs in Second Round

BY BOB RAY

To suppress a growing doubt that had sprung up hereabouts that there might have been some mistake about their being National League champions last year, Joe McCarthy's Chicago Cubs finally walloped the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday at Wrigley Field. The score was 13 to 7 and the win provided the Cubs with their lone victory in the four-game series against Jewel Ens's battling Buccaneers.

GUY BUSH

Some 20,164 optimistic souls, braving the weather man's forecast of rain for yesterday and overhanging clouds that seemed ready to bear out his prediction any minute, packed the park and seemed to get quite a thrill out of the heavy hitting dished up by the Chicago clouters.

It was gilt-edge hurling by Guy Bush, the Mississippi sidewheeler, who busses 'em up like bad news to the batters, that enabled the Cubs to win after the Pirates had clouted another Chicago ace, Charley Root, for seven runs in three innings. Bush blanked the Bucs with two hits in the last six rounds and made his job look easy.

Tilden and Coen, finalists in the men's singles, declined to play, giving their close friendship as the reason. Miss Ryan was on the courts ready to meet Baroness Von Reznicek of Germany in the women's finals, only to discover that the German player had returned home late last night.

MERCHANTS TRIP ANGELS

BOBBY JONES SHOOTS 69 IN PRACTICE FOR "OPEN"

AUGUSTA (Ga.) March 30. (AP)—Bobby Jones showed a 69 in a practice round over the Forrest Hills-Ricker course here today, and thus served notice on the contingent of professional shooters that the Atlanta amateur was ready for his second battle of the year with the cash players.

BOBBY JONES.

Jones's card was just one stroke above the record for the course, held by Ernest Ryall, professional at the club, who is also entered in the two-day $5000 southeastern open golf tournament which starts here tomorrow.

Virtually all of the more than three-score golfers who plan to participate in the tournament engaged in practice rounds over the courses.

The first thirty-six holes tomorrow will be over the hill course at the country club where seventy-two represents par for the rolling layout. The championship rounds are to be fought over the Forrest Hills-Ricker course Tuesday.

Lack of a putting touch cost Jones the victory in the Savannah open in February, but the Atlanta golfing barrister has his carpet shots rolling true now and is ready for the fray.

During the afternoon, Bobby played another round with Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck (N. Y.) professional, and two local amateurs.

UNBEATEN DUAL SQUADS TANGLE

Border City Oval is Scene of Important Meet

Aztecs Have Powerful Track Team This Season

Four Conference Marks May Fall at San Diego

The Southern Conference dual track meet supremacy will be decided next Saturday when Occidental journeys south to clash with the Aztecs on the San Diego State oval. Coach C. E. Peterson's Staters are undefeated and hold impressive victories over Redlands and Pomona. The latter victory was a real upset and clearly demonstrates the power of the Aztec squad which worries the Oxy mentor, Coach Joe (Timberwolf) Pipal, not a little for he witnessed the meet.

COACH JOE PIPAL.

On paper the Tiger aggregation is a slight favorite to win the final dual meet before the conference trackfest, but the San Diego crew has the advantage of the meet being held in their own territory while Oxy will have an overnight boat trip to digest. Arrangements have been completed, according to Phil Ellsworth, graduate manager at Occidental, for Pipal's squad of twenty-five cinder stars to leave on the Emma Alexander Friday night and dock Saturday morning.

The Aztecs are certain of four first places with Brose in the hammer throw and discus, Fox in the low sticks and broad jump, and also several more even breaks at firsts in the mile, shot put, half-mile and high jump. Oxy has sure wins in the dashes 440, two-mile, high hurdles and pole vault as well as the relay. The results of the meet will depend upon how the second and third places are divided.

At least four league records will be in danger Saturday when the Aztec star, Johnny Brose, shoots at a new hammer mark, Jensen of Oxy in the pole vault, Wendall Smith in the high timber, Ed Carvey in the javelin, and Freddie Appleton and Johnny Walker, Tiger quarter-milers, who face Lawrence Peterson, fast Aztec. Cecil Howard may lower the sprint marks also for the Tiger team. A real battle will be staged between Brown of the State team and Rad Crawford, star Oxy miler.

Fierke Upsets Yates at Nets

With J. Fierke furnishing a big upset by beating Lee Yates in a close match, quarter-final events were played yesterday in the Harvard Tennis Club tournament. Yates is a well-known player, having won a set from Manual Alonso, Spanish Davis Cup player, recently.

Another upset was registered in the women's singles when T. Blevins won over A. Dennison in a thrilling three-set battle. The score was 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. The third upset was recorded in the men's doubles, Edwards and White downing Bond and Fierke, 6-4, 3-6, 12-10.

Yesterday's results:

Men's quarter-finals—W. Condon defeated G. Pierce, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2; B. Brashear defeated R. Edwards, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3; J. Fierke defeated Lee Yates, 6-4, 4-6, 13-10; B. Wanamaker defeated H. Stoke, 6-4, 6-2.

AN INSIDE TIP

(To Bob and Ed Walsh, Jr.)

If you two kids would like to wear
A pitching crown upon your hair—
If you would like to reach for fame
And wind up with a winning name
By turning hitters into wrecks
And standing them upon their necks,
With more zip that the human eye
Can follow as the ball sails by—
If you, in short, would like to be
The whiz bangs of this famboree—
I'll hand you out an inside tip
That I can guarantee won't rip;
Don't waste your time on some new fad,
Just use the stuff your old man had.

Renewing Old Wars

AUGUSTA (Ga.) March 30.—The Battle of Augusta, now under way, is full of the spirit of old wars. The southern air is rife with the re-echo of golfing shots heard round the bunkered world.

And Bobby Jones, as usual when he starts, is in the center of the maelstrom. First of all there is his return duel with Horton Smith, the young Missouri phenom who led the Georgian by a stroke in the recent Savannah open.

But the line forms a much longer distance back. It starts with Gene Sarazen who also led Bobby by a stroke at Skokie in 1922, a matter of eight years ago, when they were both around 20. Now they are grizzled veterans of 28.

In the field here today there is Bobby Cruickshank, the stocky Scot who fought Bobby to a draw at Inwood in the United States open of 1923 and lost in the play-off when Jones almost hit the pin on the home green with a long iron from 180 yards away. That blow brought Bobby his first major title. The field also includes Cyril Walker, who beat Jones in 1924 at Detroit in another open with the Georgian in second place.

In 1926 at Scioto, Columbus, Jones and Joe Turnesa scrambled together down the stretch of another championship and on this occasion Jones picked up five strokes in the last nine holes with a remarkable 35 made in a midwestern gale.

There is another entry here by the name of Johnny Farrell. In 1928 at Olympia Fields Jones and Farrell finished the seventy-two-hole test in a dead heat and in the play-off the young Irish professional led by a stroke as both finished with birdies on the last two holes. This was a tug of war that none who saw it will ever forget. And there is Al Espinoza, the fourth professional to tie Jones in an open championship, but in this play-off the professional was badly crushed.

Running the Gantlet

Jones, at one time or another, has had a hand-to-hand conflict down the stretch with many of these now assaulting his defense of Georgia soil. Sarazen, Farrell, Cruickshank, Walker, Turnesa, Espinoza and Horton Smith are in the line-up here and each has a memory of some sizzling scrap with the southern star.

Four of them have beaten him at one time or another in open tournaments, but in turn he has beaten all four and many of them more than once or twice. Jones has always been the big target they were aiming at.

Main interest here is in the return battle of Jones and Horton Smith as the Joplin wanderer beat Bobby at Savannah and his record for the last eighteen months has been one of the greatest in the history of golf. In that time he has won more than sixteen open tournaments from strong fields between Honolulu and Berlin.

Young Smith has traveled from Honolulu to Berlin and back to Honolulu again in his eternal roving from course to course. And now, via Augusta and other battlefields of golf, Smith is on his way back to Scotland, France and Germany, where he and Bobby will meet in three more national open contests.

Jones and Smith carry most of the interest in this southeastern open, which will be played over two fine courses, but the counter-charge of such stars as Sarazen, Farrell and others may be keen enough to upset both.

The whole scene here has all the buzz and excitement of another open where local and State interest in Bobby's stand against the assaulting professionals is much sharper than even a national championship can know.

A Dazzling 100

These sporting week-ends have already begun to crack with unusual stuff. When Cy Leland ran the 100 in 9 7-10s. against the wind at Austin, the flying ranger moved about as swiftly as man has ever run. Three watches caught him at 9 3-5s., and those who know what wind resistance means in any race can get a clearer idea of his speed.

Claude Bracey, another Texan, is no truck horse, but the fast-traveling Leland beat Bracey by two yards. Leland wasn't bucking any gentle zephyr. He was throwing feet and body into a stout breeze and he was also moving over a damp track. This galloping Texan might yet be the sprinter to set a new mark.

These Fight Decisions

Another week-end outbreak came in the decision settling the McLarnin-Thompson fight. Apparently, no two pairs of eyes ever see a fight from the same angle. McLarnin was given the verdict but if Thompson lost, then Man-o'-War never won a race.

An injury to McLarnin's right hand removed a lot of the dynamite from his fist in the first round and this probably accounted for his lack of steam. But that wasn't Thompson's fault. He won, but he missed the chaplet of apple blossoms.

Why not try out the system of tossing a coin after any fight that doesn't finish with a knockout? At least, the net average couldn't be much worse.

ARIZONA TEAM TO FACE BRUINS

U.C.L.A. Trackmen Favored to Annex Meet Saturday

The University of Arizona track team will invade the State of California this week-end, meeting the Bruin track-and-field squad Saturday afternoon on the Westwood track. An arrangement between the two schools will limit the number of competitors on both sides to fifteen men.

The Wildcat tennis squad will also make the trip with the cindermen, meeting Coach Bill Ackerman's varsity netters at U.C.L.A. Saturday afternoon on the Westwood courts.

Last year the Bruins ventured into Arizona and handed the natives of the desert a handsome shellacking at Tucson. Due to this victory of 1929, and an improved track squad at U.C.L.A. this year, the locals will be favored over the visitors Saturday. However, Arizona is said to have a lot of promising young material, and may surprise.

Coach Trotter is having a difficult time in picking his fifteen "iron men" for the meet with the Wildcats, although some of the Westwood athletes are cinches to compete. Foremost among the cinches is "Chunk" Smith, stellar sophomore sprinter, who has won 10 points in every meet so far this season, coming through to win firsts in both the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash. Capt. Johnny Hill, who also runs the short dashes in fast time, is another cinch, since he is also the best U.C.L.A. entry in the shotput.

Kenenth Knight, star broad jumper, can also run the low hurdles, the pole vault and a lap of the relay team. Ray Smith, distance-running expert, is another sure shot to compete in the mile and two-mile races.

TURF RESULTS FROM BORDER

Caliente cup. The Allo Carroldo stable hope won by three lengths, pulling up over Scimitar of the Agua Caliente stable. Wirt G. Bowman got the show.

Alexander Pantages went to the top with the rise of the barrier and never relinquished the lead. At the end of the first mile he had about three lengths on Scimitar, who was always second best. Rounding the far turn last time around, Scimitar began to move up. But when Jockey F. Catrone left him down the big horse had nothing left. Alexander Pantages responded meanwhile to Jockey Georgie Woolf's call and came on to draw away and then was eased up at the end.

The winner ran the two miles in 3:25, eight seconds under the Agua Caliente track record set by Aurous.

The best time ever made in the two-mile stake, which was run as the Tia Juana cup in past seasons, was chalked up by Little Chief, owned by I. B. Humphreys of Denver, in 1924. Little Chief's mark was 3:24. Scimitar won last year and was the favorite in the stake today.

A field of six went to the post. There was a brief delay as the start was made from the track, as there are no starting stalls at the mile mark. Alexander Pantages went to the top at once with Scimitar in closest pursuit. This pair handled the pace all to themselves. Trieze, Golden Sweep and Naishapur, the latter topweight of the field, finished behind the three leaders. Naishapur was practically pulled up at the end.

Ervast, Baron Long's Paicines gelding, won the Adios Handicap, secondary feature of the closing program of the first winter race meeting of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club. The fleet 4-year-old gelding beat Shasta Bullet and Good-and-Hot home in the six-furlong event in the good time of 1:11. My Dandy, top weight of the field with 132 pounds, was caught flat-footed when the barrier went up.

The exodus of horses and horsemen which has been under way for several days, will take real form tomorrow when special trains of horse cars will leave for many points.

JUNIOR OLYMPIC GAMES Training Tips

BY BOYD COMSTOCK
Director Junior Olympic Games

"GO"

Most sprinters fail to use the arms to advantage when the final command is given. Note that the figure shown exhibits an equal amount of leg and arm action, the upper-cut punch action of the forward arm to balance and aid the knee action of the opposite leg. The other arm swings to the rear for balance and to give force to the return swing. This arm swing and knee lift puts the body in position for a strong leg drive on the part of the other front leg. Many sprinters drive off the rear leg or both legs and thereby get a jumpy action instead of a smooth come-out. The rear leg does push but it is more of a pushing lift. The first step is not a long one and is a knee lift action.

THE FIRST FEW STRIDES

The first few strides are lift action efforts and should not be made for distance. The extreme forward lean or "angle" shown in the "go picture" should be gradually lessened and the steps gradually lengthened so that the full length stride will be in order after the eighth or tenth stride. The forward lean is a lean of the full body and not a bend from the waist. The extreme forward arm swing is immediately changed after the first step to the bent-arm position shown in this picture. In true sprinting the arm is always bent at the elbow, and it swings downward from shoulder height to a point opposite the hip. The pull is always downward to increase the down drive of the opposite leg when this kind of knee lift action is used.

THE RACE

When the runner is going along at top speed he should make a point of holding his correct form. If he continues on with the correct knee action and arm action he will finish the race at a fair rate of speed even though he is physically tired. The idea, of course, is to save energy by only permitting the working muscles in the arms and legs a chance to function, so many athletes, in their anxiety to give everything to the race, have a bad habit of tensing the neck and chest muscles in an effort to gain speed. It should be remembered that no assistance can be given by the upper body—which means from the waist to the head, excluding the arms—during a race, save by allowing that part of the body to hold an easy relaxed straight-a-head position.

ARGENTINE TEAM AGAIN DEFEATS MIDWICK FOUR

Argentine with an Irish name and brogue—Alfredo Harrington—rode down the field to score it was clear just how the tide of the game was going to flow.

HARRINGTON STARS

The Argentines with Harrington leading the way tallied three times in the opening chukker before the Midwick players knew just what it was all about. Harrington scored all three goals for the visitors. Capt. Andrada played a part in one of the scores when he snapped the pill to his brilliant No. 1 man, but the chukker was nearly all Harrington as he was about the whole show with his brilliant riding. Incidentally this young caballero announced before he took the field that he had a touch of the flu. It seemed fortunate for Midwick at that because if he had been feeling right there is no telling what would have happened.

Harrington felt well enough to open the second chukker by scoring a goal for the Argentines. Andrada crossed Boeseke shortly after that, but Eric Pedley's free shot was a little off. On a knock-in Andrada's try was tilted up by Neil McCarthy, who sent it over the line for Midwick's first goal of the day.

In the third chukker Juan Reynal scored for Argentina. McCarthy and Harrigton rode pell-mell down the field in this session with the latter breaking his mallet in a try for a goal. Eric Pedley also made a beautiful try for a goal in this chukker, but failed by inches to put the pill across.

Harrington scored for the Argentines in the fourth just as the chukker opened. Burke pulled one out of the fire and sent it down the field to Pedley, who missed the goal by inches with his shot while the fans roared. McCarthy also sent one up in front of the goal but the Gauchos rode in hard and prevented any of the Midwick players from putting the ball across the line.

In the fifth, Pedley tallied on a foul shot. Eric shot the ball high above the Pampas four to score. Juan Reynal then scored on a great cut on a pass from Harrington. Long-legged Elmer Boeseke drove the ball down the field on the next play and after three hits at it sent it over the line while the fans whooped it up.

In the sixth chukker Andrada got a hand when he drove the pill over the heads of the crowd onto the streets of Alhambra. Jose Reynal drew a laugh from the dignified side of the field with his fast staccato of Spanish as the teams battled in front of the clubhouse stand. Burke played well in this chukker, saving the day several times. Pedley came through for a goal just before the period ended.

In the seventh Andrada scored for Argentina. Boeseke made a noble try for goal on two occasions, but missed by an eyelash. In the eighth chukker Midwick played like madmen. They rolled up three goals in short order on shots by Pedley, McCarthy and Pedley again. Then Harrington sent one over for Argentine and the game was over as the players rode back to Capt. Wesley White, the referee.

The Argentines were presented with cups and cheered to the heavens by the fans as they rode off the field, Adios, amigos.

PUCK CHASERS HOOK UP

Tonight's game may be the last in the championship ice-hockey series at the Palais de Glace. Dave Patrick's Arrowhead Valley Club six are leading in the play-off with three victories to their credit and if they tumble the Shells again tonight they will be crowned rulers of the Southern California Senior League.

The Oilers, on the other hand, are determined to make it a torrid battle and if Ernie Miller's husky stick handlers can come through with a victory this evening they will have tied up the count at three games apiece, thereby forcing the Arrowheads into an extra and final tilt for the title.

ADMISSION FREE TO ALL TIGER BASEBALL GAMES

Admission to all Occidental baseball games on the Tiger field will be free to everyone this season, according to the announcement of Phillip Ellsworth, graduate manager. This plan has been adopted in an effort to stimulate attendance in Southern Conference diamond contests. The free clause will not apply to games played elsewhere in the loop, however.

Bill Wrigley's plan of "ladies free" accomplished wonders in both interest and attendance at Wrigley Field, and the Oxy plan is designed to secure the same results.

GLEDHILL WINS VINES NET TILT

Favorite Triumphs Over Foe in Pasadena Tourney

Keith Gledhill, national ranking junior tennis star, defeated Ellsworth Vines, second ranking junior, in the final round of the Hotel Raymond first annual invitational tennis tournament yesterday on the Hotel Raymond courts in Pasadena. Gledhill won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4. Vines played flashy tennis at times, but was erratic and could not compare with Gledhill for steadiness.

Vines and Gledhill teamed together and won the finals in the men's doubles from Jack Tidball and Dick Lusch, winning, 8-6, 6-4. Tidball and Lusch defeated Kussman and Gorchakoff, national collegiate doubles champs, in the semifinal round Saturday, making the junior stars' victory yesterday a sensational one.

Exhibition matches were played by May Sutton Bundy, Violet Doeg, Midge Gladman, Mary Greef, Helen Marlowe, Lester Stoeffen and Henry Culley preceding the tournament sets. The exhibitions consisted of one mixed doubles match and one women's doubles match.

Yesterday's results:

Exhibitions—May Sutton Bundy and Violet Doeg defeated Midge Gladman and Mary Greef, 6-3; May Sutton Bundy and Henry Culley defeated Helen Marlowe and Lester Stoeffen, 6-3.

BOBBY JONES REGISTERS 69

Jones turned in 37-36—73, while Farrell had a 38-37. Two years ago Farrell defeated Jones in the play-off for the national open.

Bobby went out in 35 and came back in 34 for his low score, collecting three birdies on the way and sinking several difficult putts of more than twenty feet.

Horton Smith, who beat Jones by one stroke at Savannah and who is expected to give him the sternest competition here, played an exhibition match in Asheville, N. C., today with Denny Shute, young Columbus (O.) sensation. They are to be here tomorrow for the tournament.

Playing in a foursome with Jones were Al Espinosa of Chicago, Gene Sarazen of New York and Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del. Jones and Dudley paired to beat the veteran pair of money players, 3 and 2.

Dudley had a 74 for the round, while Espinosa had 77 and Sarazen, 74.

season competition. Vance Page, right-hander, who is a new addition to the Hollywood mound corps, was greeted with singles from the first six to face him in the first chapter. He fanned Paul Zahniser, pitcher, after three had scored and the bases were loaded to end the inning. Page toiled through the fifth and then turned over the task to Frank Shellenback, veteran spitballer.

The Indians picked up another marker in the fourth when Pat Collins, catcher, clouted a homer over the left-field screen and finished scoring in the fifth. Cliff Lee's double bringing in Holland and Barbee. Shellenback held the tribe in check during the four frames he worked, yielding three scattered singles.

A two-bagger by Bill Rumler in the third sent Cleo Carlyle across the bag for the Sheiks' first digit. The other three were registered in the fifth on successive singles by Gasella, Carlyle and Rumler after passes had been issued to Shellenback and Dudley Lee.

Rumler, with two doubles and two singles in four times at bat, was the leading hitter of the day. Cliff Lee, Seattle center fielder, collected two doubles and a single in four tries. The sensational fielding of Saturday's contest, which the Hollywooders won, 10 to 3, was continued today.

Magyars and Scots Battle One-Hour Overtime

Two hours and half of fast, thrilling football wasn't enough for the Magyars and Scots to settle their Los Angeles cup dispute at Loyola Field yesterday. The game marked the second meeting of these teams in effort to decide a cup semifinalist. Yesterday's game like the first two weeks ago went to a 3-to-3 draw, despite a solid hour of overtime football.

At the end of the regulation playing time the score was 1 to 1. Elder having scored for the Highlanders in the first period. Espinosa later equalized for the Hungarians. The Scots played their finest game of the season in the two thirty-minute overtime periods. Alex Robertson's men seeming to display a do-or-die spirit. The work of MacDonald, burly halfback, was especially impressive.

Billy Horsfall scored in the overtime for the Magyars, but this was soon equalized by Johnny Holme's converted penalty. Holmes broke through for a clean goal in the next overtime but Johnny Hodgert finally located the net and the score was deadlocked 2 to 2. Officials then called things off until next Sunday due to darkness.

The L.A.A.C. Mercuries defeated Pasadena A.C.C., 3 to 0, in the 1 o'clock game to advance into a third-place tie with the Vikings in City League standings. Although Mervyn Scott scored two goals and crossed to Harry Owens for the third, the Mercury star was little

Fair Golfers Tee Off Today

PINEHURST (N. C.) March 30. (AP)—One hundred and ten feminine golfers, the largest number to compete in the twenty-eight-year history of the event, will set out tomorrow on the eighteen-hole qualifying round of the women's north and south amateur tournament.

The entry list is a compilation of names famous for years past—some of them for two decades—in American links history. Glenna Collett, national champion, will defend her title.

Among Miss Collett's challengers in addition to a host of younger stars, are Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia, who was runner-up in the national championship event twenty-one years ago and Mrs. O. S. Hill, the golfing mother from Kansas City.

NEW YORK, March 30. The victory qualified them to meet the Boston Bruins, present holders of the world's championship trophy.

Willson Pulls Muscle, May Quit Track

Jimmy Willson, San Diego High's star sprinter and winner of both the 100-yard dash and the 200 in the State C.I.F. meet last year, may not compete for the Blue and White team again this year. In a meet with Santa Ana last week, the San Diego flash pulled a leg muscle while running the 220-yard dash. This is the second time this year Willson has been out with a leg injury and San Diego fans fear that the muscle may not heal before the important meets roll around.

less Southern California would come to Palo Alto the meet would not be held. You can bet all the tea in China that the Trojans won't go to Palo Alto.

Templeton admitted to Willson that he had never cast his critical glance over the Occidental track. If, after he sees Patterson Field, Dink still refuses to come south for the meet, there is only one explanation—that Templeton does not care to encounter the Trojans this year.

Dink is the first track coach to cast asparagus on the Tiger layout. The track, prior to completion of the Coliseum oval, was acknowledged the best in the south. Wilson has promised to move all Coliseum equipment to Patterson Field, hurdles, jumping standards, etc., and this should go far toward appeasing Templeton, providing it's being appeased that he wants, which is doubtful.

EXPECTS CROWD

Templeton, it is said, feels that the stands are not large enough to adequately accommodate the huge throng which will want to see his boys make the Trojans strain every nerve and tissue to gain the supremacy they are anticipating. Mr. Templeton flatters himself and all track athletes in general. Patterson Field seats 8000 souls. Aside from Olympic Games tryouts and two Paavo Nurmi meets, there has never been a crowd of 8000 at a track affair in Southern California. If Templeton, who is a great orator, were billed to debate Dean Cromwell on any given subject the crowd might run into big money, but not for a mere track meet. Talk may be cheap, but it'll draw a crowd in a hurry.

As for the meet itself, we will know a little more after Stanford's annual interclass and Irish marathon affair tomorrow. You can bet that Templeton has been busy with his boys. The Trojans are not the only ones capable of improving.

Just because Cromwell's collection of athletes ran roughshod over the poor old Golden Bears is no indication that Stanford will be flattened ignominiously. A dope sheet at this writing favors S.C. by 3 points; this estimate being arrived at by awarding the Cards the relay and giving them breaks which they may get in several events. If the breaks are evenly distributed, however, S.C. should win by about 15 points.

ANGELS LOSE TO MERCHANTS

enough runs to sink the Seraph ship.

Cy Williams, Pasadena policeman, hurled the first five innings for the victors and made the Angels observe all boulevard stops. McClung, a former major leaguer, hurled the final four rounds in impressive style to cinch the Pasadena victory. The only run off McClung came in the ninth when Art Parker batted for Walsh and hit for the circuit.

The Angels outhit the Merchants, 13 to 8, but were unable to get their bingles in the pinches. Score:

CHICAGO CUBS TRIP BUCS

been a pleasant surprise to the club officials because Los Angeles is one place where the folks won't turn out for anything except on a good day. Had it been a sunny afternoon it is quite probable that the fans would have overflowed out on the field. At that the Cubs and Pirates attracted about 43,000 fans for their four games, which is nothing to be sneezed at for exhibition baseball.

FOUR PIRATE PITCHERS

The Pirates used four pitchers during the struggle, Ervin Brame starting and being followed by Lil Stoner, Ralph Erickson and Harry Sanders. It looked like Brame might be the hero of the affair in the second when he homed into the center-field bleachers with two out to start the scoring, but the Cubs got to him in the next two rounds and pounded across nine runs to chase the Buc right-hander to the showers. Stoner was hit for four runs in his two rounds on the mound but Erickson, a big southpaw from Idaho, and Sanders finally stopped the flow of Chicago tallies. Erickson has a peculiar delivery, pitching the ball right off of his shoulder, it seems, and the Cubs weren't able to solve it in two innings. The big Swede fanned three Cubs and didn't allow a hit.

The quartet of Pirate pitchers were nicked for fifteen hits, including home runs by Kiki Cuyler and Gabby Hartnett.

The Pirates began the scoring in the second, which opened with Suhr singling to right. Mosolf and Bartell went out, but Hemsley singled and then Brame lined his homer into the far center-field stands to account for a trio of Pittsburgh tallies.

Three Pirate errors and one of "Beans" Reardon's decisions enabled the Cubs to go on a seven-run rampage in the third. Blair was out to start the lengthy stanza but Hartnett tripled off the center-field wall. Root was hit on the pitching arm and got a walk to first. Beck also walked, filling the bases. Grimm hit to Bartell and it looked as though the Pirates had ended the rally, Engle taking the shortstop's throw and hurrying the ball to Suhr. Reardon, however, ruled that Engle had not touched the bag and had to call Beck back to second, Clyde thinking that he was out. Hartnett scored on the play and then followed a barrage of base hits. Hornsby and Wilson singled, Cuyler hit a home run over the center-field screen, Stephenson doubled, Blair singled and Waner and Clark chucked in errors for good measure. Seven Cubs scored during the round and it looked as though the ball game was over.

The Pirates, though, didn't give up without a fight and proceeded to hammer Root for four more runs in their half of the third and knot the count. Engle walked for a starter and Waner singled. Clark tripled to right center, scoring Engle and Waner. Hornsby made a nice play to retire Suhr on a roller over second but Clark counted on the out. Stephenson then muffed Mosolf's fly for a two-base error and Bartell followed with a double to chase Mosolf in with the tying tally. Root then fanned Hemsley and retired Brame on a long fly to Wilson to retire the side.

Root went out of the game in the fourth to let Danny Taylor bat for him. Taylor doubled off the right-field screen to start the Cubs off on a two-run rally that put them in front again. Beck fanned but Grimm singled to left. Taylor stopped at third, but continued on home and Grimm went to second when Hemsley let Mosolf's perfect throw get through him. Hornsby's double scored Grimm and that was all for Brame. Stoner coming on the scene to end the inning.

Stoner was nicked for another pair of runs in the fifth when Blair singled and rode home ahead of Hartnett, who larruped one far over the left-field wall.

The final two Chicago scores followed in the sixth, Wilson's double, a walk to Cuyler, Stephenson's single and Blair's infield out completing the Cub counting for the day.

Hack Wilson came up with a couple of fancy catches in the opening inning, but the fielding features were saved until the ninth. In the final round Brickell made a sensational diving catch of Grimm's short fly to left center, but injured his leg and retired from the game. Right after the fans had got through cheering that catch, Waner ran over to the right-field foul line to make a spectacular one-handed stab of Hornsby's line drive.

The Pirates last night departed for Tucson where they will play today. The Cubs have an off day this afternoon, but tomorrow they begin a four-game series with the Angels. Next Saturday and Sunday the Hollywood Stars tackle the National League champions and on the following Tuesday the Coast League race opens. The score:

Bruin Nine to Travel North

Coach A. J. Sturzenegger's U.C.L.A. baseball team will entrain Thursday night for the San Francisco Bay region, where it will play four games in five days. Stanford, California, St. Mary's and Santa Clara are the teams to be met in California Intercollegiate Baseball League competition.

The Bruins lost two games in a double-header to Stanford Saturday, and will be out to retrieve lost fortunes. They will play Santa Clara on Friday afternoon, and St. Mary's at Moraga the following day. After a day of rest on Sunday they will meet California on Monday at Berkeley, and Stanford on Tuesday at Palo Alto.

Stubblefield Favored in Legion Race

"Stubby" Stubblefield, consistent young racing pilot, and the only speed king who relies entirely upon signals from his pit crew in running a race, is being hailed as one of the choice bets in next Sunday afternoon's 100-lap sweepstakes at the Legion Speedway. "Stubby" came out of the sea of smash-ups a week ago and grabbed the 100-lap honors at the Alhambra Boulevard plant after some of the more spectacular pilots had fallen by the wayside with their cars after hitting the guard rails.

It was the second big victory this year for Stubblefield and on both occasions the youngster won by coming from behind in the latter stages of the grind. "I never try to lead a race," said "Stubby" yesterday as he tuned up his car for the forthcoming race meeting. "Usually I go out to take second place. Then if anything happens to the leader, I'm there to fight it out."

Russell Garnant, Glendale engineer, owns the mount "Stubby" handles and Garnant it is who signals from the pits and tells his entrant when to open up and the proper time to let the others set the pace.

SINGER BOXES FERNANDEZ

Return Bout at Madison Garden Friday Night Features Dull Fistic Week's Program

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—On the theory, perhaps, that lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place, Al Singer, Bronx lightweight idol, again will take on the slugging Filipino, Ignacio Fernandez, in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

This return battle features a rather dull week for the fisticuffers plying their trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Singer, then on a sensation winning streak, met Fernandez at the Garden last year and made the mistake of dropping his guard for an instant in the third round. Fernandez swung his right with all the speed and precision of a trip hammer and Singer went to the canvas where he was counted out. That is the only bad defeat on the Bronx lightweight's record and he would like to get even with the record book. The betting fraternity probably will be willing to lay odds of 2 to 1 or more that he succeeds.

Vince Dundee of Baltimore battles Ben Jeby of New York in a welterweight semi final. Joey Medill, Chicago junior lightweight, takes on Hubert Gillis of Belgium in the opening ten.

The only other bout of particular interest on the national list is Tuffy Griffiths's ten-round struggle with Jack Gagnon, Boston heavyweight, at Philadelphia tomorrow night.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday—At Philadelphia: Ricardo Alle, Spain, vs. Al Kelly, middleweights, ten rounds; Fred Calder, Philadelphia, vs. Walter Cobb, Baltimore, heavyweights, ten rounds. At Boston, Argonne A.A.: Herman Perlick, Kalamazoo, Mich., vs. Bruno Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., bouts, and Henry Perlie, Kalamazoo, vs. Ky Diamond, Boston, all lightweights, each ten rounds. At Tulsa: George Hudman, New York, vs. Paul Swiderski, Syracuse, N. Y., heavyweights, ten rounds.

Tuesday—At Los Angeles: Armando Santiago, Cuba, vs. Billy Townsend, Vancouver, B. C., lightweights, ten rounds. At Oklahoma City: Young Jack Dillon, Oklahoma City, vs. Humberto Curi, Kansas City, heavyweights, ten rounds.

Wednesday—At Akron, O.: K. O. Christner, Akron, vs. Joe Bekyra, Dayton, heavyweights, ten rounds. At Cincinnati: Hassan, Chicago, vs. Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky., middleweights, ten rounds. At Oakland: Wesley Knichel, Salt Lake City, vs. Joe Rankin, San Francisco, ten rounds.

Thursday—At Denver: Eddie Mack, Denver, vs. Gaston Charles, France, and Eddie Murdock, Oklahoma City, vs. Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo, all lightweights, each ten rounds.

Friday—At Hollywood: Joe Rullo, Wilmington, vs. Homer Sheridan, Des Moines, middleweights, ten rounds. At San Francisco, Madison Dix, Bellingham, Wash., vs. Andy Divodi, New York, junior welterweights, ten rounds.

Saturday—At Cincinnati: Mike Dundee, Los Angeles, vs. Lewis Carpentier, Toledo, featherweights, six rounds.

LAREDO IN LOCAL DEBUT SATURDAY

Chalo Laredo, Mexican 113-pound king, will make his first Los Angeles ring appearance next Saturday night at the Main Street Athletic Club with Felix Ignacio, Filipino title-holder, as his opponent. The bout is scheduled for ten rounds.

Jimmy Alvarado and Jack Stephens, featherweights, fought their second draw last Saturday night. Frankie Diaz, Mexican lightweight, stopped Billy Malley in the second round of the semi-wind-up, while Manuel Trevino and Frankie Mitchell, feathers, drew in the six-round special event. Wallie Hunt outpunched Cecil Myart, negro heavy; Bobby Flores kayoed Joe Ray in two rounds, and Warren Jewett beat Sig Finrocci.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The witch-doctor lay waiting, resigned to whatever horrible fate awaited him at the hands of this supposed demon of the woods. "Why do you not kill me?" he asked in quavering tones. "I would save you if I could," replied Tarzan, "but Numa has mortally wounded you." For a moment the old man was silent. "Often I saw you, years ago," he said, "when you lived with the hairy apes, near the village of Mbonga. Tell me before I die—are you man or devil?"

Tarzan laughed. "I am a man," he said. The old fellow sighed and shook his head. "You have tried to save me from Numa," he murmured. "For that I shall reward you. I am a great witch-doctor. Listen to me, white man! I see bad days ahead of you. A god greater even than you will rise up and strike you down. Turn back before it is too late. I— see—" He paused and gasped for breath, then crumpled into a heap and died. Tarzan wondered what else he had seen.

It was very late when the ape-man re-entered the boma and lay down among his black warriors. None had seen him go and none saw his return. He thought about the warning of the old witch-doctor; but he did not turn back for he was unafraid. But had he known what lay in store for one he loved most of all in the world, he would have flown through the trees to her side and allowed the gold of Opar to remain forever hidden in its forgotten storehouse.

Behind Tarzan that morning another white man also pondered something he had heard during the night and very nearly did he give up his project and turn back upon his trail. It was Werper, the murderer, who in the dead of night had heard far away a sound that filled his soul with terror. It had been Tarzan's own cry of victory, so frightful a sound that Werper trembled as he remembered it next day. But he stood in greater fear of Achmet Zek, and dared not return.

REDLANDS, March 30.—The University of Redlands Women's Glee Club, composed of twenty-five carefully selected and trained voices, started today on the annual spring tour, which this year will carry the club to San Diego, through Imperial Valley, with stops in the coast cities on the return trip.

Under the leadership of Prof. Barton Batchman, the club has presented several successful programs previous to this long tour, and a successful season is anticipated. Aside from several groups of chorus numbers, the club's program includes vocal and violin solos, readings and numbers by the double trio.

Thelma Griffith, accompanied by George Metzger, will offer the solo numbers, and Betty Glass is reader. The double quartet is composed of Dorothy Mitchell, May Umberger, Constance Schoemaker, Forrest Erickson, Yvonne Gimper and Altie Miller.

The club itinerary includes Coachella Valley Union High School, El Centro, National City, San Diego, Long Beach, Whittier, Corona and Elsinore. A trip through beautiful desert country, which is especially attractive now that the spring flowers are in bloom, was given the girls.

Miss Florence Simonds, housemother of Melrose Hall, is the chaperone this season, and is being warmly welcomed by the girls.

FIRE HITS PASADENA ICE PLANT

Spontaneous Combustion in Sawdust Blamed for Conflagration

PASADENA, March 30.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the auxiliary plant of the Citizens' Independent Ice and Cold Storage Company, 610 South Raymond avenue, this morning. The loss is estimated up to $25,000. The plant had not been in operation for more than two years, but negotiations for leasing it were started last week, according to officials.

Patrolmen Howard and McIntyre turned in the alarm when they saw flames shooting from the roof of the long one-story structure. Assistant Fire Chief A. L. Holmes reported that the entire building was in flames by the time three engine companies arrived.

It was first believed, according to Holmes, that a tramp had crawled into the building to sleep and had started a small fire to keep warm. The present theory, however, is that the blaze resulted from spontaneous combustion in the sawdust filling between the wooden partitions in the cold-storage section. Hundreds of early risers witnessed the firemen's successful battle to save the concern's office building containing all records.

Late this afternoon, another alarm was sent in when smoke began to pour from the ruins of the plant, and it was necessary to flood the interior to extinguish smoldering embers.

CIVIL WAR DRUMMER TALKS

George W. Reckard Celebrates Eightieth Birthday in Temple City and Displays His Historic Drum

TEMPLE CITY, March 30.—Memories of the Civil War and the reconstruction period are vivid in the mind of George W. Reckard, who has just celebrated his eightieth birthday. He served during the war as a drummer boy with the northern recruiting service and later was drum major of the drum corps of Gen. Lew Wallace's reorganized division.

Reckard is the proud possessor of a drum which was carried through several of the major engagements of the Civil War. On its head are painted scenes of the battles of Missionary Ridge and of Lookout Mountain. The painting was done by Reckard's mother.

Reckard is a native of Marietta, O. He was 11 years of age when the war broke out. Being too young to get into active service he volunteered to help recruiting and was chosen to accompany the recruiting officers. He beat his drum in front of the Courthouse in Marietta and in many other cities of the State, drumming in recruits. His two older brothers enlisted and fought throughout the war.

Reckard came to Los Angeles in 1904 and entered the employ of the Los Angeles Railway Company as a pattern maker. He worked for the company twenty-three years. With his wife he lives in a charming home at 151 South Cloverley avenue, surrounded by one of the most attractive gardens in the community. He still loves to get out his old drum and play and to talk over the stirring days of the war.

The structure will be erected by Charles Lyon. Lyon will start the work at once, now that the national Postoffice Department has leased the quarters. The building will be of brick and concrete.

NEGRO LADS PURSUED BY MEAN JINX

Third Member of Trio in Trouble "Hi-Jacks" Bike Pals Said to Have Taken

ALHAMBRA, March 30.—Three little negro boys have wound up in the local jail after a run of hard luck. They came out from Los Angeles to see what they could see. Russell Long, 13 years of age, his brother Walter, 14, and Aberiel Brown, 14. Walter was taken into custody by police on a charge of stealing a bicycle. A few hours later Russell appeared at the station looking for his brother. He was questioned and admitted that maybe he, too, had been doing the same thing. So he started out with the officers to the place where he said he had hidden the bicycle.

But the third member of the trio had proved false. Aberiel Brown had hi-jacked the bicycle taken by Russell and pedaled to Monrovia. There he was picked up by police and the bicycle was taken away from him. He walked back to his home in Los Angeles.

Officers Marquis and Cherry went after Aberiel, who might have escaped further trouble if his feet had not stuck out from under the house where he had crawled at sight of the police. He was dragged forth and now it's up to the Juvenile Court.

Compton Plans Chest Campaign

COMPTON, March 30. — This city will have its own Community Chest, the one-fund plan having been approved by the city's leading civic organizations. The next step will be the appointment by Justice of the Peace Irving P. Austin, president of the Compton Health Center Association, of a committee of nine to work out the details.

Discussion of the project statred last November when it was found that practically the same group of people were being taken away from their business for successive drives to raise charity funds. During the busy season of the year separate campaigns had to be handled for the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts and other welfare movements.

As a representative organization, the Health Center Association began a study. Dr. F. E. Estes, J. W. Gastrich and W. J. Crock comprised a committee which prepared and sent out a questionnaire to organizations all over the city. Replies indicated local opinion was practically unanimous in favor of the one-fund plan.

Glendora Finds Itself Richer

GLENDORA, March 30. — This city found itself $16,681.56 richer on January 1 than at the opening of the previous year, it was shown in the annual city treasury report released yesterday by City Clerk Fred Long.

Total revenues were $5237.68 greater in 1929 than in 1928 and expenditures showed an increase of $962.23 over 1928, with total assets $13,172.67 greater and total liabilities $7625 less. Bonded indebtedness was decreased during the year from $177,500 to $169,875. Included in revenues was $1772.96 from the sale of lemons grown in the city orchard. Records of the city water department show that revenues were $11,000 greater than expenditures.

Walter Montgomery, a brother, living at Saugus, was making funeral arrangements today. The body is to be sent to Ontario, Can., where the father and mother reside.

In announcing the creation of the club, Fletcher said:

It now has a membership of 4450 and is incorporated under the name of the Commonwealth Club of California.

"Our organization will be a fact-finding body, wholly impartial and will, I am sure, co-operate to the fullest extent with the City Council, Board of County Supervisors, Chamber of Commerce, Taxpayers' Association and all other public or semipublic organizations which have problems to solve and desire us to aid in their solution."

FACTORY GROWING ON CHICKEN RANCH

Mrs. Gertrude T. Skinner

RESEDA, March 30.—A part of the history of the growth of great industrial enterprises in the United States is that many of them had a humble beginning in the kitchen of some woman, where with iron pot and soup ladle she stirred together spiced ingredients that have since become the standardized commercial recipes of the world.

Not long ago Mrs. Gertrude T. Skinner, on a small chicken ranch here, was at a loss to know what to do with the excess of her flock. After making several tests she decided to "can" boned chicken in glass jars for family use. Before a month had elapsed friends who had sampled her delicacy came back for more, and told their friends.

As a result the small Skinner ranch has become a small factory with a stenographer handling increasing mail orders.

WOMAN OF REDLANDS KILLS SELF

Mrs. H. C. Deming, Wife of Merchant, Puts Bullet Through Her Heart

REDLANDS, March 30.—Mrs. H. C. Deming, wife of a local merchant, took her life at her home on Buena Vista street this morning by shooting herself through the heart. Mrs. Deming had not been well for some months, and had been very despondent, friends say.

She was alone in the house. Neighbors heard the shot, investigated, and found her in the bathroom.

Court Changes Hours to Suit Its Customers

TUJUNGA, March 30.—Police Judge George Krone today announced he is perfectly willing to change the hours of his court if it will accommodate those who will come in and plead guilty.

He states that for the convenience of everybody concerned he will hold court hereafter on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, instead of each Tuesday morning. This way, he says, will please all who have been arrested for traffic violations.

"Hereafter," he announces, "nobody will be obliged to break up a whole forenoon to come in and plead guilty in my court."

ASSERTED RUNAWAYS CAPTURED

New York State Contractor and Niece Rounded Up on Desert at Daggett

SAN BERNARDINO, March 30. Due to the hunt instituted by San Bernardino county deputy sheriffs for a stolen car, Herman Hermiller, 32 years of age, wealthy contractor of Kinmore, N. Y., is held in the County Jail here facing a Mann Act charge, and for return to his own county on a telegraphic warrant from the Sheriff there, and his 17-year-old niece, Miss Margaret Pohl of Creek Road Forks, in the same State, is lodged in the Detention Home.

Certain indications in the car, found by the officers at Daggett, where they were on the lookout for the stolen automobile, aroused the suspicions of the deputy sheriffs, and in quizzing the couple, they reported, the girl, who is the daughter of Hermiller's wife's sister, admitted that she had run away with him. The latter also admitted the fact, but asserted that the girl came of her own free will.

Hermiller is said to be a wealthy and prominent contractor, well known throughout his section of New York State, and he has a wife and several children. The asserted runaway pair left home on the 18th inst., according to his story.

On being searched, $8500 in cash was found on his person, and in his effects were securities and deeds totaling a comfortable fortune, according to the officers.

NEW POLICE HEADQUARTERS IN VENICE

Structure to be Dedicated Soon With Banquet Program

Capt. William H. Behrendt (inset) and Division Building

VENICE, March 30.—All settled down in their new $100,000 police headquarters today, Capt. William H. Behrendt and the officers and men of the Venice division, Los Angeles police, prepared to continue their work in crime suppression, which has won the division an enviable record, according to statistics published recently. Handicapped formerly by antiquated and inconvenient facilities, every man of the division wore a smile of satisfaction today over the new headquarters, which includes housing capacity for fifty prisoners, or 100 in an emergency.

"Not that we want that many," Capt. Behrendt declared. "We do our best to keep men from going to jail, believing thoroughly in the 'ounce-of-prevention' theory."

The new two-storied building, adjoining the old Venice City Hall on Venice Boulevard, is of brick-and-stucco construction, with marble finish. Woodwork is of finely grained hardwood. The offices are in front, on both floors. The "tank room" is on the ground floor, and has six double cells, with a "bullpen" where a large number of prisoners could be kept if necessary. Juvenile and women's cells are upstairs, and there are three additional cells for felons on the first floor. Dining-room and kitchen equipment is of the latest, resembling the culinary plant of a modern hotel. Capt. Behrendt plans to dedicate the structure soon with a dinner to which high departmental officials of Los Angeles city and county, Venice civic and community leaders and guests from Santa Monica and other cities will be invited.

DISAPPEARANCE BAFFLES POLICE

San Diego Mechanic Fails to Arrive at San Marcos

Had Leased Garage and Was Going to Start Work

Mysterious Highway Robbery Complicates Case

SAN DIEGO, March 30.—Foul play was hinted today in the mysterious disappearance of Charles Collier, auto mechanic, who left his home at Thirty-seventh and Meade streets at 8 a.m. Friday and has not been seen nor heard from since.

He was expected at San Marcos, six miles north of Escondido, to open a repair shop on which he had taken a lease Thursday. When he failed to arrive there, H. J. Peyton, who had leased the shop to Collier and had loaned him his automobile to drive back here for tools, started an investigation which thus far has been fruitless.

Collier lived here with his wife and two children. Domestic relations were pleasant, his wife told investigators, and when her husband left Friday morning, he was eager to get away to keep an appointment with Peyton for 9 a.m. Members of the American Legion, of which Collier has been a member, have joined in the search.

Possibility that the disappearance may have some connection with an equally mysterious case loomed yesterday as residents of the Escondido section sought for some trace of Collier. Motorists, driving near Hodges Dam early this morning, found an unconscious man lying beside the road. When revived, he told a story of having given two men a ride. As they neared Lake Hodges, he said, they beat him, robbed him of a watch and some money and drove off in his car. After the man had been taken to Escondido he disappeared.

Most of those investigating the Collier case believe there is no connection between his disappearance and the robbery of the man found beside the road. Description of the victim did not tally with that of Collier.

Standard Pack for Fruit Being Worked Out Now

TUCAIPA, March 30.—Plans for a standard pack are being worked out by peach growers of the Yucaipa and Redlands district after another important conference with State officials. Conferences with officials of the State Department of Agriculture were projected as means of furthering the proposal to standardize the packs. Use of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange was suggested as a method of entering new markets.

There was unanimous favor of the standardized pack, although discussion of the problem brought out many difficulties in the way of obtaining it. The discussion pointed out definitely that standardized pack could not be obtained without supervised packing.

Use of "foreign" markets, by which is meant markets other than Southern California, brought out differences of opinion, with representatives of the concern selling Yucaipa peaches sharing the floor. It was declared that Los Angeles was the best market for peaches, up to a certain point. One shipper asserted that Los Angeles could not handle all Yucaipa peaches without breaking the market. Another shipper contended that if shippers directed picking and grading with due regard to what fruit should be sold immediately and what fruit should go to storage, there would be no need of seeking outside markets. It was also pointed out that peaches intended for foreign markets would require special packing in standard peach containers.

STAGE ALL SET FOR TUJUNGA ELECTION

TUJUNGA, March 30.—Four candidates for City Council have filed formal petitions here. They are Robert P. Kimble, Bertha M. McDonald, F. L. Goldsborough and Julius S. Eckert. The local city election will take place April 14, next. Bertha A. Morgan has filed for City Clerk, and John W. Russel for City Treasurer. Two places are to be filled on the City Council. Mrs. Morgan has been the City Clerk since Tujunga was incorporated. The chief political squabble here is the annexation-to-Los Angeles question. The candidates named are for Tujunga remaining as an individual municipality. The annexation issue was voted on at a special election two weeks ago. It lost by a large majority.

LA JOLLA DIAL SYSTEM ON WAY

LA JOLLA, March 30.—April 30 has been set tentatively as the date on which the new telephone system here will be placed in service, according to A. E. Scott, district manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. The new dial system, which will provide facilities for approximately 2440 telephones, will require an estimated expenditure of $230,000.

OFFICER "SPOTS" HIM THEN MEASLES DOES

ONTARIO, March 30.—Misfortune, according to Stephen Tallion, 905 South Antonio avenue, is dogging his steps. Arrested on a reckless-driving charge, he was ordered to appear in local court for trial. Then he went home and got the measles.

OIL and MINING

PRODUCING & REFINING — IN THE EARTH

TEST OF FIELDS PROCESS PENDS

Methylating Process Creator Announces Plans

Will Try for Production on Commercial Scale

Local Capital Supplies Fund for Factory Unit

John D. Fields, president of the National Silver Corporation, whose work on the hydrometallurgy of copper resulted in a method now in general use for leaching copper ores, and whose invention of air lift flotation machines also is now in general use, has announced that his process for production of gasoline and lubricating oil with a by-product of analine dyes and high-grade coke fit for metallurgical purposes, will be given a commercial test here within the next ten days.

A group of Los Angeles business men, having recognized the importance of this process to California, and to Los Angeles in particular, have financed the construction of a commercial unit.

The process is different from ordinary cracking processes in that the refiner, by merely adjusting the valves on the still, can produce all gasoline, part gasoline, and lubricating oil of any gravity up to 79 deg., the gasoline and other products being saturated products; it being merely necessary to give the product a hot water wash to remove the analine dyes formed during the operation, thus dispensing with sulphuric acid, lye, and diatomaceous earth processes now in use. This is possible because no olefine or naphthenic acid is produced by the synthesis.

The broad general principle of the process is methylating the heavy methane series of California oils by the use of organic waste products. Low boiling fractions of petroleum products are produced from high boiling fractions, the gasoline as produced being water white and sweet-smelling. The process is said to be especially adapted for refinery bottoms and oils of low gravity.

ORE STRIKE MINIMIZED BY DOUGLAS

Says Recent Discovery at Golden Anchor Mine in Idaho "Promising"

JEROME (Ariz.) March 30. (Exclusive)—President James S. Douglas of United Verde Extension merely calls "promising" a recent ore discovery in the Golden Anchor property in Idaho, on ground that his corporation has optioned more than a half interest. He states:

"There has been a strike of gold in a tunnel the U.V.X. is running and there has been ore found, some of it running one and seven-tenths ounces and some fifty-eight ounces. The vein is three to four feet thick at the point where it was struck in the tunnel, about 450 feet below the Holt mine. This might prove to be only a bunch of gold-laden ore or it might be a continuous vein of gold ore. It may be said that there is a hopeful promise, but not a proved mine."

He adds that there is nothing new in Extension operations here and, assuredly, nothing to account for the recent upward turn of its stock on the boards.

MINERAL OUTPUT OF IDAHO GAINS IN YEAR

SALT LAKE CITY (Utah) March 30. (Exclusive) — Idaho's mineral output of 1929 was $35,000,000 last year, an increase of more than $5,000,000 over the preceding year, according to the annual report of Stewart Campbell, State mine inspector, which has just been compiled.

OLD ZONIA PLANS FOR OPERATING

Hammon Copper Putting Property in Condition to Start Production

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) March 30. (Exclusive)—The old Zonia property, near Kirkland, a Santa Fe station about thirty miles southwest of Prescott, is expected to be a large copper producer before the end of this year. It now is under active operation by the Hammon Copper Company, Ltd., which is installing the first 600-ton unit of a leaching plant, with expectation of adding two similar units. Ore thus developed, to the extent of 2,000,000 tons, is oxide, especially well suited to the cheap process of sulphuric acid treatment. The property covers 728 acres, with sampling showing copper values within an area 7000 feet long and 700 feet wide, according to an official statement. In the main shaft, now 827 feet deep, has been found an ample water supply, while drifts on the ore at 210 feet of depth are reported to have found continuing ore of the same 1.75 per cent average value known in the surface workings.

The old Venezia property now is being worked by the Westerner Gold-Lead Mines Company, which is adding to the capacity of its fifty-ton flotation mill.

GEOLOGIST PLANS MINE FIELD TRIP

Prof. Thomas Clements of Trojan College Will Visit Mexico, Arizona

Samples of copper and lead ores showing the necessary steps in the metallurgical processes employed for the final production of metallic copper and lead will be gathered by Thomas Clements, instructor in geology at the University of Southern California during a tour of mines in Arizona and Mexico, which will be made the first two weeks in April.

Producing mines at Inspiration and Bisbee, a smelter at Warren, Ariz., and a smelter and refinery at El Paso, Tex., will be visited by the professor in quest of ores.

Every step from the crude to finished product will be represented in the collection, which will consist of from fifty to 100 different samples of ore when complete.

Effort will be made to take moving pictures of the processes employed in the mines if conditions during the tour permit, Prof. Clements states. If successful, these will be used in connection with laboratory work.

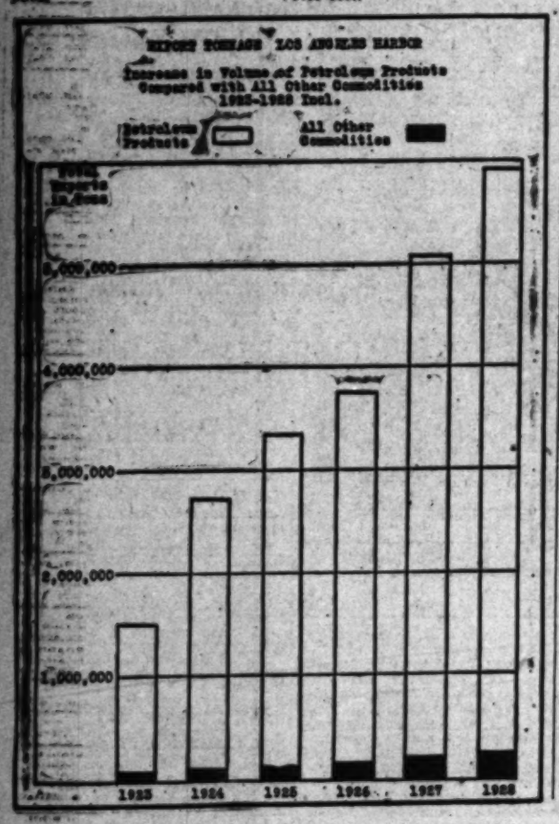
New Producers Added to Kern County Fields

BAKERSFIELD, March 30. (Exclusive)—The Kern Front, Round Mountain and Maricopa Flat each are credited with the completion of producing oil wells during the past ten days.

At Kern Front, Chanslor Canfield-Midway Oil Company brought in its Fee No. 32, on Sec. 23, 28-27 for about twenty-five barrels. Bottom was found at 3084 feet and the well is on the pump.

The Shell Oil Company, on Sec. 20, 28-29 in the Round Mountain district, got a 220-barrel well in its Freeman No. 7. Bottom was found at 1640 feet.

The Maricopa Flat came through with a 627-barrel well when Standard Oil Company completed its Fee No. 5-28K on Sec. 9, 11-23. Present production is 500 barrels daily. In the Standard well the bottom is at 9763 feet.



VENICE RUSHES TO DRILL

Sixty Residents Get Well Permits in Addition to Many Companies Already in Field

In addition to the oil companies which already are drilling or preparing to drill for oil at and near Venice, nearly sixty Venice property owners have been granted drilling permits by the Los Angeles City Council upon approval of the City Planning Commission.

While the projected development campaign would seem to threaten another great outburst of townlot drilling for the Los Angeles Basin it may be weeks before any considerable number of new wells get under way and the depth of 6000 feet or more to which the drills must go is more or less of a guarantee that it will be six months or so before there will be many new producing wells at Venice.

Among the most active operators at Venice is the Ohio Oil Company, which after drilling a dry hole on its Del Rey lease drilled to completion the discovery well, Recreation Gun Club No. 1, in the northwest corner of the Recreation Gun club lease. As a result the company now is drilling Recreation Gun Club No. 2, Howland No. 1, Del Rey No. 2 and Dickinson No. 1, and is preparing to spud in Dickinson No. 2, while Brown No. 1 is building derrick.

NEW ENERGY SHOWN

Active prospecting is not confined to the Ohio Oil Company southeast of Venice, but is now centering upon the Barnsdall Oil Company's Burke lease of twenty acres, a third of which was formerly held by Rohde & McAdams and two-thirds by the Exeter Oil Company. The Burke property consists of a strip approximately 4000x200 feet and adjoins the Ohio lease.

Other operators entering the new oil field include Jergins Trust, Mohawk Oil Company, Olympic Oil and Refining Company and Star Petroleum Company. Jergins Trust has leased six city blocks and Olympic has approximately twelve acres. Star Petroleum is preparing to spud in within a short time. Acreage is held by the Union Oil Company where its Del Rey No. 1 is drilling ahead as a direct offset to Ohio's discovery well, while outlying parcels held by the Pacific Western Oil Company and George F. Getty, Inc., remain inactive pending further development of the new field. The Shell Oil Company has fifty acres about one-half mile northwest of the Ohio producer.

OTHERS INTERESTED

Locations for tests have also been made by Featherstone & Preston, Huntington Beach operators; the Duell Petroleum Company and Eaton & Hurst.

Efforts to regulate the drilling campaign near Venice have evidently failed, for, according to a record on file with the Planning Commission, the list of permits already granted shows that many projects will be drilled within the city limits of Los Angeles and not far distant from the discovery well. A number of applicants have sufficient property to drill more than one well, while majority of applicants will probably drill only one.

That the property owners in Venice and Los Angeles are not averse to developing an oil field is indicated by the number of applications granted within the past month by the City Council. The list includes George W. and William Dickinson, John Davenport, Dana Burke, George Acret, J. M. Herndon, Ted B. Young, Charles S. Feeney, Charles C. T. Moore, Baldwin Robertson, Spencer W. Homer, L. J. Smith, Thomas Train, Harriet Cleveland, Josephine Coster and Leila Hersee, Edgar Brown, Amy B. Kneehen, B. M. Prowein and A. F. Schiffman.

CITIZENS' PERMITS

Samuel C. Hawkins, Betty and Leonard Harback, Fraser Million Dollar Pier Company, Shinn & Holtz, Rose Blumenthal, Betty and T. B. Callan, E. A. Pielemeier, John W. Baumgartner, C. M. Calhnuth, A. K. Grafton, Mrs. W. K. Schneider et al., Fred G. White, A. Dellacqua, J. M. Ruedy, Kate and Jerry Devine, Marie Miller Johnson, Lida Cochran, Grant Young, Hattie Weber, Anthony Kaitis, R. Lee Heath, Hugh Evans, S. C. Baxter, Lewis Oakley, Laura D. Locke, Moses & Gastren, Myrtle Seymour, E. J. Shines and Baldwin Robertson, Gertrude Ross, Peter Merich, M. Engel, D. H. McCartney and S. J. Couts and Bradley Kines.

Quite a number of the earlier applications filed by property owners originally were refused by the City Council, but the desire to drill became so great in that district that they were eventually approved. Despite the eagerness of property owners to drill for oil at Venice, an effort will be made to work out a community development plan which may limit the number of projects and to lay down rules as to just how far apart projects must be spaced. Several recommendations have been submitted by the County Board of Supervisors to the City Council, one of which includes a plan similar to the one developed for Oxford, Kan. No action has been taken on this plan.

Taft Project Easy Holder of Depth Record

TAFT, March 30. (Exclusive)—The Standard Oil Company's deep-test well, Mascot No. 1, near Taft, is approximately 100 feet deeper than any oil well ever drilled anywhere in the world. The well, located on Sec. 26, 32-33, is now 9475 feet deep.

Hard brown shale formation is being found at the bottom. The nine-inch casing, the last pipe set, is cemented at 6327 feet, leaving more than 3100 feet of open hole. The four-inch drill stem, with a 7 5-8-inch drilling bit is being used.

In that vicinity the Shell Oil Company is swabbing its Perris No. 1-A well on Sec. 15, 32-23, following suspension of drilling at 8195 feet.

The Texas Company is abandoning its Gore No. 4 well on Sec. 21, 31-22, after reaching 4380 feet without obtaining commercial yield.

The Union Oil Company's Reeves No. 1 on Sec. 27, 32-23, is rigged up and ready to spud in.

Two deepening jobs were reported in Kern county, one being the Pan-American Petroleum Company's Crampton No. 3-H in the Elk Hills on Sec. 1, 31-24, and the other being Signal Oil & Gas Company's Fitzhugh No. 1, on Sec. 14, 27-27, in the Poso Creek area.

Four abandonments were reported as follows: North American Oil Consolidated No. 12 and No. 18, on Sec. 16, 32-23; Texas Company's No. B-4, on Sec. 21, 31-22 in the Midway field, and Petroleum Securities Company's Gardner No. 3, on Sec. 28, 27-28, at Poso Creek.

Turquoise Mine Due to Reopen

VAN HORN (Tex.) March 30. (Exclusive) — Development of the turquoise mine of the Texas Turquoise Company, situated five miles west of here, will be resumed soon. This mine was opened in 1906 and has produced a large amount of gems of much value.

Alvin D. Hudson, owner of the company, was prospecting for gold at the time he discovered the outcropping of turquoise. He has carried on mining operations periodically, the output being governed by the condition of the turquoise market. In connection with the mine, Mr. Hudson operates a plant for cutting and polishing the gems.

New Mexico Oil Revenues Told

ARTESIA (N. M.) March 30. (Exclusive)—The State of New Mexico was enriched approximately $12,000 during the month of February from oil runs in two districts. The above sum represents the State royalty secured in February from the districts of the Texas-Pacific and the Lea. During this time more than 130,000 barrels of oil were run through the pipe lines, valued at about $102,000. Operations in these districts have been principally on State lands.

Union Oil Plans New Taft Well

TAFT, March 30. (Exclusive)—Preparations are being made by Union Oil Company to spud in its Reeves No. 1 well on Sec. 27, 32-23, in the Midway field near Taft. This well will be a further test of that area for deep production.

The Texas company is drilling ahead in its Gore No. 4 well on Sec. 21, 3122, of the Midway field after a temporary shut-down. Bottom of the hole is below 4450 feet with hard brown shale formation predominating.

HOBBS FIELD TO HAVE PIPE LINE

Humble Plans Project from Jal to District

Shell Proposes Hook-up to Texas Property

Southeast Formation Test Well Projected

ARTESIA (N. M.) March 30. (Exclusive)—A pipe line connection for the Hobbs district in Lea county is assured for Southeastern New Mexico. If field reports are true the area is due to have two outlets. It is asserted that the Humble Oil and Refining Company plans an eight-inch line from Jal in the southeastern portion of the county to the Maljamar-Landreth location two and a half miles northwest of the town of Hobbs. Construction has already started on this line.

The Shell Oil Company also plans to connect the Hobbs field with a ten-inch line from its property in Winkler county, Texas. The Shell line will be approximately fifty miles long. Eight completions in the district have been shut in awaiting the pipe line and several additional wells in the area should soon be completed. The two lines entering into Hobbs at this time are expected to make that sector the most active in the State during the spring and summer months.

The Humble Oil and Refining Company will make a test of the supposed trend extending southeast from Hobbs to the Andrews pool in Andrews county, Texas, with a location 660 feet from the north and west lines of Sec. 23, Block 27-A of public school lands in Gaines county, Texas, according to recent reports.

The Empire Gas and Fuel Company Closson No. 1 on Sec. 6, 22-38, which would have made a small well at 3773 feet, was drilled deeper and at 3860 feet ran into a bad fishing job, which may necessitate skidding the rig.

The Maljamar Oil and Gas Corporation recently made a location for its second well in Western Lea county, it being the Maljamar-Landreth State No. 1 on Sec. 7, 18-33. The Baish No. 3 on Sec. 21, 17-32, which is being drilled by the same company, spudded in several days ago and now is down below 400 feet.

Two wells in Eddy county have been abandoned. In the Jackson area the Beeson No. 1 of Lockhart & Co. encountered sulphur water at 3565 feet and the F. W. and Y. State No. 87 on Sec. 19, 19-28, four miles south of the Artesia field, was abandoned as dry at 2402 feet. Although both wells proved to be disappointing, operators are of the opinion that their efforts were not entirely wasted, as the wells gave valuable information as to trend.

Oil Activity in Maricopa Flat Field Reported

MARICOPA, March 30. (Exclusive)—The California Western Oil Company has one well flowing, one plugged back, one drilling, one swabbing and an unspudded site in the Maricopa Flats area. All of the wells are on Section 17, 11-23.

Havenstrite No. 1, with a depth of 4445 feet is standing idle with the last formation reported as being brown shale. Havenstrite No. 3 has the rig erected and ready to spud in. Havenstrite No. 4 is flowing about 580 barrels of oil daily. In Havenstrite No. 5 the bottom is at 3285 feet with the fluid level at 2500 feet. Swabbing is being done to help agitate a flow.

The Birch Oil Company's Royer No. 2 well on Section 8, 11-23 is 5000 feet deep in gray sand formation. Birch's Royer No. 1 on the same section is producing 400 barrels.

Pipe Line From Texas to Hobbs Field Planned

McCAMEY (Tex.) March 30. (Exclusive)—Construction of a ten-inch oil-pipe line from the Hendrick field in Winkler county to the producing area near Hobbs, N. M., will be started by the Shell Pipe Line Company as soon as pipe and other material are received.

The proposed line will be approximately seventy-five miles long. It will almost parallel the Texas and New Mexico Railroad, which is being extended to Hobbs. There is considerable drilling activity in various parts of Lea county, New Mexico, and the new pipe line will afford an additional transportation outlet for future production.

LARGE SALT PROJECT TO BE WORKED

Plan Afoot to Develop Extensive Bed in Texas for Commerce Uses

ESTELLINE (Tex.) March 30. (Exclusive)—Situated adjacent to the new line of railroad which the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy has constructed from Estelline to Lubbock is a large deposit of salt. Steps now are being taken to commercialise the product on a large scale. This salt deposit is visible upon the surface and it has an area of 400 yards wide and about three miles long.

Its depth has not been determined, although test holes have been sunk to a depth of more than 500 feet without having reached the bottom of the salt bed. The deposit is situated about thirty miles west of Estelline just north of Turkey. An analysis shows that it is almost pure.

In its native state it has long been used by cattlemen of Northwest Texas upon their ranches for their live stock and also it has been transported in wagons over a large area for household purposes. The present plans for the development of the deposit include the construction of a large refining plant. A spur railroad will be built to the scene of operations and facilities installed for mining the product.

During February there were sixteen wells completed with a daily output of 8407 barrels. Nine of these wells are located in the Maricopa Flats area and the initial daily yield totaled 7277 barrels. Poso Creek brought in four new wells with an initial output of 750 barrels and Kern River brought in two yielding 380 barrels.

There were twenty-one new rigs erected during the month and there were sixty-three wells reported as unde ractive drilling operations.

Glide Project Cemented at Top of Vedder Sand

POSO STATION, March 30. (Exclusive)—After reaching the top of the Vedder sand at 1488 feet, the Glide No. 5 well of the General Petroleum Corporation, on Sec. 21, 27-28, in the Poso Creek district, now is standing cemented with casing set at 1476 feet. Bottom of the project is at 1491 feet.

The Union Oil Company is making a water shut-off test in its S. and M. No. 8 well at Poso Creek. The casing was cemented at 1680 feet and bottom of the well is ten feet lower.

On Sec. 28, 27-28, the Chanslor-Canfield-Midway Oil Company is drilling ahead at about 1000 feet in its Mon No. 1. At bottom the hardshell formation is being found.

The Signal Oil and Gas Company has completed rigging up for its latest project in the Poso Creek field and spudding in will take place soon. This will make Signal's tenth well in that area. The site is designated as Glide No. 22-D.

Production here generally is obtained shortly after reaching 1600 feet.

MINERAL SURVEY NEARLY FINISHED

SACRAMENTO, March 30. (AP)—Work on a mineral survey of California by counties, which has been in progress for seven years, is almost completed, Fred G. Stevenot, Director of Natural Resources, announced. Reports for Nevada and San Bernardino counties, the last to be made, are nearing completion, he said.

MICHIGAN BLUFF DIGGINGS ACTIVE

Volcanon Mining Reported as New Operator

Fair Returns in Gold Coming from Two Channels

Outlook Held Rosier at Kate Hardy Gold Estate

SACRAMENTO, March 30. (Exclusive)—Operating the properties of the Baker Divide and Forest-hill Mining companies near the historic camp of Michigan Bluff, the Volcanon Mining Company is reported to be extracting considerable gold. Two gravel channels and a lode property are under development, with the placers said to be yielding excellent returns.

Development of strong ore bodies on the 310-foot level of the Kate Hardy gold group, at Forest, Sierra county, is reported to be yielding good results. The company is operating the Brush Creek mill and treating a substantial amount of good ore. Reserves are kept well ahead of production.

San Francisco Gold Mining Company reports its improved flotation mill at its property near Placerville is operating satisfactorily, with its capacity to be raised from eighteen to fifty tons daily. The principal ledge is stated to vary from six inches to four feet in width, with the ore carrying excellent gold values. Arrangements are being made to work the deposits through a 2000-foot tunnel.

Waldberg Mining Company has installed a five-stamp battery in its new mill, thirty-eight miles northeast of Oroville, and is arranging for installation of a second unit. Construction of a ball mill and cyanide plant is also proceeding. A 200-foot tunnel and laterals have exposed a considerable tonnage of commercial gold ore.

Breasting of gravel carrying excellent gold values is proceeding in both the Aladdin and Genli properties in the Magalia field of Butte county, according to the managements. The Aladdin company is developing two properties, and the Genli is extracting profitable gravel from the main Mammoth channel area. Deep snow in adjacent hills has provided abundant water for placering and both companies anticipate profitable seasons.

ORE OUTPUT OF BONNEY MINE TOLD

Pacific Copper Estate Shipping Carload Daily from Lordsburg

LORDSBURG (N. M.) March 30. (Exclusive)—The Pacific Copper Company is shipping about a carload of ore a day from its Bonney mine, with net returns stated to be from $500 to $1700 a car. It is told that ten feet of commercial ore has been cut on the 700 level and that a good showing also is made on the 600.

Through Deming, the Peru Mining Company is shipping concentrates from the reduction of about 900 tons of zinc ore a day. Ninety men are employed.

About 150 tons a day of ore from the property of the Asarco Mining Company at Vanadium will be treated under a year's contract made with the Black Hawk Consolidated Mines Company, which has a mill near Hanover.

Six hundred tons of ore a day are being concentrated in the plant of the Hanover Bessemer Iron and Copper Company at Pierro, where employment is given to over 100 men.

A California corporation, headed by J. B. Hedrick, is reported to have taken over the Huth property, near this point. W. H. Carr of this city is in charge of operations.

Rain and Snow Aid to Arizona Placer Miners

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) March 30. (Exclusive)—Recent snows and rains have been of enormous benefit to the placer miners of this section, furnishing water for the washing of many gulches that have been almost dry for years past. Some of these gulches, especially along the Hassayampa River, on Lynx Creek, the Big Bug and Agua Fria, were rich producers as early as 1863.

On Lynx Creek, only a few miles from Prescott, extensive preparations have been made for washing the gravel on a large scale, with dredgers and with water stored in several reservoirs.

In the southern part of the county, east of Congress Junction, are several thousand acres of gravel that sample high in gold and that are expected to be worked soon by means of hydraulic equipment, the water furnished from the Hassayampa.

BELMONT MINE PROGRAM TOLD

Diamond Drilling to Center at Two Levels

Condition Like That in Magma Estate Expected

Belcher Extension Planning New Exploration

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) March 30. (Exclusive)—Development of the Belmont ground now is reported to be centered on diamond drilling from the 1450 and 1620 levels, with expectation of finding copper lenses with geological conditions similar to those of the near-by Magma property. The fifty-ton mill is not in operation. Chester Hoatson, manager, has a force of about fifty men.

The Continental Diamond Drilling Company of Los Angeles is to drill six 500-foot holes on the property of the Belcher Extension Consolidated Mines Company, at points suggested after field work of the Radiore Company of the same city. Enough water for the work has been found in a shaft on the property.

Magma Apex Copper Company is sinking a three-compartment shaft at a point 2800 feet from the Magma No. 5 shaft. The work follows an extensive diamond drilling campaign and is being directed by C. H. Anderson.

Three cars of ore shipped by the Pinal Copper Company are reported to have returned 7.8 per cent copper and 1.3 ounces silver to the ton. New compressor equipment is being added, to permit extension of the main crosscut tunnel.

The Glendinick Mines Corporation is to install a pilot mill and to spend about $100,000 on development and surface improvement. The ores carry copper, lead and silver.

From the Jumbo Lead property is report of recent discovery of a gold vein, with values sampling up to $300 a ton. There is no lead in the ore, though the company's main ledge has its major value in that metal. The company has a ball mill and has been shipping concentrates.

OLD GOLD FIELD AGAIN ATTRACTS

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 30. (Exclusive)—The Quijotoa Mountains, about half-way between this city and Ajo, fifty years ago the scene of a great gold rush, again are in the public eye through a gold find by Newt Meadows, a well-known prospector, who filed on thirty-five claims. Hundreds of other claims since have been staked, over a district for years known to have many outcroppings of valuable mineral.

Meadows's first location is close to the old Ballas property, which for a while was under option to the C. C. Julian mining branch. Very little work has been done on the new locations and their value still is to have demonstration. Some free gold samples have been brought in, the gold occurring in iron-stained porphyry.

Statement is made that work on the Gunsight mill, southwest of Ajo, has been discontinued, pending better definition of the ore. The process to be used will depend upon the results of sampling now in progress.

The Eagle Picher Lead Company of Joplin, Mo., has contracted with the Sullivan Machinery Company of Chicago for extensive diamond drilling of the former's Montana property at Ruby, southwest of this city.

A fall meeting of the mining men of Arizona is to be held in Tucson, agreed upon at a meeting recently closed at Kingman. Arrangements are in the hands of A. J. Harshberger, president of the department of mines of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Mexican Rail Branch Opened

MEXICO CITY, March 30. (Exclusive)—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, who is the chairman of the committee studying the present railroad situation in Mexico, and Mariano Cabrera, managing director of the National Railways of Mexico, presided at the inauguration of the Xicotencatl branch of the National Railways.

The new branch unites the main lines from San Luis Potosi to Tampico and from Monterrey to Tampico. It extends from Calles, State of Tamaulipas, to Guerrero, State of San Luis Potosi, and is 125 kilometers long.

MOTOR GAS TAX TOLL RUNS HIGH

Association Director Makes Study of Subject

Sets Item at 1 to 2 Cents for Every Six Miles

Total Paid for 1929 Placed at $450,000,000

While the traveling public has come to believe that tollgates in the United States are becoming fewer and fewer, they are in reality becoming more and more numerous and widespread. As a matter of fact, according to Edwin Higgins, managing director of the California Oil and Gas Association, a nation-wide tollgate system now collects from 1 to 2 cents from the motorist every time he travels about six miles.

Today the 25,000,000 motorists in this country pay from $10 to $30 yearly in gasoline taxes alone for the privilege of running their cars. This estimate is based upon the season's mileage of the average motorist—roundly, 6000 miles a year, with an average of twelve miles to the gallon of gasoline.

The association sets forth that last year the motorists of the forty-eight States paid $450,000,000 in gasoline taxes. The estimate for this year, because of higher taxes in some States and an increase in the number of vehicles, is over $500,000,000.

Taking twelve miles to the gallon as a basis, the motorist, in States where the gasoline tax is 2 cents a gallon, pays 1 cent toll every six miles. Three-cent tax makes the toll 1 cent every four miles, 4 cents raises it to 1 cent every three miles, 5 cents boosts it to 1 cent every 2.4 miles, where 6 cents makes it 1 cent every two miles.

Most of the States are collecting gasoline taxes on the basis of 2 and 3 cents per gallon, but there has been a growing tendency in some sections to boost the rate to what seems an unreasonable level. The motorist who counts his motor fuel cost from month to month would do well, the association thinks, to give thought to the fact that 2 or 3 cents on every gallon is a State tax.

The association points out that last year the American Petroleum Institute went on record as not opposed to the levying of a gasoline tax, where all the revenue is used for highway construction and maintenance, but as being opposed to the fixing of a rate per gallon tax beyond reasonable bounds, or where the rate the consumer must pay is out of equable proportion to the price of the gasoline.

ABUSE OF LICENSES CLARIFIED

Individuals Not Allowed to Use Copartnership Contracting Permits

SACRAMENTO, March 30. (AP)—James F. Collins, director of the State Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, has issued a warning to members of all contracting firms licensed and doing business that their license certificates cover only the copartnership as such and cannot be used by members of the copartnership operating as individuals.

Collins declared that numerous reports had been received by him that members of contracting firms licensed as copartnerships, have been engaging in contracting work as individuals, using the firm's State license to cover operations.

This, Collins said, is a direct violation of the law. The section of the law providing for penalties for such violation prescribes a fine of $500, six months in jail, or both. Inspectors have been instructed to watch such practices, Collins declared.

State Shields Motorists in Gasoline War

SACRAMENTO, March 30. (AP)—Vigilance of the State Division of Weights and Measures is being redoubled to prevent "bootlegging" of gasoline and other fraudulent practices during the present gasoline price war, C. N. Herndon, district inspector, has announced.

Early in the morning and late at night State inspectors are on guard to prevent dumping of inferior gasoline into tanks bearing labels of well-known brands, Herndon declared. Laboratory tests are being made constantly to check on the quality of gasoline sold.

In cases where gasoline is found to be adulterated with kerosene or other liquids but still meets minimum State requirements, dealers are required to sell it as "gasoline, no brand," Herndon explained, adding that the motoring public buys such gasoline at its own risk as far as quality is concerned.

Being of the opinion that the present gasoline price-cutting situation may last for some time, Herndon declared State inspection would be as thorough as possible with the man power available. In such times, he pointed out, the temptation for dealers to indulge in unfair practices to increase dwindling profits is greatly increased.

NEW BRITISH RIFLE GIVEN SECRET TRIAL

BISLEY (Eng.) March 30. (AP)—Secret trials of a new British army rifle here reveal that it can fire sixty bullets a minute.

It is only slightly larger and no heavier than the present standard service rifle and is the invention of an American, Col. Pedersen.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Two Samples

BARSTOW, March 19.—Question: I am inclosing two samples marked Nos. 1 and 2. No. 1 does not react to acid and was taken from the same ledge. No. 2 has a feeble reaction to acid. Can you tell me if either has any particular value. X.

Answer: Specimen No. 1 is milk-white quartz, coated on one side with limonitic clay, and traces of brownish chalcedony found. It is spotted with traces of dendritic manganese and carries no pollucite. No. 2 is dolomite, coated on one side with microscopical-crystalized plates of brownish-gray dolomite, and carries pseudomorphy matter after pyrite in traces only.

Cinnabar Absent

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—Q.: These rocks were found in Elizabeth Canyon, Los Angeles county. Rock No. 1 contains yellow ochre and I do not know what No. 2 carries. Will you kindly give me a general analysis on each sample with values. E.

A.: Qualitative analysis only. It would be a pleasure to give full analysis to everybody, but that is not possible. Sample No. 1 is a silicious rock mixed with more or less limonite (hydrous iron peroxide) and probably represents rather doubtful values as yellow ochre product. No. 2 also carries sandstone. It is strained red with hematite (iron peroxide) and carries a little manganese. Free gold is not present in either specimen.

Calcite

TEHACHAPI, March 20.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of crystals. I found them about thirty miles from Trona, and they are in ledge eight inches wide; well defined. The formation is dolomite and andesite. I have been over a good deal of ground, but have never run across anything like this and am a little anxious to know just what the crystals represent, and without guessing at it. C.

A.: The crystals are longitudinally striated, opaque calcite, chemically known as lime carbonate.

Massive Epidote

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of beryllium(?) from San Bernardino Mountains. Please give me qualitative analysis thereon. D.

A.: The sample is but six in the scale of hardness and does not scratch glass. Beryl easily scratches glass, and is from 7.50 to 8 in the scale referred to. Wet analysis shows that the specimen is epidote.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Q.: The sample comes from Lyle Creek Canyon, San Bernardino county, California. It may carry tin. H.

A.: The rock specimen is probably hornblendic granite and carries no tin. It reacts for iron, titaniferous iron, quartz, hornblende, biotite, (black mica of the mining boys in the hills) and a little graphite. It represents problematical values.

Three Samples

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Q.: The samples were found on the homestead of B. F. Hartley, in the Cuyama Valley near Maricopa. Would like to know if one specimen contains asbestos, and if so is it of commercial value—are the other samples dolomite, or magnesia of commercial value? B.

A.: The sample you take for asbestos is crystallized gypsum coated with grayish-yellow gypsite (impure gypsum.) One other grayish-yellow specimen is gypsite. The remaining sample is also coated with gypsite and carries some clay, (aluminum silicate) with more or less magnesium. All of the samples represent problematical commercial values.

Three Specimens

LONG BEACH, March 22.—Q.: Samples Nos. 1 and 2 are from Pima county, Arizona, sixty-five miles southwest of Gila Bend, and just over the Pinal county line. No. 1 is from Lucky Boy mining claim staked as No. 1 and No. 2 from No. 2 Lucky Boy. These claims are as yet undeveloped and we would like to determine the possibilities of developing ore out of these surface croppings. No. 3 was discovered in San Bernardino county, California, and from a big deposit. T.

A.: No. 1 is copper-stained quartz and the copper mineral is chrysocolla. No. 2 is iron-stained rock with some chrysocolla, and free gold traces. No. 3 is silicate rock with chrysocolla. All of the specimens should give low value returns for gold. Not knowing the formations on the claims, with width of ledges, etc., no further references can be made as to values.

Five Samples

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Q.: I am taking the liberty of sending you some stuff I picked up in the Teton range of the Rockies in Idaho last fall while hunting up there. This stuff all comes out of good big ledges, and I thought some of it might be worth while looking into. P.

A.: No. 1 is impure limestone mixed with limonite. No. 2 red, is hematite mixed with calcite (lime carbonate.) No. 3 is on the order of No. 1, but some of the thumb specimens are stalactite (formed by calcareous waters.) No. 4, if pure and transparent, would be "Iceland spar," but all of the crystals are opaque, crystallized calcite. No. 5—in small sack—is low-grade silica. All samples represent doubtful commercial values.

Two Samples

LONE PINE, March 20.—Q.: I'm sending you samples Nos. 1 and 2. I believe one is good white talc and the other one a sodium oxide. Please give me analysis on each specimen. R.

A.: The numbers on paper slips were loosened in transit. One of the specimens is gypsum containing common table salt (halite) and sodium oxide is not present. The talcose specimen carries a little indurated talc and traces of slaty talc—with more or less gypsum.

Pure Quartz

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Q.: Please give me a general analysis of this rock. It was found in San Diego county. Oblige. X.

A.: The sample was carefully analyzed for pollucite and beryl with negative results.

Two Samples

MURRIETA, March 21.—Q.: Am sending two samples of mineral for your classification, etc. No. 1 I take to be baryte. No. 2 may be zinc. M.

A.: No. 1 is chiefly baryte, and also reacts for lead-arsenopyrite, iron, traces of copper, lime carbonate and strontianite (strontium carbonate) is absent. No. 2 carries quartz, arsenopyrite and baryte.

Three Samples

LONE PINE, March 21.—Q.: I am sending you three ore samples for analyses. This ore is from the Russ mining district of Lone Pine, Cal. X.

A.: The yellowish specimen is iron-stained quartz. The brownish-green rock is breccia stained with iron and manganese, and the third sample is mineralized vein quartz. Similar minerals (all three of such) should be fire-assayed for gold and silver.

SIMON MINE OUTLOOK ROSY

TONOPAH (Nev.) March 31. (Exclusive)—The ore body recently uncovered on the 800-foot level of the Simon Silver Lead Company has been developed for 200 feet and shows a width of fifty feet, according to news from Mina. The ore is said to be a heavy sulphide carrying good values in copper, lead, silver and zinc. It is planned to sink another 100 feet and cross cut to the vein, with the shaft to be deepened to the 1000-foot level if the deposit continues to display its present strength as depth is gained. This is the second deposit opened in limestone on the 800-foot level.

With one of the best ore bodies ever opened in the mine reported to be showing improvement with development, the White Caps Company has resumed shipments from its properties at Manhattan. Fifteen tons of gold ore are going daily to custom smelters. The ledge is said to be fully twenty feet wide.

The Nevada-Arizona Gold Mining Company has been incorporated under the laws of Nevada to take over and work the Little Gem and Rainbow properties in the old Delamar district. The claims are located between the old Delamar and Magnolia mines, famed gold producers twenty-five years ago. The Delamar vein is said to course through the Little Gem and Rainbow, and arrangements are being made for comprehensive mining. A. F. Jensen of Fredonia, Ariz., is president.

The mill at the Round Mountain mine at Round Mountain is running steadily on profitable gold ore, with the bulk of the material coming from the massive ore body discovered several weeks ago. The company expects to start hydraulicking its immense placer deposits early in April. Deep snow blankets the adjacent ranges and the outlook for abundant water is more promising than in many years.

The Gipsy Queen Company, controlled by the Thomas F. Cole interests of Pasadena and New York, is reported to be completing arrangements to take over the old Montana-Tonopah mine. Leasers have exposed some good ore and rejuvenation of the old producer is said to be contemplated.

CLEATOR MINES SECTION ACTIVE

MAYER (Ariz.) March 30. (Exclusive)—Much interest attaches to developments in the Cleator section, south of this point. The International Consolidated Mining Company has completed reduction works, with inclusion of a seventy-five-ton flotation plant and a 130-ton cyanide plant.

A new fifty-ton custom mill also is contemplated, as well as enlargement of a leaching plant. The Howard Copper Company, which has done much deep development work, with a large tonnage in sight, is considering a flotation mill.

A mill is to be placed on the French Lily property, for complex ores that carry gold, silver, lead and zinc. Ore is being trucked to the Humboldt smelter from John Slak's St. John group, the material taken from six shafts in the course of development. There are values in gold, silver and copper.

West of Turkey Creek, in the same section, a mill is being built on the Golden Belt property, on which a large tonnage of ore has been blocked out in relatively shallow workings.

Seven per cent copper ore is being received at the Humboldt smelter from the Binghampton Extension property, near this point. Operations are by Shanafelt & Co.

Three miles north of Crown King, a contract for tunneling has been given on the Fairview mine, owned by Ed Block of Prescott. There are three parallel ledges, five feet apart, carrying milling ore averaging above $6 in gold and shipping ore running above $35. The mine adjoins the noted War Eagle-Gladiator group.

Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.—[Advertisement.

POR EL PROF. R. GUERRERO

Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

Para ejercicio de mis lectores copio a continuación un artículo de Joaquín Belda, intitulado "El Ramo de Flores", y publicado en "Blanco y Negro", conocida revista madrileña. Ruego al estudiante que se penetre bien del sentido de todas los modismos y locuciones de tal artículo.

¡Hombre! Mañana era su santo, y no tenía más remedio que hacerle un regalo.

Sí; por mucho que doliese el estado cloroanémico de su bolsa, él no tenía más remedio que obsequiar con un presente a Mariana de la Rueda y Campuche, a la noble dama que, en el curso de doce meses, le había invitado diez veces a comer.

Cuando se come en una casa con cierta contumacia, y además se come bien, no hay más que dos caminos a seguir: o se queda como un caballero, devolviendo, en una forma o en otra, el obsequio al dueño de esa casa, o se sale diciendo que en ella se come muy mal, y llevándose de paso algunas cucharillas.

Daniel, protagonista de este breve relato, optó por el primero de estos dos caminos. Y pensó en el regalo.

Pero ¿qué regalar a una señora que ya ha cumplido los cincuenta años, que es viuda, y que, además, tiene un surtido de alhajas y preseas, que parece el de un rajá más o menos indostánico.

¿Una vajilla? Parece una alusión, demasiado literal y grosera, a las muchas comidas que hay que agradecer. ¿Un espejo? Puede romperse; además, que ofrendar un espejo a una mujer que tiene más de cincuenta años es brindarle una ocasión y un medio más de que contemple—salvo excepciones muy golosas—su propia fealdad y decadencia.

Daniel pensó también en el socorrido corte de traje; ya iba a adquirirlo de una preciosa tela estampada color lubina macilenta, que vio en el escaparate de un comercio de la calle del Barco, en el que se anunciaban saldos a un precio que denotaba en el dueño un franco estado demencial, cuando pensó que con la poca tela que ahora necesitan las damas para un vestido, regalar un corte de él parece un alarde de tacañería.

Para no pensarlo más se decidió por las flores; un buen ramo de flores, que es lo más socorrido que regalarse puede; tan socorrido, que las flores son el único regalo que puede hacerse indistintamente a los vivos y a los muertos. Este pensamiento es bastante profundo.

Daniel compró un espléndido ramo de claveles—cuatro pesetas la docena—, mezcló entre ellos unas rosas de París, que, por lo pomposas y bien coloreadas, parecían de trapo, y se encaminó con el total a casa de su protectora culinaria.

¿Quién ha dicho que no hay voluptuosidad en el pago de una deuda? Será quien no las haya pagado nunca. ¡Vaya si la hay! Yo, que he pagado muchas, aunque acaso no todas las que debiera, afirmo que el pagar es un goce, y si lo que se paga es una deuda de gratitud, el goce se convierte en orgía.

Daniel llegó a la casa de su amiga. A la puerta había una carroza fúnebre automóvil: doña Mariana de la Rueda había muerto repentinamente la noche antes.

Daniel, de rabia, se comió el ramo de claveles.

En la próxima Plática comenzaré a comentar en la forma acostumbrada el transcrito relato.

Blind Children "See" Animals

MUSKOGEE (Okla.) March 30. (AP)—Through sensitive fingers children in the Oklahoma School for Blind are learning to "see" birds and animals.

In a museum of natural history, recently established at the institution, the children are being taught the comparative sizes and apparent characteristics of animals and birds common to the "seeing" world.

Taxidermists and the State Game Commission are assisting in supplying specimens. Clay models of birds and smaller animals, which the blind pupils are required to make, are a part of the instruction.

MAN-EATING BEARS OF ALASKA HUNTED

KODIAK (Alaska) March 30. (AP) A whole family of Kodiak bears, father, mother, Teddy and Sadie, are wanted by the State museum at Springfield, Ill., so that residents of the plains can come and gaze on the largest man-eating animals in the world.

To that end, C. H. Barr of Springfield Museum, will be here in May with Mrs. Barr. The two will penetrate the wilds of Kodiak island under the leadership of Charles Madsen of Kodiak Guides' Association in search of the brown animals which sometimes grow to weigh a ton.

BOOTLEGGERS DEBAUCH BEES

Carolina Apiarist Finds Ills of Insects Due to Moonshine

RALEIGH (N. C.) March 30. (AP)—C. L. Sams, extension apiarist of North Carolina State College, today charged that "the family life of bees is being broken up in many sections of the State by bootleg whisky." Mr. Sams has just completed an investigation into an epidemic of deaths among Tar Heel bees.

"Stills," he reported, "are located much easier by bees than by revenue officers. The bees taste the mash, tell their friends and came back for more."

"A yeast which promotes the growth of a type of fungi, often proves fatal to the imbibers," the apiarist explained.

NOISES BOUNCE OFF BUILDING

Street Din Complained of in Apartment-House Laid to Neighboring Walls

That the peculiar construction of a new thirteen-story building on the easterly side of Rampart Boulevard at Wilshire, acts as a sounding-board and throws noises into the Bryson Apartments is the explanation advanced following complaints by Miss May Jenkins, operator of the apartments, and others, that busses make unnecessary noise.

Chief Motor Vehicle Inspector Gunn so informed the Board of Public Utilities, stating that a slight grade makes it necessary for the busses to travel in low gear near the new building and this helps to intensify the noise.

Gunn explained that there is no satisfactory plan for rerouting the line, which is extensively used, and the board decided it could offer no relief except to continue efforts to reduce the cause of complaint.

Yesterday's Rain Brings March Total to 1.21 Inches Above Normal

Moderate temperatures with cloudy, unsettled skies and possible showers will be Los Angeles' weather portion today and tomorrow, according to last night's forecast by the Weather Bureau. Conditions are expected largely to parallel those that prevailed yesterday when the mercury covered a range of six degrees, the lowest being 55 and the peak 60, and the intermittent bursts of sunshine totaled only forty-three minutes. The barometric pressure yesterday registered only .12.

Rainfall for March is 1.21 inches above normal, the bureau also announced. Up to last night a total of 3.99 inches had fallen, as against the average precipitation of 2.78 inches.

While only a slight drizzle was noted between 3 and 4 a.m. in the city yesterday, several outlying communities reported appreciable showers. Brisk rainfall at Glendale during Saturday night added .06 of an inch to the season's total there, the total now being 9.05 inches, compared to 11.35 inches for the corresponding period last year.

Total rainfall for the season in Los Angeles is given by officials as 10.33, which is 3.28 below the normal of 13.61 for the period to date.

FESTIVAL JOINS EAST AND WEST

Ten Thousand Gather in Cherry Valley

Japanese Dancers Feature Blossom Fete

International Good Will Put to Test

BY BURTON L. SMITH
"Times" Staff Representative

BEAUMONT, March 30.—The feeling of friendliness and international good will was given its most practical test today when more than 10,000 Americans and Japanese gathered at Cherry Valley, four miles north of here, this afternoon to witness a cherry blossom festival presented by Japanese residents of Los Angeles, Imperial and Riverside counties.

The festival was sponsored by the Rotary Club of this city with the sanction of Rotary International and made a part of the great peace program adopted by that organization. From a stage trimmed in the national colors and flags of the two nations, with a background of cherry blossoms, representative Americans welcomed their Japanese guests and pledged themselves, their communities and their organizations to international peace and the development of better understanding between America and the Orient.

HEADED BY CONSUL

Headed by Hon. Toshito Satow, Japanese Consul at Los Angeles, prominent Japanese citizens present vied with each other in their expressions of good will and never-dying friendship. Singing of the national anthems of America and Japan by the audience was a striking feature of the program, which was presented under the direction of Dr. Guy Bogart, secretary of the Rotary Club of this city, who has been active in the work of creating a better understanding between the two nations.

Beaumont was selected as the setting for this unusual celebration for the reason that this community, more than any other in the State, presents cherry orchards in profusion whose blossoms form an important and beautiful part in a celebration similar to that which in Japan is a national custom.

GIRLS IN PARADE

The festival opened shortly after noon with the Sakura Gyoretsu (parade of the cherry blossoms) by a large number of Japanese girls in native costume and was perhaps the most noteworthy and colorful ceremony ever seen as a festival feature in the United States. Yamato Japanese band of Riverside furnished most of the music for the occasion, which was most pleasing to Japanese and Americans alike. A series of folk dances presented by various groups of Japanese girls in native costume included yari yakko (lance dance,) haruno odori (spring dance,) doyo (child fantasy,) harusame (spring rain, love-song dance,) kappore (Japanese jazz) and the musume dojoj (flower festival dance.) All told a story of life in Japan and with the delightfully weird music which accompanied them made almost as real to the Americans as to the Japanese the folk lore of the Orient.

In the array of talent was Miss Viola C. Honda, who sang in perfect English popular and tuneful melodies, and Miss Kyo Inouye, who gave several songs in her native language.

MR. MILLER PRAISED

Frank A. Miller, master of the Mission Inn of Riverside, was introduced to the audience as the "one American citizen who more than any other helped to establish that relation of understanding and friendship which made possible a cherry blossom festival in which the peoples of two nations could participate." Mr. Miller did not at-

"GHOST" OF VALENTINO LAID

Harry Carey Solves Mystery of Weird Tappings and Lights in Home of Dead Film Actor

The mystery of spooks and spirits of Rudolph Valentino that stalked for many months through the spacious rooms of the palatial mansion he once occupied on a terrace overlooking Beverly Hills has been solved. There were spooks a-plenty, spirits, too, and weird noises and pale lights of varied colors that could be seen for some distance around through the windows of Falcon Lair, because it nestles prominently on a hillside visible to many sections of the exclusive residential district.

Those who saw all this and more, perhaps, some weeks ago weren't just "seeing things," nor were they having dreams. Such things actually happened.

But there is a big BUT to the story.

HARRY CAREY MOVES IN

Harry Carey, pioneer film actor, who took a lease on Falcon Lair following his recent trek into the wilds of Africa with the "Trader Horn" company, not long ago moved into the pretentious sixteen-room dwelling, with Mrs. Carey and their two children.

His moving-in ended a puzzle that had mystified Beverly Hills residents for months about all these strange goings on at Falcon Lair; the flashing of eerie lights and ghost-like figures moving about in the dead of night.

It all came about by the discovery of a maze of electrical wires that surrounded a chimney; that were spied behind a built-in bookcase and that finally led to a bedroom below and thence to a hitherto unknown compartment beneath the house where there was a large box, that once probably held some tricky electrical device, the terminals of all this strange wiring still hanging above it.

To make sure what the wires meant Carey called in an electrician and he pronounced them not in any way connected with the electrical current of the house.

WHAT HE FOUND OUT

Then he started to satisfy himself what it was all about. Here is

SOUTHLAND DATE YIELD INCREASES

Coachella Valley Output Last Year Reached Total of 1,639,500 Pounds

How Southern California is looming up as a producer of dates in competition with the Orient and Africa, is shown in a report made public yesterday by the marine exchange of the Chamber of Commerce. Where no dates at all were grown in the United States thirty years ago, the Coachella Valley, Riverside county, last year produced 1,639,500 pounds.

Formerly all dates consumed throughout the world were grown in Arabia, Persia, Algeria, Egypt, China, India and Jerusalem. They were sold from open boxes at 5 or 10 cents a pound. In 1900 the United States Department of Agriculture made a successful planting at Tempe, Ariz. Later came the development of the date growing in the Coachella Valley, where climatic conditions are identical and in some cases superior to those of the date countries in the Near East.

A superior quality of date was

Central Figure in Julian Debacle Will Give Up to Marshal Today; Berman Bitterly Attacked

Sheridan C. Lewis, president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and central figure in the maze of criminal and civil litigation which grew out of the crash of his company, will surrender to the United States government at 9 o'clock this morning.

With seven years in a Federal penitentiary hanging over his head Lewis will give up to the United States Marshal at the Federal Building and at the same time a petition will be presented in the United States Circuit Court in San Francisco requesting the immediate issuance of a mandate.

The announcement that he is ready to begin serving his sentence on a mail-fraud conviction in connection with operations of the Lewis Oil Corporation came with dramatic suddenness from Lewis late last night.

"I am ready to begin my time," declared the former oil field operator last night from a seat behind his desk in a downtown office building.

DESK CLEARED

"You will see that all my personal affairs have been attended to," Lewis continued with a wave of the hand to a bare desk, "and now I want the United States marshal to take me to the penitentiary at McNeil Island to begin my sentence of seven years.

"At present I am at liberty under two Federal bonds. The first of $30,000 is in connection with the Lewis Oil Corporation conviction on which I still have until April 23 to file a petition for a writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court of the United States. The second was posted when I was indicted by the government on a mail-fraud charge connected with the Julian Petroleum Corporation. It also is for $30,000.

MAY LEAVE WEDNESDAY

"Tomorrow morning," Lewis went on, "I am going to walk into the marshal's office and surrender. My attorneys in San Francisco will at the same time appear before the United States Circuit Court and request from the court an immediate issuance of a mandate and I hope to be on the way north by Wednesday morning."

And so, if Lewis lives up to his announcements of last night, he will end almost an uninterrupted series of civil and criminal court action which started with the crash of the Julian corporation in May, 1927, and as a result of which he has spent more than twenty-two months giving testimony in various courts.

"I am anxious to start serving my sentence for using the mails to defraud and therefore I am surrendering to the United States marshal with the request that I be transported to McNeil Island. I have made all the surety bonds that I am capable of making," he explained last night.

NEW TROUBLES FEARED

The fear of additional State indictments in conection with the present renewed Julian investigation, and the trials to follow, according to the convicted man, played a part in his decision to surrender to the government.

"I had always intended," declared Lewis yesterday, "to surrender to the United States government as soon as the deposition now being given by me in Judge Tappaan's court was completed.

"The present unfair attempt by the Los Angeles brokers interested in my downfall and the attempt to involve innocent men so that the brokers may protect their own ill-gotten gains make my present action of surrendering at once imperative."

On a charge of jury tampering, in connection with the first Julian trials, Lewis already has been indicted by the present grand jury and is now on liberty under $5000 bond. Out of the present investigation at least two, and perhaps more, indictments will probably be lodged against him but once in Fed-

NEW ACTION DUE IN JULIAN CASE

More Indictments Expected to Be Returned Today

Stock Overissue Angle Now Gets Chief Attention

Ten Scheduled to Put Up Bail This Morning

New grand jury indictments naming more prominent business men, bankers and brokers, are expected to be returned late today when the inquiry body completes its work on the second phase of the revived investigation of the ramifications of the Julian Petroleum Corporation.

The grand jury started the phase of inquiry into stock overissue late Friday afternoon, just before the voting of two indictments naming thirty-four business men and charging them with a conspiracy to commit usury. The true bills today are forecast to name defendants on charges of conspiracy to violate the Corporate Securities Act, conspiracy to commit perjury and grand theft.

SECRECY SOUGHT

Every effort is being made to conduct the investigation in a most secret manner, and there were no certain indications yesterday as to the number facing indictment today, but the possibility that eight to eleven new names will be added to the present revived list was clearly evident.

When the grand jury starts its special session, with Jacob Berman, also known as Jack Bennett, scheduled as the witness to complete his long testimony, some ten of those indicted Friday will be making their $5000 bail before Superior Judge Wood.

Twenty of the thirty-four posted bonds Saturday, and ten of the remaining fourteen have announced their intention of surrendering early today.

Three of the four are en route here from points outside the State, and the fourth is in San Quentin.

NAMES LISTED

The ten, who have signified their intention of arranging for their freedom on bail today are Joe Lipkey, David Gordan, D. Horowitz, I. L. Rouse, A. B. Marcus, Marcus Brophy, S. F. Max Pruett, S. Kalish, Albert Lane and D. Barnes.

Motley H. Flint and William R. Hervey are reported to be in Europe, but have cabled their intention of returning home by first boat to face the charges.

Joe Toplitzky, named as one of the defendants, was en route east when notified of the indictment. He

by Harry Carr

THERE is a great sweetness and charm to life in Mexico.

The other day we had luncheon at an old rancho—La Posa, about twelve miles out from Hermosillo.

Like most Mexican houses, the ranch house is built out flush to the line of the road. Inside are the patios where the balconies look down upon gardens. Jerked venison was strung along between the porch posts and the bedrooms were as big and cool as drill halls, with wonderful old furniture dating back to the days before nails came into vogue.

THE VAQUERO'S HEALTH

Among the party were a Secretary of State, a Mexican Senator and several other great guns of the government; but a Mexican vaquero came into the group quite simply and without embarrassment and stood about in his leather chaps for a while.

When it came time for him to go, he lifted his glass of bacanara and the proprietor of the ranch announced that Senor Lopez, the best cattle foreman in Northern Mexico, would like the honor of drinking the health of the visitors. So the Secretary of State and the man who owns the bank and the Senator stood up and lifted their glasses and drank the health of the cowhand in chaps; and he bowed himself out with all the grace and dignity of an ambassador.

EL GOBERNADOR

I have written of Gov. Elias of Sonora as a Teddy Roosevelt. Perhaps I should have said a Haroun Al Raschid. Anyhow he is one of the most striking characters I have met.

When you ride along a country road with him in his car, it is one stop after another. At San Miguel, the secretary of the school festival waves him to a stop, to inquire if he thinks the bunting wrapped around the speakers' stand is all right; or should it have been on both sides of the street. Half-way down the line, a little road foreman in overalls, runs out and waves him to a stop.

"Jesus y Maria, they are getting into some tough rock on the road and what does Don Pancho, the Governor advise; a scraper or a steam shovel?"

And which way is the Governor going? Up toward San Miguel. Good, the man in overalls will ride a few miles with him up to the new culvert. And they tell each other funny stories all the way and part with a wave and an "Adios."

SINGING ALONG

Riding with a party of Mexican gentlemen is a charming experience. Half the time they are singing; everybody sings in Mexico.

Every time they come to a ranch, they stop to pass the time of day with anybody who happens to be around—peon or proprietor. They have a little drink and tell a little joke and step along.

And the way they step! Whew! They just about stand with both feet on the accelerator and if the car ever gets down to the speed of a scared skyrocket they think they are loafing.

MYSTERY BLOW FELLS OFFICER

Policeman Critically Hurt in Italian Quarter

Bootleggers Believed to Have Sought Retaliation

Detectives Have Few Clews in Investigation

The victim of a mysterious attack in the Italian quarter in the northeastern section of the city, Officer Alfred W. Doyle, working out of Lincoln Heights division, is in a critical condition at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Police surgeons said a blow on the head caused a basal skull fracture.

Up until a later hour yesterday detectives had but little information regarding the case. It is suspected that, while conducting an investigation, Doyle was set upon by several bootleggers and beaten up in retaliation for his activity in their neighborhood as a police officer.

STRANGER PICKED UP

The only clew to the solution of the mysterious attack was furnished by Officer C. A. Davis. Davis reported that Doyle and his wife had visited his home Saturday evening. During the course of the visit Doyle, Davis said, declared he wanted to go to "Wop Town" to see a man in regard to an investigation. Together they drove in Doyle's automobile first to 1812 North Broadway where Doyle picked up a stranger and then drove on to Avenue 19 and Mozart street.

Here Doyle got out of the car with the man, Davis said, both returning a few moments later. They were engaged in a heated argument. As the pair approached the car in which Davis was waiting the stranger turned and walked off. Doyle, Davis said, hesitated for a moment, then wheeled about and followed the man.

LYING ON SIDEWALK

After waiting for some time Davis said he drove back to Avenue 18 and Broadway, and, as he neared the corner, he saw Doyle lying unconscious on the sidewalk. He immediately summoned help and Doyle was rushed to the hospital.

An investigation is being made by Detective Lieutenants Bradley and Stevens of the central homicide detail. They declared they expect to have several suspects in custody soon.

Doyle lives at 1422 North Avenue 55. He has been a member of the Los Angeles Police Department for many years, and until recently worked as a detective lieutenant on the robbery squad in Central Division. He is 35 years of age.

AVILA ADOBE AGAIN RINGS WITH GAYETY

Fiesta Climaxes Pilgrimage to Historic Plaza Spots

Senoritas Preparing Food and Jollity for Historical Society

THE old Avila Adobe, 14 Olvera street, rang again with gayety this week-end when members of California Historical Society made a pilgrimage to historic spots around the Plaza and ended with a fiesta at the 'dobe. Mexican food and senoritas conjured up an atmosphere of the days of the dons while strolling Mexican troubadours strummed airs of a romantic California day that promoters of the Avila house project are trying to preserve. Dinner was served out of doors in the patio.

Arthur M. Ellis and Laurence L. Hill conducted guests to various locations of historical interest. Hill is author of "La Reina Los Angeles in Three Centuries."

SPOOKY HOUSE PUZZLE SOLVED

what he discovered from, he says, an unimpeachable source:

There was once a caretaker hired to watch the property. He was a spiritualist and had a following. They held seances in the bedroom, where two sets of terminals were found. During these seances the spirit of Valentino, garbed in his sheik raiment, was made to appear from a huge cabinet.

This was all done at night. The illusion was said to be perfect. The wires were used, in some manner, to aid in the illusion. During the seances the surroundings were made as mystic as was possible. The wires were hooked up so that there came, at intervals, strange tappings throughout the house and on the windows. Pale blue and green lights mysteriously flashed on and off through the house.

STILL ONE MYSTERY

That's where the spook stories about Falcon Lair originated, Carey opines.

There is still one thing unexplained in his mind but he isn't going to bother about it, he said. In moving in he discovered huge boxes of mysterious chemicals and powders stored in the garage. Not being interested further in spooks and spirits he had these destroyed.

"Nevertheless there is something strange and spooky about the place," Carey declared, "in spite of all we found out. Our friends insisted to us the house was haunted and advised against moving in. The stables were too good to pass up—you know I still have my horses—so we moved in anyway.

"Africa was wild but our first several nights in the house were wilder. We heard strange noises all over. Windows banged continually. There was a freakish howling when the wind blew. A strange tapping kept up all night. We fixed the window and these noises stopped.

"We traced the howling to the wind blowing through metal weather boards on the windows. We cut back the overgrown trees and shrubbery and those noises ceased. But the tapping continued. We were about to give up in despair. It did seem as though all the stories about the house were about correct.

"One day I chanced to discover a door covered by a bush that apparently led to one part of the basement. When I opened it there was a rush of bats. We cleaned out the bats and this noise stopped. Now all noises have stopped and we sleep in comfort. It was where we found the bats that we discovered the box that apparently held the electrical gadget that operated the lights and the tappers."

The saddest part about moving into the house, Carey said, was that it almost cost them their cook, who has been with them for years. Lily May is her name. Here is the story:

Lily May was in the kitchen one fine morning going about her chores when a stranger came to the door. The stranger got Lily May interested in conversation. It finally led to spooks.

"Valentino's spirits still haunt this house," the stranger confidentially informed Lily May.

"Aw, gwan," sputtered the cook.

Then the stranger pulled out a bundle of pictures. They actually showed Valentino's spirit in the various rooms of the house. Lily May fainted. The stranger disappeared forthwith.

"Lily May was all for leaving us," Carey said. "We thought that we were going to have to move. But we finally managed to explain to her there is such a thing as double-exposure pictures so she decided to stay on."

Falcon Lair, Carey says, still is the mecca for scores of sightseers who visit it daily. After he moved in, he said, he was compelled to lock the gates to keep souvenir seekers away.

"When our lease expires we're going back to the wide open spaces to a ranch," said Carey as he wended his way to a stable to tend his horses.

So there is the explanation of all the spook stories that started in circulation some months after Valentino's death in August, 1926, in New York.

PLAZA SEATS AUTHORIZED

Construction of red tile seats with brick piers in the Los Angeles Plaza, plans for which have been approved by the Municipal Art Commission, has been authorized by the Park Commission. A revised estimate of the cost is $2000. The budget allowance is $1200 and the commission has appropriated an additional $800 to cover the cost.

COUNTY HEALTH GAIN MADE

Dr. Pomeroy's Report Shows Communicable Disease Decreasing and Predicts Greater Advance

Los Angeles county continues to maintain an enviable health record, according to a report made by Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer. The report shows that the morbidity rate of the county is considerably lower than most sections of the United States and is steadily declining.

Communicable disease in most instances show a decided decrease during the present month, varying from one-fourth to one-half of the normal seasonal expectancy, which is computed from weekly averages over a five-year period. A notable decrease during the last five years in the prevalence of smallpox and diphtheria is attributed to the policy of the health department in urging vaccination.

The report covers an area of 3400 square miles over which the County Health Department has jurisdiction. The district includes thirty-six incorporated cities and a population of approximately 850,000.

"The continued low prevalence of disease depends a great deal upon the co-operation of the public in observing public health laws and principles," Dr. Pomeroy said. "It is especially of importance that all citizens and physicians report cases of disease promptly, not only because it is required by law, but because it is of economic and social benefit to each individual."

The health official pointed out that a high health standard costs less to maintain than to attain and expressed the belief that within the next decade communicable disease will decrease to a negligible factor as a cause of death.

MOTORIST LASHES RACERS

Bicycle Contest Marred by Mysterious Attack; Riders Finish, However, as Assailant Escapes

Wielding a quirt with which he lashed at contestants, a mysterious motorist with an aversion to bicyclists yesterday tried unsuccessfully to disrupt an interurban bicycle race from Santa Ana to Huntington Park, which was sponsored by the Olympic Cycle Club to develop crack riders for the 1932 Olympiad.

The man made his appearance among the cyclists a short distance out of Santa Ana. Speeding alongside them in the same direction, many of the riders reported, he reached out with a long rawhide whip and stung about ten of the pedalers over the back and knuckles. He then put on speed and began his escape. Other motorists, witnessing the series of attacks, gave chase, but the whipper lost his pursuers in traffic.

Despite their injuries, victims of the mad motorist finished the race. Most of them exhibited ugly welts on back and arms and hands. None, however, was able to give police the car's license number.

The race, a distance of about thirty-five miles, was won in a spirited finish by Russell Allen, 16 years of age, of Huntington Park. He pushed his wheel over the line a foot and a half ahead of Alvin Rivera of Los Angeles. Sebastian Schmidt was third and Adolph Gobers fourth. The winner's time was 1h. 31m. In the junior division, L. Crowley finished first in 2h. 18m., and C. Lindsey second in 2h. 29m. The contest was marked by several spills, caused by road ruts and sharp turns.

MYSTERY MAN WILL AID BIRD

New Murder Trial Witness Slated to Appear Today

Loading of Borrowed Gun With Bullets to be Told

Completion of Testimony by Wife Also Scheduled

A mystery witness, who will testify that he borrowed Maj. Owen R. Bird's revolver and loaded it with bullet-laden cartridges, is scheduled to take the witness stand in Superior Judge Hardy's court today to corroborate the defendant's assertion that when he shot and fatally wounded his friend, Percival G. Watson, on November 25, 1929, he believed the gun was still loaded with blanks.

Bird went to trial before Judge Hardy last Wednesday charged with murder.

William Russell, deputy District Attorney, prosecuting the case, during the early part of the trial introduced testimony intended to prove that Bird quarreled with Watson when the latter reproved him for drinking, and then left the room to return forty-five minutes later and shoot him down.

DEFENSE ASSERTION

In his own testimony, Bird declared that he merely was angry because Watson would not leave his house and decided to produce the revolver and frighten him away.

Mrs. Laura Brown Bird, who took the witness stand Friday, testified that her husband had asked her to tell Watson to leave. She told in detail of how her husband rushed into the room flourishing the pistol which he used frequently to start races.

"I was not alarmed," she said, "for I did not believe it was loaded and I asked my husband what he was going to do with it. He replied, 'Shoot it, of course.' But I did not pay enough attention to watch him closely."

UNALARMED BY SCUFFLE

Even when the two men began scuffling, Mrs. Bird said, she was not enough concerned about it to rise from her position on the couch, knowing that they were close friends.

Then, a moment later came the report of the pistol, and Watson collapsed on the floor moaning, "Ownie shot me."

The police were called at once and Watson was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where he died a short time later. Bird at that time explained that he believed the gun was loaded with blank cartridges. Mrs. Bird corroborated this statement.

Today Mrs. Bird will resume the witness stand for a short time, to complete her testimony under cross-examination.

YOUTH KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Kenneth Lawrence of 2329 Sycamore avenue. He and the Rieffs were removed to the General Hospital after receiving emergency treatment at the receiving hospital.

Mrs. Rosalie Foy, 25, of 4215 Montclaire street, received cuts in her face that will disfigure her for life, police surgeons reported, when the car being driven by her husband, Francis Foy, collided with another driven by E. Prinell, 2230 Silver Lake street, at Oak street and Washington Boulevard last night. Mrs. Foy's face was almost completely cut away by flying glass, according to the surgeons.

Two women were painfully cut and bruised in a collision between the car in which they were riding and another machine at Fifty-first street and Avalon Boulevard. They are Mrs. Helen Lynskey, 35, of 667 East Fifty-first street, and Mrs. Agnes Repka, 55, of the same address.

The other car was driven by John J. Jarvis, 52, of 9216 Beach street, according to police. Jarvis was not seriously hurt, it was stated.

Two motorists were taken into custody yesterday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. They are Lloyd Jones, 28, of 739 Witmer street, and Harry J. Schaub, 24, of 110 West Orange street, Compton.

Jones, according to police, drove his automobile into another machine at Ninth and Figueroa streets and then fled. After a chase by Officer Costello he was taken into custody several blocks away.

Schaub was stopped at Pico and Figueroa streets after he is asserted to have driven through a safety zone and bounced his car over several of the safety-zone buttons.

While chasing a speeder on Wilshire Boulevard near Santa Monica, Ralph Smith, motorcycle officer of the Santa Monica police force, collided with a car which assertedly swerved suddenly into the center of the boulevard. Smith was traveling forty-five miles an hour, and he was hurled far from his machine.

Two boys, driving the light coupe struck by the officer, failed to stop and render aid. They are being sought, police believing marks of the collision will show plainly on the left side of their car. Smith sustained only severe cuts and bruises.

tempt anything like an address, but bowed his acknowledgment of the ovation given him by the audience. Harry Mayeda of Sacramento, a Japanese Boy Scout who is the highest ranking member of the organization in the United States, was enthusiastically received as he was introduced to the vast throng. The boy will remain in Beaumont tonight, where he is scheduled to address a church meeting and tomorrow when he will be an especial guest at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club and where he will again tell of his tour of Japan with a number of other members of the American Boy Scouts.

An international festival was a big undertaking for a community the size of Beaumont, but the success of today's venture makes certain a repetition each year of this beautiful and most unusual celebration which is sure to become an outstanding event on California's calendar of worth-while fiestas and festivals.

STATE'S FRUIT LAW ASSAILED

Illegal Grapefruit Case Now Up on Appeal

Act Called Ambiguous and Burden on Business

Citrus Contents Defined by District Regulations

An attack on the California Fruit, Nut and Vegetable Standardization Act, passed in 1927 and amended in 1929, is made in appeals from conviction in the Municipal Court filed in appellate department of the Superior Court in the cases of Joseph Waldman and George Medford. The hearing on them will be conducted Thursday.

The law is declared by the defendants to be unconstitutional on the grounds it is discriminatory, uncertain, ambiguous, and an unreasonable burden on business.

PAIR CONVICTED

Waldman and Medford were convicted before Municipal Judge MacCoy of a violation of the act, the prosecution asserting that during the last Christmas holidays they sold in Los Angeles a pack of grapefruit labeled "Imperial," to create the impression the fruit was raised in Imperial county.

It was charged the dealers violated the act also because the fruit sold did not contain five and one-half parts of soluble solids to every part of acid. This ratio of fruit and solids is the requirement demanded of grapefruit produced in what is designated as District No. 1 of California.

DISTRICTS DEFINED

There are two districts set up in the Standardization Act. No. 1 consists of all the State south of the San Gorgonia Pass in Riverside county and east of the Sierra Nevada range, comprising parts of the counties of Riverside and San Diego and all of Imperial county.

District No. 2 is all of the State not included in District No. 1. Grapefruit in this district, the law says, must contain six parts of soluble solids to every part of acid.

LEWIS ANXIOUS TO SERVE TERM

Trip to McNeil Island May be Started Wednesday

Seven-Year Sentence Meted in Mail-Fraud Case

Twenty-two Months Giving Testimony Will End

eral custody he cannot be returned to face these charges until he has completed his sentence.

WOULD AID STOCKHOLDERS

But Lewis, who has been on the witness stand in Superior Judge Tappaan's court for many days giving testimony in behalf of former Julian Petroleum Corporation stockholders in a $12,000,000 recovery action against the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and a group of local stock brokers, says he does not wish to begin his long trip north until he has made his last effort to assist the some 40,000 stockholders who lost their all through the amazing financial structure which collapsed when the stock of the Julian Petroleum Corporation was ordered from the boards of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange in 1927.

"I understand," declared Lewis the interests of the suit as well as my own desire to start serving the sentence I am going to surrender and will be ready to start north as soon as my deposition is completed."

BERMAN ATTACKED

A bitter attack upon Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, at one time Lewis's business associate and now the principal State's witness yesterday, "that the Federal courts have the power to permit me to remain a sufficient length of time to complete my examination in the stockholders' suit, whereas, if the Los Angeles Stock Exchange is able to cause additional charges to be filed against me I might not be able to complete the testimony that I am now giving in Judge Tappaan's court.

"If I fail to complete this testimony all I have already said will be thrown out and, therefore, in in the renewed Julian investigation, featured Lewis's announcement of his coming surrender.

"The type of testimony being used in the present investigation speaks for itself," declared Lewis.

Bennett is appearing before the grand jury and it is through his testimony that indictments are being obtained by the District Attorney.

"Well, Bennett also appeared in Judge Tappaan's court in this stockholders' suit," Lewis continued, "and look what he did. No testimony came from his lips and he hid behind his Constitutional rights and refused to help the stockholders. He was at that time, and still is, protecting some people who looted the Julian Petroleum Corporation, and now are defendants in this suit. But now we find him before the grand jury giving testimony against thirty-five or forty men, only one or two of whom he ever met. These men were indicted last Friday and still every one of them with one exception returned to the Julian Petroleum Corporation every dollar they made as soon as they learned that the stock in which they were dealing was overissued."

ATTITUDE DEFENDED

After his attack on Berman and the present Julian investigation Lewis yesterday arose to the defense of his own position and also various bankers now under investigation by the county grand jury.

"My record stands as I have made it," declared Lewis. "As for what went on before the crash it is too late now to cry about but in the records of the local courts appear the testimony that I have given in my efforts to undo the wrong that I may have done to the stockholders of the Julian Petroleum Corporation.

"I have been in the courtroom about twenty-two months in the last thirty-six months and I am worn out. During that period I have had but one thought in mind and that is to obtain the return of the money taken from the Julian Petroleum Corporation by the Los Angeles stock brokers. The record speaks for itself as to what assistance, if any, I have rendered in the matter."

STOCKHOLDERS CAUTIONED

In connection with various local banks and bankers Lewis continued, "At this time I ask the stockholders not to be misled by any present or coming indictments but to remember that with one exception every man in pools No. 1 and No. 2 returned his profits to the company and that, without one dollar cost to the company, the bank financed the reorganization of the California Eastern and Sunset Pacific corporations in the amount of some $12,000,000.

"I now suggest in what may be my last words to the Julian Petroleum stockholders that the grand jury as well as the District Attorney, stop, look and listen and examine the witnesses that are appearing before them in this new investigation as to who sent them there and who is paying, as in my opinion they are attempting to mislead the officials and stockholders as to the guilty parties."

So if Lewis passes from the picture today according to his announced program he will leave a record behind him in Southern California which began in 1923.

Records show that the convicted oil operator first became known in the local oil fields in 1923 when he began a drilling program for the Lewis Oil Corporation.

MANIPULATIONS BEGIN

In December, 1924, Lewis took over the Julian Petroleum Corporation from C. C. Julian and at once started extensive oil-drilling operations and stock market manipulations.

During 1925 and 1926 he continued to expand the Julian Petroleum Corporation by the purchase of smaller oil companies and lease holdings and then with the beginning of 1926 with Jacob Berman, then known as Jack Bennett, at the helm got under way with an amazing series of stock operations financed through "pools."

On May 6, 1927, the Julian Petroleum Corporation stock was ordered off of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the crash came.

A short time later the company went into the hands of receivers and on January 1, 1928, Lewis, Berman and a large group of others went to trial on a felony charge in connection with a huge overissue of the Julian stock.

ALL ACQUITTED

It was on June 5 of the same year that all of the defendants in the action were acquitted.

Then came the arrest and conviction of Asa Keyes, Ed Rosenberg, Ben Getzoff and later Harold L. Davis, all growing out of the Julian crash and the following trial, on charges of bribery conspiracy.

Indictments charging use of the mail to defraud were next returned by the Federal government against Lewis and Berman in connection with the old Lewis Oil Corporation and on November 5, 1928, they were both convicted and sentenced to seven years. Their appeal was later denied.

On January 13, last, both Lewis and Berman were again indicted by the Federal grand jury on mail fraud charges, this time growing out of their operations in Julian Petroleum Corporation.

Then on the 20th inst. Lewis was indicted by the county grand jury and charged with jury tampering in the first Julian trials.

WILL PRESENT CUP TO ORATORY WINNER

Harold G. Campbell

New York educator named to make presentation to champion of "National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution.

CONTEST HEAD URGES CAUTION

Oratorical Aspirants Must Observe Requirements

Eligibility Statements to be Properly Indorsed

Constitutional Speeches Require Planning

The Oratorical Contest Bureau of The Times has been advised by the national director-general, Randolph Leigh, that Harold G. Campbell, associate superintendent of the New York City high schools and in charge of the high-school division of that system, has been selected to announce the winner and present the national championship cup at the finals of the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution to be held in Washington.

In a bulletin recently issued from national headquarters by Director-General Randolph Leigh, school principals are urged to see that their representatives in any of the various brackets of the National Oratorical Contest meet scrupulously all eligibility requirements. Within a short time now the principal eliminations will take place. It is important that eligibility statements be carefully prepared and scrutinized so as to avoid any confusion during the later stages of the contest.

ELIGIBILITY STATEMENTS

One very important thing is to see to it that eligibility statements are signed by the persons specified in the rules, namely the principal and the teacher of English or history. This has a very decided value in insuring the originality of the orations. It is not sufficient to have the principal of the school or a debate coach sign the eligibility statement. The principal of the school and the history and English teachers have been designated as the only proper persons to sign. The requirements of age are also clearly set forth—the student must not have been born prior to February 1, 1911.

Another requirement to be borne in mind is that "a pupil who has been graduated from high school and is taking post-garduate work in the same or a similar school, is not eligible, even though within the age limit."

SPEAKING PLAN

With the approach of the school eliminations in the National Oratorical Contest, participants will give special attention to the effect which the new time limit will have upon their speaking technique.

The director-general expresses the belief that speakers should follow a somewhat different plan for the six-minute speech, as contrasted with the longer speech of previous years.

"In the first place," says the director-general, "there must be greater effort than ever to make a vivid presentation of ideas. The sentences, even the very words, must be shorter, in order to obtain the maximum result within the short time allotted the speaker. The speech need not suffer from this pruning of words and clauses. On the contrary, the contestants, driven by necessity to use stout Anglo-Saxon words, should produce better results than in the past; short words always have been used with great effect by the real masters of English."

MUST "GO TO IT"

However, the most obvious difference in the speeches of this year and last, according to Director Leigh, will be or should be in the speaking technique of the orators. Under the old style of speaking with no time limit, the orator used the first period in feeling out his audience and trying to get its sympathy, and then built up to his climaxes at his leisure. But with a six-minute speech the speaker must "go to it" from the first.

"The speaker must mount swiftly and surely to his climax," says Mr. Leigh. "Of course he must not give the outward appearance of striving to do that, but he must do it just the same. His thoughts must be swift without being in the least hurried. It must be moving, but so mirrored in beauty as to seem without motion. And to that, word and gesture and feeling must be suited. The fires within the breast must be strongly burning that when they finally break through it will seem to the audience that the man, though he may have begun with studied restraint, was, from the start, all fire."

FILM EXPLOSION DOES NO DAMAGE IN STUDIO

A half of a reel of film exploded in a projection room at the Paramount studios last night and filled the building with smoke, but no other damage was done, according to officials. None of the operators in the room was injured. The fire whistle in the grounds of the studios brought a large crowd to the gate.

BANDIT GANGS USE VIOLENCE

One Man Beaten and Another Put in Small House by Groups of Desperadoes in Hold-ups

Four men clad in aviation helmets and overcoats beat one man and robbed his two companions; six other bandits raided the clubhouse of a practice golf course and others robbed various establishments in a series of robberies late Saturday night and early yesterday morning.

Four bandits forced their way into the apartment of C. L. Kelsay, 312 3-4 North Mariposa street, and after beating Kelsay almost into unconsciousness, robbed his two companions, S. J. Phillips, 1640 North Winona street, and J. C. Larimar, of more than $50.

DEATH THREAT

Threatening the victims with death if they followed them, the bandits then tore the telephone from the wall and fled.

D. M. Casister, 2832 Menlo avenue, and a woman companion were forced from Casister's car on the highway near La Crescenta and robbed of $30 by a Filipino bandit. The car later was recovered in Montrose.

Six youthful robbers took an undetermined amount from Gordon Page, manager of a practice golf course at Pico and La Cienega boulevards and then made him stay in a small house on the course while they escaped.

OTHER ROBBERIES

H. E. Martin, proprietor of a gasoline station at North Broadway and Pasadena avenue, was robbed of $10 by two boys who drove away in a small car.

A. B. Gordon, owner of a fruit stand at 447 Wilshire Boulevard, Beverly Hills, was robbed of an undetermined amount by three men who ransacked the store after locking Gordon in a rear room.

Today's Bible Text

For the Scripture saith, Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed. For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him.—Romans x, 11, 12.

HER HALO
Chicago is already posing for a halo because of her attempt to clean up. Other bad boys have also wanted halos after having their necks and ears washed.

IN MARK'S MEMORY
Calaveras county is to have its annual jumping-frog contest at Angel's Camp May 18-19. Evidently Mark Twain did not live in vain—at least in Calaveras county.

TIES
A woman gave her husband a necktie for Christmas and he tried to choke her with it the other day. Now she seeks a divorce. The Christmas tie does not seem to be the one that binds.

USELESS OCCUPATIONS
Our idea of the "futility of human endeavor" would be an attempt to take subscriptions for a birth-control magazine in Italy under the present dictatorship.

DEFINITION
A wife is that inquisitive person who hears friend husband arrive after midnight and receives his confession that he has been in conference since early evening.

SNOW PACK
One hundred and eight inches of snow lies upon the shoulders of the High Sierras at Summit. As long as these kings of California are willing to melt down their crown jewels for us, we should worry.

SLEEPY
Sleep, next to the weather, is the most prolific source of conversation, says Time. Colgate University seems to have taken the matter to heart and is looking into it. How about waking up the professors?

KEEPING THE LIMELIGHT
The "unemployment" demonstrations having failed, soviet Russia keeps in the news with a movie kidnaping from France of a leader in the white Russia movement. The nations that recognized the soviet are having their kindness repaid in the usual manner.

SPRING SONG
"In the spring a young man's fancy," etc. And so Prince Carol of Rumania is chirping to his one-time mate back in his own country. And she is cooing in return from the home nest. If we could get this affair settled, we might go on to something else.

FROM PILLAR TO POST
The custodian of the new Courthouse at Santa Barbara, Phil Weldman, finds the distances too great and so rides around the corridors on his bike. Now if we could get the courts to adopt the idea, the wheels of justice might move.

TALKING TURKEY
Nevada turkey raisers received the highest price in the country for carload lots of their drumsticks. This seems to be Nevada's best agricultural bet and it does not appear to do any damage to her highest per capita wealth in the nation. No wonder she talks turkey to us at times!

HEFLIN HOLLERS
Tom Heflin does not seem to be happy over the Doheny decision. However, nothing ever pleases that Alabama ranter. Everybody shuts up when he comes around. If he were to climb into a folding bed, it would likely shut up, too.

CANCER AND CONGRESS
An appeal has been made to Congress to finance the Coffey-Humber treatment. However, the discoverers of this possible boon to humanity should not be discouraged. Congress kept Morse sitting on the steps begging for aid for the electric telegraph for eight long years. This may be one reason why they have so many steps at the Capitol.

HARBOR DEVELOPMENTS
Word from Washington that the Army Board of Engineers is favorably disposed toward the programs for the improvement of the harbor submitted by Los Angeles and Long Beach is good news. But equally good are the indications of harmony between the Los Angeles and Long Beach representatives that developed at the same hearing. The two programs were presented as parts of a comprehensive whole, fitting into each other for the benefit of both. The rivalry and conflict which have marked some previous efforts at harbor development were entirely lacking.

Such co-operation is necessary if this harbor is to be, as it should be, a great national and regional asset. It needs to be kept continually in mind that this harbor is not the exclusive property of any political subdivision, or even of two such subdivisions, and that plans made for it, with any narrow local idea in mind, will and should fail. Plans made with the idea that it is a natural unit, and must some day be an administrative unit, point in the right direction, and will and should succeed.

If the Army egineers follow up their indicated intention and recommend this program, Congress may make the necessary appropriations at the present session so that work may begin this summer. The work needs to be done, if the growth of the harbor is not to be hampered by lack of adequate facilities, and it needs to be done now. The incidental effect of employing a considerable number of workmen is not to be overlooked. Congress is disposed to look favorably on public improvements in these times of slack employment.

But the larger program, which contemplates the breakwater extension, should not be overlooked, and for this still closer co-operation between the two municipalities is necessary. Long Beach and Los Angeles have been very close to a final agreement on harbor consolidation at the most recent conferences. The benefits of consolidation will be so great that it does not make much difference how minor differences are compromised.

It is true the logic of events will compel consolidation in time, but the communities which have this harbor in trust for a much larger area ought to be forehanded in the matter. The voters of both cities have sanctioned administrative union, officials of both cities have repeatedly expressed favorable opinions, but it is not yet brought about. This delay is doing no good.

The dredging operations asked for in the two plans will, if carried out, weld the harbor still more firmly as a physical unit. It ought to be and must be under one administration and further reports from the government board which is pondering the subject are not really necessary.

The harbor is the premier harbor of the United States in intercoastal trade and its foreign trade is rapidly increasing. An artificial dividing line, in such a situation, is a handicap.

THE TOLL OF THE ROAD
"Safe for democracy" has lost its punch as a slogan. Now a world war is on to make it safe for life on the highway. The casualty list for 1928 in the United States was 27,500 killed and almost a million wounded.

The motor vehicle death rate ran up from 9.3 per 100,000 in 1918 to 20.3 in just ten years. And the peak is not yet in sight. Statistics for 1929 are not yet available; however, word comes that an average of ninety-three persons a day were killed last August, or about 2800 for the month. If this be a fair cross-section of the year, the fatalities fattened the graveyards about 33,000. And the injured hobble on crutches far above a million.

This is too great a casualty list for careless driving. These offenses call for drastic action.

It may not seem necessary to go to L. H. Hutchcroft of the Wisconsin Board of Health to find out that it is "entirely possible to operate an automobile without seriously injuring anyone." Every driver knows this to be so.

Law does not seem to be able to touch the fatal spot. Conscience has hardened along with the arteries. Carefulness has been laid away in the tomb with appropriate services as an act of providence. But it is just fool driving.

A wrong code of honor keeps many motorists from giving testimony. Weak-kneed coroners dig but shallow graves for the victims. Policemen blame it on the judges for not sentencing arrests and shysters free their clients on technicalities. Sob sisters do the rest.

Some one suggests that the only way to drive is with the idea constantly in mind that the other fellow may be an idiot. Failure to yield the right of way is furnishing many unexpected faces in heaven.

HOW SPEND TEN MILLION?
How would you spend $10,000,000 to benefit mankind? The New York Evening World recently offered a substantial award for the best answer to the question.

Somebody says Edison would give it all to Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Richard Pearson Hobson would use it to fight the dope ring; Prof. Neilson of Smith College would educate women with it; Dr. Flexner would turn it into adult education.

August Heckscher would look after the little kiddies with it; Mayor Walker would build better housings with it; Rev. W. E. Cashin would furnish inexpensive hotels for women; Walter Dill Scott would finance an international exchange of honor students; Dr. Elmer B. Brown would found a clinic of crime.

Each would jump on his hobby and gallop in a merry-go-round. At that each of these causes is exceedingly worth a $10,000,000 expenditure.

But the man who got the money was Prof. Henry E. Garrett of Columbia University. He would stem the rising tide of mental ill health which threatens to engulf us in the next few generations.

Many may not agree with this award. That the winner has a cause goes without saying. Worry kills more than work. Americanitis is become a disease. Chasing the dollar is largely the cause of it. Men's hearts run down before the day is half done. Possibly dollar-chasing may best be cured by a homeopathic $10,000,000 antidote.

Ten million is quite a tidy sum. The possibilities of spending it helpfully have not all been exhausted. It might be applied to finding and testing cancer cures. It might come to the aid of tubercular sufferers. It might be employed to teach temperance to the youngsters of today. It might be used to teach men to love God and each other around the world!

THE POINT OF VIEW
No one can accuse King George and Queen Mary of not trying to make the conference delegates feel at home. After that visit to Buckingham Palace, just ask the women members of the American delegation whether the conference was a success.

THE GANGSTER
The ease with which Al Capone drifts into Chicago and notifies the police, "Well, here I am!" will not inspire confidence in that city's clean-up. That big bruiser's bluff should be called.

LITERARY SURVIVALS
By James J. Montague

Dialect is said to be dying out in this country

No longer the hard-handed farmer,
When he learns that his daughter has gone
With the buckboard and span and a traveling man,
Observes with a scowl: "Wall, I swan!"
No longer his grammar is shaky
And in English uncertain and crude;
He alludes not to Sal as "That ornery gal
What run off with that dodgasted dude."

No more does the leather-faced plainsman—
If leather-faced plainsmen there are—
Protests his regard with a "Howdy, ole pard!"
Or grins as he growls, "Put'ter thar!"
And the stranger, if hailing from Broadway,
Despite the prevailing report
Does not answer with "Chee!" Yer a dotty guy, see?
But fergit it, an' mitt me, old sport."

You can travel from Yuma to Bangor,
From Oregon down to Key West,
And you'll scarce hear a phrase which in earlier days
The thought of the people expressed.
The Yankee talks quite like the cowman,
The chap on the streets of New York
Uses much the same diction, excepting in fiction,
As the miner in Lone Cabin Fork.

Yet the sectional speech of our people,
With all of its color and worth,
Although hardly a word of the same can be heard,
For long shall remain on the earth.
The husbandman still is "I swanning,"
"Hully chee!" cry the Bowery crooks,
And they'll speak in that way until dawns the glad day
When there are no more dialect books.

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.
By Lee Shippey

SPRING is here, poets, so come on. We know nothing can stop you, so we're going to make the best of things by inviting you. We're going to run a contest to find out who's the champeen poet of Southern California. A contrib who writes poetry and dosn't care who knows it—but won't compete this time—offers a prize of a "high-grade writing set, fountain pen and pencil," for the best poem submitted to the Leeside during April.

No poem longer than sixteen lines will be considered, and none which a very nearsighted editor can't read with reasonable ease will be read at all. All poems received after this date and up to the last day of April will be considered. The aim of this colyum is to give out the very breath and essence of Southern California rather than publish material which might be equally appropriate anywhere else. But there are no absolute restrictions except as to length and legibility. Address Lee Side, The Times.

Doesn't Enjoy Second Fiddling

Lee: "Queen Marie Abandons Trip to Holy Land." I suppose she heard Aimee is headed that way, too.—A. S.

Like Some Forbidden Things at Home

Another tourist returns with breath-taking reports of being personally conducted through a forbidden city in the Orient. We've never been to the Orient, but our understanding is that all its street corners must be decorated with signs like this: "This way to the Forbidden City. American tourists especially invited."

Explained at Last

"Is it true," asked an awed visitor in Hollywood, "that this production will cost $1,000,000?"

"It certainly is," said the studio attache who was guiding the visitors about the lot.

"That seems an enormous amount, as compared to stage productions. What is the explanation of that?"

The studio employee looked all about him carefully, then whispered behind a sheltering hand:

"The dumbness of actors, directors or producers which necessitates innumerable retakes, changes and experiments."

Tempering to the Shorn Lambs

Leeside: For the benefit of others as bald as I am, I wish to call attention to a fair barber, out on Pasadena avenue. His sign reads: "Bald Head Hair Cuts 25c Cents."—F. R.

Anent a Certain Straw Vote

I've questioned palmists and clairvoyants,
Astrologists and mental seers,
And I have found, to my annoyance
No future for light wines and beers.

The lines within my strong right hand
Point only to an arid region,
To burning wastes of desert sand—
To years of drought, whose name is legion.

I've read the cards and thrown the dice,
I've sought the medium's mystic trances
But each and every such device
Has failed to change the circumstances.

If all the forces I've enlisted
Have failed to break, or even bend 'em,
Our mental balance must be twisted,
To think of trying referendum.

Our Moral Defenders

Hard Sider: The Senate has voted for censorship of foreign books entering America. I'll bet the deleted bits will be treasured for private telling in the Senate cloakroom.—D. A.

The Judgment of Critics

Zane Grey was urged by the editors of Harper's to give up his efforts to become a writer as he showed no promise; but he kept on and has made plenty of money for Harper's since then. Carrie Jacobs Bond was strongly advised to run a boarding-house instead of publishing her songs. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, when 17, went to Vienna for an audition and the opera director assured her she never could hope for a chance in opera. But one of the most encouraging stories for those of us at whom the critics smile deprecatingly was told us the other day by Harry Weber, the theatrical agent. In about 1908, as we remember it, Weber discovered a girl whose voice impressed him. He took her to New York and invited everyone in town who might have offered a job to the girl with an unusual voice to come and hear her. They came, but after the test they shook their heads. "She sings off key," said one. "She rasps me like a file," said another.

That girl was Galli-Curci.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

CRITICISM OF THE WILD ROSE
[Portland Oregonian]

Choice of the wild rose as our national flower has led to attacks upon the preference as being in part suggested reflexively, since to say "flower" is to create the thought reaction, "rose." Is this not of itself convincing proof of the affection we have for the rose? What other flower has so endeared itself to us as to be immediately available in subconscious thought? But the criticism of the choice goes on to demand that those who elected the wild rose shall now name which wild rose they intended, for there are several. Absurd. Is not a wild rose always a wild rose? In all likelihood this belated backfire is something that has been started by the columbine crowd, or the violet partisans. It shall avail them nothing.

The children ask no questions of a wild rose when they find it, nor do we. Its credentials are not demanded, nor its family tree. There is that about it which is far too compelling for such grave nonsense. It is a wild rose by the ditch, and it catches one's throat—if it be the first of the wild roses—as with gentle, outstretched hands. It quite fills the eye, the pinkness of its blossoms, to the exclusion of all else—the bird in the tree, the leaf on the bough, the wind on the water. It is a wild rose. How out of time and place it would be to ask of it, there above the ditch, in the nook of the fence, whether it is Rosa Blanda or Rosa Humilis; Rosa Rubiginosa or Rosa Canina. Such questions may fittingly be left to the botanists, and the answers to them are properly to be found in books. One puts no question to a wild rose.

THE "RACKETEER" BOWS
[New York Herald-Tribune]

The conviction, in the Bronx, of two labor racketeers charged with extortion is a victory for the people that will rejoice the entire community. It marks a triumph for the perseverance and courage of former Dist.-Atty. McGeehan, who, against formidable odds, instigated and pressed the investigation into the reign of terror gripping the Bronx building trades which has now been brought to fruition by his successor. The labor or other "racketeer" will think twice henceforth before introducing Chicago tactics into this city.

The Bronx has been the happy hunting ground of this type of criminal, suffering in the last year or so fourteen fires in unfinished apartment-houses with the loss of one life and the destruction of $3,000,000 worth of property. These fires signalized, of course, only the cases of contractors who refused to be intimidated by the thugs posing as union leaders. Many more knuckled under to their demands, entailing a cost to the building industry that probably far transcends the loss by fire. In addition, the workers themselves have had to pay their tribute or find themselves out of jobs or in the hospital.

Nothing was brought out to connect the two men convicted with all this violence, but that it was inspired by their kind is amply attested by the precautions which both Dist.-Atty. McGeehan and his successor, Dist.-Atty. McLaughlin, found it necessary to take to persuade the victims of the terror to give their evidence. Police on duty in the courtroom and bodyguards for witnesses and jury have been a daily reminder that law and order were struggling for a footing against as bold and ruthless an element as this town has had to contend with in a long time. These convictions should hearten the authorities everywhere in meeting the menace of the "racketeer."

NOISE OF THE SCREEN
[Washington Post]

Experts have photographed the sound of trains, concrete mixers, etc., and found them almost identical with photographs of the music of orchestras and of the human voice. We've noticed the similarity in the talkies.

DESERT AND SEA
BY FRED HOGUE

What majesty and mystery in the open sea, the possession of no nation, no people! The laws of man cease at the three-mile limit. Who passes beyond enters the realm where the laws of God alone prevail. The furrows plowed in its restless waters vanish with the vessel that passes the horizon. Its tides have never been harnessed, its breast never scarred. As it was when the first sunbeam kissed the dancing waves of the new planet, so will it be when time has passed into eternity.

Over it passes the wind, which is the breath of God, the only voice the sea obeys. Above it rides the moon, placed in the heavens to keep the tides from encroaching on the defenseless shore. The continents are becoming enslaved by industry and commerce; but the sea has preserved its freedom. It acknowledges the suserainty only of the painter, the poet and the composer.

But it is not on a cliff overlooking the sea that I am moved by the majesty and mystery of the Pacific. I am standing in the Stendahl Galleries at the Ambassador Hotel before the canvases of a great marine painter, William Ritschel, N.A., who has produced in a medium that one who paints with words cannot even approach the somnolent or turbulent tides and the laughing or weeping skies of that great expanse of waters which is the Pacific Ocean and its tributary seas.

William Ritschel was born in Nuremburg, Germany. Do you not hear the clocks chiming and see the dolls pirouetting? He studied in Munich in a school with a tradition that dates back to Durer, to Rembrandt and to the Eden of Dutch art; to the advent of atmospheric brown, a color that is not to be found in nature, nor in a canvas of the Renaissance period.

"Wouldst thou—so the helmsman answered,
Know the secrets of the sea?
Only those who brave its dangers
Comprehend its mystery."

Longfellow wrote those feeling lines; but Longfellow lived and died without ever looking forth on the broad expanse of the Pacific. For five years in his youth William Ritschel sailed the seven seas in a clipper ship which was then a part of the German navy. That service ended, he returned to the Pacific and the South Seas, waters so rich in romance and mystery. What he found there he reproduced on canvas and so gloriously that he was soon a member of the American National Academy.

Portrait and landscape painters are many, but marine painters are few. England produced in former centuries the world's greatest navies: but never a marine painter who could glorify on canvas her great captains and their victories. The greatest paintings of the navy of old England came from the brush of William Vanderveide, a Dutch artist. Ritschel paints sailing ships with a touch of the old Dutch masters. His ships are constructed right on the canvas by one who has studied the secret of naval architecture before ships were builded of iron and steel and driven by interior mechanism.

With Ritschel the elements are ever in action, rarely in repose. All is movement. One seems to hear the music of the winds and the deep bass volume of the tides. How his sailing ships seem living things, fighting their way through turbulent winds and billowy seas! One senses a play of taut or relaxing muscles in the contest between the sail and the sea. At times the vessel seems to writhe and groan like a spirit in agony.

With what glorious, deep breaths the sails swell when the craft is sweeping proudly into the foreground, with the wind at its back!

There are forty canvases in the Ritschel exhibition, each of them notable in its way. Their subjects are taken from the coasts of Holland, from the isles of the South Seas, from the trade routes between Honolulu and Yokohama, and from the waters and headlands of Monterey Bay. So thoroughly has he studied his waters and skies that one who has sailed those seas and used his own eyes can tell what part of the Pacific the canvas depicts.

For this exhibition he has brought some new canvases which he has painted during the last three years about Monterey. His studib is located in Carmel Highlands. Most notable to me of all the canvases that have felt the magic of his brush is "The Salmon Fisheries' Fleet." This is a large canvas, possibly six by eight feet. A rippling path of yellow sunlight stretches from the horizon to the foreground. It fades away through the luminous mist and disappears in the sky, for cloud and wave are so dexterously and gracefully blended that there is no definite line where the sea ends and the sky begins.

A fleet of a dozen small sailing craft pass from out the mist across the sun path and disappear in the mist again. The sails are in the shadow, for the canvas is painted into the sun; but a faint glow of red permeates the sail. The luminosity of that sun path is sufficient to rank Ritschel as a master, if he had never painted aught else.

Another notable canvas is "The Trackless Path Across the Sea." Here is a vast expanse of ocean, a riot of rushing tides past low rocks, green with sea moss and painted by wind, wave and time. The tide runs low and strong. It does not dash against the rocks, for there are no curling breakers and showering spray. But the waves are leaping and tumbling as though at play. Broken clouds are above, luminous in one part, in another lowering. The sun breaks through the broken rifts and the tides are tipped with an opalescent white.

So great is the art of the painter that one forgets it is art. It is the sea itself, singing, rioting, sporting there on the wall.

"Under Tropic Seas" is a canvas bathed in light. The clouds are luminous and white, with broken planes of blue sky between. Below is a clipper ship, leaping with swelling sails over the white-tipped waves. The sea itself is the magical blue-green water of the tropics. On closer examination I find the waves are tipped with copper. Through the varying shades of the blue and green is that elusive atmospheric brown. The art of producing this gossamer effect was lost in the first half of the eighteenth century. Ritschel still retains the secret. When I compare in my mind's eye these marines with those by Vanderveide in the British National Gallery, Ritschel does not suffer by the comparison.

"Whitening Sentinels" depicts a rocky escarpment of the Bay of Monterey. Above are angry skies. Dark storm clouds are rolling in from the open sea beyond. A sea gull with wings carried high is fleeing shoreward from the gathering storm.

In the foreground two Monterey cypress-cedars of Lebanon, planted none knows how or when on this rockbound coast. They antedate the discovery of America by Columbus. One cannot mistake the low, flat, green tops and the short limbs.

Time is gnawing at the trunks near the roots, and the sea winds have inclined them landward. In the center is the reclining trunk of one that has given up the struggle, a dead cedar of Lebanon.

In a companion picture we have a closer view of two giant cedars, the monarchs of the grove. The dead limbs about the lower trunk attest that they are passing. The conflict of 1000 years is drawing to a close. By the time another century passes the last of these will have fallen. On canvas alone will be preserved the record to attest that they once had been.

What an orchestration of color! The effect of Ritschel's canvases can well be likened to that of Wagnerian opera. I was bewildered at first, for I was actually listening to the voices of the singing winds and the pulsing waves. Then I discovered that strains of music from the Cocoanut Grove were floating through the gallery. The effect was one that will linger long in my memory.

Distributed among the powerful Ritschel canvases, the conflict of wind and tide, of force and mass, are the placid, languorous, romantic desert canvases of Walter Ufer, another member of our National Academy.

Repose in contrast to action, where the desert comes down to the sea. But the silence of the desert is undisturbed by the fury of wind and wave. Opposite Ritschel's "Clipper Ship" is "The Watcher" by Ufer. On the summit of a low desert butte a barefoot Mexican lad sits on a drowsy, lop-eared mule. The sky is radiant, an opalescent blue, painted in a style that Ufer has developed; for Ufer is an originator. White clouds are ambling across a dappled sky.

On the mountainside are brown and yellow crumbling sandstone rocks and the dead green of the deathless and lifeless evergreen sage. Across the canyon are purple rocks, dark in the shadow, for the sun is high in the invisible west.

Ufer's treatment of atmosphere is not classic; although one critic has referred to it as such. It is strictly modern. For in classic art, which antedates the Renaissance, there was no atmosphere. Neither were there blue or greens. The colors of the classic era were reds and yellows, mixed with black and white.

Ufer has been living for some years at Taos and he has imbued the spirit of the desert plain and sky of the Southwest.

Languorous waltz music floats in from the Cocoanut Grove. In perfect harmony with Ufer's summer skies. "In the Arroyo" depicts a watered canyon of the New Mexico desert. On a sloping knoll a watcher, this time in sombrero, sits on the ubiquitous mule. A packer with his laden mule is plodding his sunburned way through the winding trail of the canyon. The rising plateau is somnolent in its brown and gold, and plashed by the ghastly cadaver green of the sage. Above is a cloudless sky, its planes broken by brush point, not by strokes of the brush. To the voice of Ritschel's thundering tides is contrasted the voice of the great desert silences.

Another canvas, "Where Desert and Mountain Meet," portrays the sun-baked plateau with its brown gravel and low evergreen shrubbery stretching away to the purple mountains. The desert is in the sunlight; but a cloudburst is drenching the slopes of the mountains. And beyond the cloudburst the sun is again shining. Only a master of color and atmospheric effect would attempt such a canvas. It is as great, in its way, as a Ritschel marine. I have seen those desert cloudbursts, but never before on canvas. Ufer has not wasted his time in Taos.

Ufer knows he has arrived and takes liberties with his brush. His whimsical fancies play havoc with the canons of the art schools.

SONGS

A recent survey of songs is said to have proven that "Auld Lang Syne" is oftener sung than any other one tune among English-speaking people; that "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah," is considered the loveliest of love songs; that Tosti's "Good-by" has the most poignant sorrow and hopelessness, and that "Dixie" will arouse the most enthusiasm, North, South, East or West.

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason

A BIG JOB

The men who rule the Russian state would do away with helpful creeds; "Religion is an opiate," they say, "unfit for human needs. We'll drive the people from the pews, we'll run the preachers out of town, we'll use the church for selling booze," however startled natives frown. The name of Providence we hate, all worshipers we'll persecute; where'er the pious congregate, our soldiers will arise and shoot. If any man dares sing or pray, or sing an anthem or a hymn, we'll send the hangman on his way to hang him to a basswood limb." These men might stand along the shore and stop the rising of the tide, or hush the ocean's mighty roar; they are so full of power and pride. And they might bid the tempest cease, suppress the north winds when they rave, and order out their red police to make the elements behave. They've shown they're equal to great things, since poor old Nicholas was slain, the last of a long line of kings who didn't know just how to reign. But when they hand down their decree that all religious rites must go, that it's a crime to bend the knee before whatever shrines men know, they're taking on a bigger task than any dream ever struck, and some day they will pause to ask what madness made them run amuck. The peasants may be beaten down, but still will glow religious fires; if they can't worship in the town, they'll worship in the barns and byres. They may be robbed of all their goods, and driven from their lowly shacks, but still they'll worship in the woods, defying ropes and knouts and racks. The Russian rulers doubtless can, like Joshua, arrest the sun, and perad venture they may plan combining all the stars in one. But they can't drive from human hearts the age-old impulse to adore; not all their threats, not all they say can crush religion to the floor.

RADIO ROBOTS TO AID FLYERS

Mechanical Weather Plants in Arctic Foreseen

Stations Would Broadcast Three Times Daily

Success of Plan Would Help in Aviation Expansion

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m. Glenn Hood, "Songbird of the Yosemite." World-wide news at 12:30, 4:20 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Radio Robots situated in uninhabitable regions of the polar areas may transmit weather reports to central weather bureaus automatically by self-operating radio transmitters, if plans now being made in Europe prove successful.

Establishment of these mechanical weather bureaus is contemplated by an international society interested in Arctic exploration. The equipment for each station would weigh about 3000 pounds. Transportation of the stations would be by airship and a number would be installed on the ice at various points. These robots would broadcast a weather report three times a day. It is said the plants are capable of one year's operation without attention.

BENEFIT OUTLINED

It is believed successful operation of automatic weather data transmitters would go far toward solving the problem of keeping aviators constantly informed of conditions in areas over which they must fly. The United States government is now furnishing such information on the principal airways, but extension of air routes in the next few years will require such a large number of stations as to make their cost and maintenance an important consideration. The weather reports now sent out are by telephone, and the automatic transmitters would naturally used a code, but it is believed that a simple system of signals could be devised which would be easy for aviators to master.

KHJ at 11:30 this morning brings classical organ music by Ann Leaf from the East. At 3:15 this afternoon the Girl Scouts of America, their local leaders and visiting personages, will discuss problems of national and local interest to their organization. At 4:30 p.m. Voices of Filmland will bring Gwen Lee and Eddie Nugent of "So This Is College" fame. Lottice Howell will be heard in the "Italian Street Song," while Raymond Paige and Earl Burtnett will lend their orchestras in the musical background. Porcelain Jacket Crowns "Last Word" in Dentistry
By DR. PAINLESS PARKER
Founder of the E. R. PARKER SYSTEM

PORCELAIN jacket crowns are regarded as the closest reproduction of nature's own tooth enamel known to the science of dentistry. Each crown is individually made from an impression of the tooth to which it is to be fitted.

The crown is made of the finest porcelain of the exact color of your natural teeth and baked in an electric furnace at the tremendous temperature of nearly 2500 degrees. It is so durable that it lasts as long as the tooth it covers.

The outstanding advantages of the porcelain jacket crown are not only its perfection of appearance with the total elimination of gold, but the fact that the tooth is kept "alive." The nerve of the tooth is not touched.

"Fancy" prices are often charged for porcelain jacket crowns, but dentists who use the E. R. Parker System make so many that they are enabled to produce them at a price surprisingly low for such extremely high quality workmanship.

A visit to a dentist using the E. R Parker System puts you under no obligation whatever. Examination of your mouth and estimate of the cost of any dental work you need is always free of charge.

Why not drop in at the office in this city where dentists use this system and talk it over now?

Death Takes Retired Pastor

Rev. John Anderson McCroskey, 77 years of age, a retired Baptist minister, died at the California Hospital yesterday. He had been in feeble health for several years and was taken to the hospital Saturday when his condition took a sudden turn for the worse. He had lived at 414 East avenue 28.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Lela G. Snapp, Mrs. Z. W. Gordon and Mrs. William P. Wallace; one sister, Mrs. E. W. Orrison, and three brothers, William McCroskey, Mayor of Walla Walla, Wash., and Samuel and Irving McCroskey of Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the McIntosh & Mater chapel, 2730 North Broadway.

Bridges to be Buried Today

Funeral rites for Charles H. Bridges, formerly auditor for the Title Insurance and Trust Company, will be conducted at 2 p.m. today at Masonic Hall, Pico street and Orchard avenue, under the auspices of Sunset Lodge, F. & A. M. Interment will be in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mr. Bridges, who was 81 years of age, came to Los Angeles in 1887 from Lincoln, Neb. His home was at 1257 Masselin avenue. He leaves his widow, three sons, C. W., George D. and Richard Bridges, and three daughters, Mrs. C. H. Miller, Mrs. A. C. Mort and Mrs. Don D. Morgan.

"PLAGIARISM" FORUM TOPIC

The California Art Club Forum will hold an open meeting tonight at 8:20 o'clock in Barnsdall Park, Hollywood Boulevard and Vermont avenue, when Maurice Salzmann will speak on "Plagiarism." Salzmann was attorney for Grace A. Sendler in her recent suit over the production of the "Bird of Paradise." Officials of the club yesterday said the meeting will be open to the public.

MINISTER SCORES SOVIET ANTIRELIGIOUS POLICY

State Atheism Unthinkable for Any Century, Says Dr. Shepard in Universalist Church Sermon

Declaring that persecution of religion in Russia sounds the death-knell of soviet sympathy among liberty-loving peoples, Dr. Sheldon Shepard, in his sermon at First Universalist Church yesterday, said that autocracy and oppression are bad enough in any guise, but worst when masquerading under the names of freedom and justice.

"Some phases of the Russian experiment may be of value, and we should watch that experiment with interest, but its injustice, prejudice and hatred are all the worse for wearing the cloak of high profession," said Dr. Shepard. "A state religion is unfitted to the twentieth century and a state atheism is unthinkable for any century. Religious dogmatism and persecution are equaled only by the reign of terror wherever atheism holds the scepter. American approval of this new Russian terrorism can come only from minds so biased against religion that they will go to any extent of dogmatism, oppression and bigotry to oppose its advance. Let America take this opportunity of world interest to reaffirm her unalterable stand for religious freedom for every faith, and look with renewed adoration at the banner of the stars, dedicated to the cause of liberty and justice."

CHRISTIAN LIFE SEEN AS "GOOD BUSINESS"

"If there were no other reason, the fact that being a Christian is a paying proposition would be sufficient," said Adjt. Frank Howell in his sermon yesterday at Salvation Army Temple.

"Living the Christian life pays the mind, body and soul," said Adjt. Howell. "It is, in fact, essential to proper development of the mental, physical and the spiritual man. It pays, likewise, in the world of economics. It is a great eliminator of waste. One need only ask the heads of big business to find that the Christian religion pays the man who follows it. Furthermore, it is a character builder. The Christian religion is a prophylactic against sin and an antidote for sin. Sin is not a mental twist, or quirk. Sin is not a defect in one's education. It is a principle imbedded in the soul which only divine power can eradicate."

SCIENCE AND RELIGION HELD TRUTH FACETS

"The motive of science is to know facts empirically and that of religion to feel relations and facts inwardly," said Swami Dhirananda in his sermon yesterday at Figueroa Playhouse.

"Both science and religion represent normal functionings of the mind in its attempt to fathom the two aspects of the same reality," said the speaker. "Like positive and negative charges of electricity, both are needed for obtaining light. However, one has not to be a genius in science to know its broad conclusions, nor need one be an astute theologian to live the fundamentals of religion. Immature science conflicts with crude forms of religious thinking, but not science with religion. If religion were to say that the earth is flat or that all religious conversions mean the outpouring of heavenly glory, it would make a geographical and a psychological mistake. On the other hand, if science were to say that an inspiring sunset is nothing but jostling of electrons and that the hunger for and realization of Divinity are but psychoneurotic states of a semi-pathological character, it would make an esthetic and a spiritual mistake. Let science discover facts but let it be left to religion to assign them meaning and values."

LONELINESS OF JESUS SUBJECT OF SERMON

Dr. S. D. Gordon, author of "Quiet Talks," was the preacher yesterday at the Bible Institute. Discussing "The Homelessness of Jesus," Dr. Gordon said in part:

"Jesus had no home. He used to live at home up with His Father. But He left the old home, came down here to live with us. He made His home in a little country village. But the people didn't like Jesus talking in that village. It didn't suit their way of living. That sometimes happens, you know, even yet. So there was trouble, and the trouble thickened. And one day they forced Jesus to leave the little old home village of Nazareth. For at least two years Jesus had no home. I think there is no word on His tongue that takes hold of your heart more than that word: foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath neither hole nor nest, burrowed or built, in ground or tree."

DR. DORN SPEAKS ON GLORY OF THE CROSS

"The Testing Cross" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. J. George Dorn at Hollywood Lutheran Church. Dr. Dorn said in part:

"Jesus had done no evil, neither was guile found in His mouth. He had gone up and down among the villages and homes of Palestine, healing the sick, restoring the demented and lame, teaching and comforting sorrowing souls. But He dared to rebuke sin and denounce hypocrisy. He had proved Himself the friend of the outcast, the neglected and the lost. For these things He was hated and at last they brought about His crucifixion. Was it credible that a man who had possessed such miraculous powers should not in this supreme moment use it to deliver Himself? Did not 'Physician, heal Thyself' apply here? The cross, then, after all, was the test. He who saved others did not save Himself."

MAN DECLARED KING OF DIVINE CREATION

Drawing spiritual lessons from the miracle of aviation, Dr. John Snape, in his sermon at Temple Baptist Church yesterday said that the invention and operation of the airplane "stamp man once more as king of the Divine creation."

"It is unnecessary for man to live on a low plane," said Dr. Snape. "Why should man grovel in a sty when he can soar among the stars? Why live in a swamp when the high hills are just before us? The airplane illustrates also the central fact of Christianity—namely the resurrection of the body. These bodies of ours, clothed with clay and weighted to the earth, will yet rise. We do not understand this mystery, but neither do we understand how an airship weighing 22,000 pounds can raise itself, by the power that is within, to 41,000 feet in the air."

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS' LESSON TOPIC 'REALITY'

"Reality" was the subject of the lesson-sermon yesterday at all Church of Christ, Scientists, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. One of the Scripture selections related the incident when Christ Jesus entered Simon Peter's house, of which Mark says, "But Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they tell him of her. And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up; and immediately the fever left her, and she ministered unto them." The same selection said also, "And He healed many that were sick of diver's diseases, and cast out many devils." A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated, "It must be clear to you that sickness is no more the reality of being than is sin. . . . By the truthful arguments you employ, and especially by the spirit of Truth and Love which you entertain, you will heal the sick."

Former Mining Man of Arizona Dies in Hospital

J. W. Crawford, 75 years of age, a resident of Los Angeles for twenty years, died yesterday at the California Hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was born in New York, but had spent a large part of his life in the West, having been engaged in the jewelry and mining business at Tucson for many years. He also was interested in a banking business at Yuma up to the time of his death.

He leaves, besides his widow, Mrs. Seville Crawford, a brother Charles of Peoria, Ill., and a sister, Mrs. W. P. Hohenschuh, who lives in Iowa. The brother has been spending the winter in Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the W. A. Brown chapel, 1815 South Flower street.

Pipe-Line Plea Action Delayed

Action by the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation on the application of the General Pipe Line Company for a franchise to lay a pipe line not to exceed ten inches in diameter, for the transportation of gasoline from the General Petroleum Corporation's Torrance refinery to Terminal Island by way of Mormon Island, has been held up pending a hearing.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has asked to be heard on pipe-line applications where paving must be removed and will be given a chance to express its views. The company's request provides for use of alleys instead of streets for the line on its way through Wilmington.

NAUTICAL SHOW ADDS CRUISERS

Large Craft on Exhibit at Ambassador Display

Interest of Public Centers on Cabin Vessels

Flying Boat Attracts Much Attention From Visitors

Several ships were added yesterday to the Boat Show in Ambassador Auditorium. Placing of the exhibits caused a considerable rearrangement of the show's interior, but exhibitors were ready to put the cruisers on display as a result of boat interest manifest on the opening day, Saturday.

Civic Regatta Association officials, in charge of the show, welcomed the increase in the number of forty and fifty-foot cruisers for it plainly is evident, they said, that more vessels of that type are needed to accommodate all the showgoers, who explore the cabins and pace the decks of the craft displayed in the dry-land boat exhibition.

STEPS TO CRAFT

Another move of the show was to install steps leading to the wings of the Savoia Marchetti, said to be the largest flying power boat in this country, so that spectators may mount to the tops of the wings and then descend by ladders into the cabins of the aerial craft.

Gangplanks also have been installed leading from wharf effects to boats dry-docked alongside. For hours yesterday the show-goers filed through these ships, inspecting lockers, cabins, pilot houses and all parts of the ornate pleasure craft.

Decision was arrived at to have a University of Southern California day sponsored by Sigma Beta Chi transportation fraternity Wednesday which also has been set as San Diego day. Another collegiate affair will take place Thursday, when all-collegiate day and Newport-Balboa harbor day will be observed simultaneously.

SPECIAL DAY

Santa Monica day takes place Friday, with the Santa Monica Municipal Band scheduled to accompany the delegation to the exposition. Picture players and other celebrities, it is said, will join in christening ceremonies Wednesday night of the Savoia Marchetti.

Date for the exposition's underwater wedding, it is said, has not been set, but probably this event will take place tomorrow or Wednesday.

Each day until next Saturday the show is programmed to remain open from 2:30 to 10:30 p.m. In addition to the display of more than fifty boats of all types belonging to the pleasure classification there is a Panchon and Marco nautical revue with pirate girls and sailorettes, on the main stages of the exposition.

OFFICIALS HERE

A. Loring Swasey, Fred Downs and Earl Croft, eastern yachting officials, arrived yesterday from New York, to participate in the show. Swasey is a yacht designer connected with the Henry J. Gielow Company, Inc., New York. Croft is assistant manager of the Gielow branch in Detroit, and manager of the yachting division of the Bessemer Steel Works, which company supplies the majority of Diesel engines for the Gielow company.

VIOLENT LOVE MAKING BRINGS TERM IN CELL

Violent love-making by Edward J. Lucey, 27 years of age, of 962 South Western avenue, brought him a sixty-day jail sentence for battery when he pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Wilson to beating Miss Ora Norris, 25. According to Miss Norris, she has attempted to avoid Lucey for several weeks and moved three times in the effort to elude him. Last Wednesday when she was moving into rooms at 1611½ Pontius avenue, Lucey appeared and broke in the door, she said. Knocking down Melvin Reed, who was helping the woman, Lucey dragged her to his automobile and drove away, she declared. Police later arrested him at his home.

PROF. DEWEY LAUDS ROYCE

Philosopher Speaks at U.C.L.A. on Doctrines Set Forth by Eminent Californian

Tribute was paid to Josiah Royce, distinguished philosopher and alumnus of the University of California, at exercises conducted by the Philosophical Union yesterday in the auditorium of the recently dedicated Josiah Royce Hall at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Prof. Royce, who was born in Grass Valley in Nevada county, taught a number of years at the University of California but spent the major portion of his teaching career at Harvard University, where he established a reputation which had become world wide when he died in 1916.

DR. JOHN DEWEY

The speakers yesterday were three university professors who had been students of Prof. Royce, and Prof. John Dewey of Columbia University, whom the other three speakers united in describing as America's greatest living philosopher. Prof. Dewey came to this city to assist in the dedication ceremonies at the local university Thursday and Friday.

AUTOGRAPHS SOUGHT

An evidence that academic distinction is not altogether a vain quest was furnished at the end of yesterday's exercises when Prof. Dewey was surrounded on the platform by a number of important autograph seekers, the scene being reminiscent of those wherein motion-picture celebrities or famous prize fighters are generally the prey of the autograph collector.

Reminding his auditors of the eminence gained by Prof. Royce among the world's great thinkers, Prof. Dewey devoted the major portion of his address to an exposition of the Californian's philosophy, whose fundamental basis, he said, was the concept that thought is a social rather than an individual process.

He characterized Prof. Royce as an individual philosopher, "not a mere tutor repeating the doctrines of some school." The California thinker stood out, he said, "not as a perpetuator of old traditions but a creator."

IDEAS EXTENDED

Although he never was a student under Royce, he said, he owes a great debt to him, having studied his writings with extreme profit. In the concluding portion of his address, Prof. Dewey illustrated his point by explaining wherein his philosophic concepts differ from those of Royce and pointing out that the apparent differences are not so much that as they are extensions of Royce's ideas.

Dean Charles Henry Rieber of U.C.L.A., who is president of the Philosophical Union, presided at the exercises, and the other speakers were Jacob Loewenberg, professor of philosophy at the University of California, and John Elof Boodin, professor of philosophy at U.C.L.A. These three were students of Royce. Dean Rieber delivered a eulogy of his former teacher, while the other two professors expounded his teachings in relation to his personality and, incidentally, discussed them in relation to the philosophic system of Prof. Dewey.

HUSBAND WINS BATTLE AGAIN

"Broken Dishes" Gives Him Uproarious Victory

Flavin Play Conventionally Homey, But Funny

Characters Enliven Comedy at El Capitan

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Good cheer for the poor downtrodden husband! Martin Flavin's "Broken Dishes" provides it. And men, if they want, can use this play as a club to hold over the heads of wives who tell them what a mistake they made in not marrying some other man.

"Broken Dishes" is the source of abundant amusement now at El Capitan Theater. Large audiences at its first afternoon and evening productions yesterday laughed too hilariously, the second act being perhaps the keenest source of their merriment.

Flavin's play—far different from "Spindrift," newly presented in Pasadena—is a pattern show of the domestic middle western sort, in which Duffy has frequently specialized. The home setting of the usual order, with the reed organ, seashells on the what-not in the corner of the room, stiff uncomfortable furniture make it a thoroughly familiar friend.

However, Flavin has succeeded in injecting some notes of comedy into his play, which remove it from the hum-drum. It is not especially original comedy, but it happens to be intensified because of the delightfulness of certain of the characters introduced. The arrival of the benevolent clergyman played by Thomas L. Brower in the second act, who can neither hear well nor see well, seems to strike the high note. The presentation of such a personage in the play could very easily be offensive, but the humor attaching to his presence is so great that it succeeds in avoiding that particular danger.

Without this especial event, I do not know that "Broken Dishes" would hold up in its entertainment. Enough is done to aid, as things stand, by several of the other principals in the plot, including, of course, Percy Pollock, who is featured, as the long-suffering husband. Next to him in the list, and distinctly good in his work, is Lloyd Neal.

"Broken Dishes" treats quite definitely of the idea that a woman frequently believes another man than her husband would have made her happier. Mrs. Bumpstead is of this opinion, and she forces her spouse to listen to the theory upon every occasion. She keeps him well in leash domestically, and exerts the same tyrannical reign over their three daughters.

What happens during her absence at the theater one evening is told in the main part of the play. And plenty does happen, what with the marriage of one of the daughters and the cider-imbibings of her husband. Also the man whom she thought she loved turns up on the scene, adding further complications.

"Broken Dishes" is very homespun, and in certain respects recalls other plays of the "Rip Van Winkle," "Lightnin'" sort. It is, however, pleasantly different in certain of its characters and many of its situations.

The work of Grace Stafford in the important role of the father's favorite daughter is agreeable—this despite it is a rather colorless part to play. Alma Chester, succeeds commendably in her particular characterization of the mother. Jean Warner and Helen Kleeb as the other two daughters, and Melville Ruick as the fiance of the girl are others. Thomas Chatterton is the black-mustached villain.

Pollock was called on for a curtain speech.

Player Refuses Ancient Eggs

Florence Roberts refuses to eat century-old eggs.

The actress, now appearing in "Your Uncle Dudley" with Taylor Holmes and the Duffy Players at the President, does not object to canaries' tongues or birds'-nest soup, but when her Chinese host produced 100-year-old eggs she had to refuse them.

Miss Roberts has been dined and feted around the world three times on theatrical trips, and has been the guests of sultans, maharajahs and mandarins. Her apartment here is filled with souvenirs of her travels, and she has numerous jeweled necklaces of hammered gold presented to her by East Indian rulers.

ANOTHER CITY ON GRILLE

"Philadelphia," Melodrama of Gangstering and Other Troubles at the Vine-Street Theater

BY E. S.

"A Philadelphia lawyer should handle the case." Maybe this adage, (which incidentally has several other variations,) may have a new meaning for those who see the melodrama "Philadelphia" by Samuel John Park, which opened last evening at the Vine Street Theater. The piece is about lawyers anyway, though it adds to its personnel a gangster, a coroner, a police investigator and other personages who really turn out to be vastly exciting.

This is a weird play as plays go. And it has plenty of nasty work at the old cross-roads. It is the kind of play in which a Diogenes would go about all night with a spotlight looking for an honest man and end up by suspecting himself of chicanery.

I presume it is an expose of "conditions," but I refuse to grow terribly distressed. After all I have seen "Chicago," and a city of brotherly love is bound to be a little quieter by comparison.

Still there is noise enough in "Philadelphia." Two shots are fired in the first act and you regret that one of them seems to take effect on one of the play's best actors, namely Rockcliffe Fellowes.

On this shooting and the graft that has brought it about hangs most of the plot, and it is a showdown and a show-up all along the line, with the third degree invoked on a handcuffed prisoner, bribery, theft and everything else tossed in. Altogether a rather hot case against a quiet and sedate eastern municipality.

One never knows one's neighbors near or distant until one sees them on the stage nowadays. And eventually, I presume, every city in the country will be dramatized. I look forward with particular anticipation to the arrival of Kalamazoo and Oshkosh.

Really, it's difficult to say much for or against "Philadelphia." It is a crude sort of dramatic effort, but in its rough-cut way it does have its entertaining moments. A man coming to life after being shot in a bullet-proof vest is one of them, and another is when a first-aid hospital interne tells the special investigator what he thinks of him. This is really exceedingly colorful.

It is moments like these that keep "Philadelphia" from being dull, and it could be since all three acts take place in an attorney's sanctum. There is really a peppery quality to the dialogue at times that is diverting, though at others it becomes hopelessly stupid.

There are some exceedingly good performances—that of Mr. Fellowes being especially creditable. Kit Guard and James Gulfoyle (in a very brief bit as the internes) are excellent also.

Very good, too, is the work of Del Lawrence as the special investigator. Ora Carew is pleasantly cast, but Franklyn Farnum and Barbara Bedford seem to suffer a little from being out of place in their roles. James Denaford as the judge and Frank Dawson as the coroner were acceptable. Ross Chetwynd appeared as the District Attorney.

Familiar Faces Seen in United Artists' Film

"Hell Harbor," the Henry King drama which has started its first local engagement at the United Artists Theater, with Lupe Velez in the starring role, features in its supporting cast two noted screen actors who made their first film successes while appearing together in the same picture.

These well-known players are Jean Hersholt and Gilson Gowland, and the production which first brought them forcibly to the attention of theatergoers was "Greed," which was powerfully portrayed by Erich Von Stroheim. The trip of the two men into the desert in this picture has become a classic, it is said.

In "Hell Harbor," Hersholt and Gowland are unscrupulous cronies in a tropical village — Gowland as the father of Lupe, and Hersholt portraying the tricky pearl buyer. Before their entry into motion pictures both had appeared for long periods on the stage in their native countries. Other members of the supporting cast are Paul Holland, Al St. John, Harry Allen, Paul E. Burns and George Book-Asta.

'Dawn Patrol' Aptly Named

"The Dawn Patrol," the First National picture in which William Janney is working at First National, is aptly named, according to the young actor, since the company has been working nights for the past week, with shooting continuing until nearly morning.

Janney is also appearing in "The Right of Way" at the same studio.

JOHNSONS FILM STRANGE SIGHTS

Camera Tour Depicts Native Life and Customs

Jungles Reveal Wild Beasts in Abundance

Instructive and Interesting Picture at Biltmore

BY JOHN SCOTT

Strange persons, these Martin Johnsons, who sail away in a boat hardly bigger than a fishing smack, photograph the ferocious head hunters of faraway islands, and the native life in the Solomon Islands and New Hebrides.

Fearless as the vicious tribesmen they encountered on their travels, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have succeeded in recording on film spectacular escapes from lions and rhinoceri, as well as interesting scenes of grisly head hunters, African pygmies and many other absorbing details of barbaric races in "Across the World With Mr. and Mrs. Johnson," which started a two weeks' run last night at the Biltmore Theater.

Martin Johnson, through the medium of the talking screen, explains the various scenes and adds in large measure to the interest of the production. Some of his explanations are unique, one in particular to the effect that cannibals are cowards. He is not apt to be disputed one way or the other.

The early sequences of the picture are devoted to travels in the South Seas. The high point is reached when the Johnsons are captured by a ferocious band of head hunters. The camera is kept grinding until the moment of capture. A warship is the only salvation of the whites. Tribal customs and the superstitions of the natives are but one of the extremely interesting points depicted. In one of the remote islands, the Johnsons were forced to partially dress the natives, in order that pictures might be taken.

The wild mountain country of New Zealand provides many thrills and strange sights, all of which are faithfully registered by the Johnson motion-picture machine.

The second half of the film revolves around an expedition into tropical Africa. Three Boy Scouts, picked from the entire United States, joined the party at this point.

After several entertaining scenes of African native life, the safari penetrates into the vast jungles. Here the party finds wild life in its own haunts. There is a magnificent shot of thousands of wild beasts traveling to water holes and better feeding grounds. It is doubtful whether another such scene has ever been taken by a camera. Elephant, rhinoceros, water buffalo and species of wild life unfamiliar to most persons are seen in abundance.

The lion hunt is reminiscent of that for tigers in another film recently shown here. There are several thrilling moments when a lion charges Mrs. Johnson, who calmly places her rifle to her shoulder and kills it. It is explained that out of over 600 wild beasts photographed, only three had to be done away with, and those only to safeguard the party.

Lions feeding, lions at play, lions hunting and fighting are revealed. It is truly a work of merit.

"Across the World With the Johnsons" is presented by Talking Picture Epics, Inc., and is recommended to all who have experienced the slightest desire for a trip to the jungle or the South Seas.

Two short films preceded the main feature, one presenting Dr. Raymond Ditmars, curator of the New York Zoo, in his talking version of "Killing the Killer," depicting a battle to the death between a mongoose and a cobra, and a marionette show.

ACTRESS TO ESSAY NEW TYPE ROLE

Western Talking Picture Stars Joan Crawford With John Mack Brown

Joan Crawford stars in "Montana Moon," a western talkie, which starts Thursday at Loew's State Theater. This new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production reveals the heroine of "Our Dancing Daughters" as the same dominant, willful modern youth.

The story is an original by Sylvia Thalberg and Frank Butler, with dialogue by Joe Farnham. It depicts a torrid romance between an adventurous daughter of a wealthy New Yorker and a handsome western cowboy with a southern drawl, portrayed by John Mack Brown.

RIFFS RIDE AT MAJESTIC

"Desert Song" Revived With Josephine Houston and Perry Askam in Chief Roles

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

With Josephine Houston as the new prima donna, and Perry Askam once more in the colorful robes and role of the Red Shadow, "The Desert Song" boomed out again last night at the Majestic.

This melodic Sigmund Romberg operetta is evidently of perennial stock so far as Los Angeles is concerned. Last night's opening marked its fifth presentation and its 736th performance here—all under the Lillian Albertson-Louis Macloon banner. Local playgoers, turning out in goodly numbers for the opening, applauded it heartily.

There was a fine ovation for Miss Houston upon her entrance and at the conclusion of her first number, "Romance." There was a great big hand for Perry Askam, without doubt the matinee idol of Los Angeles today, a singing favorite as far as this town is concerned, if there ever was one.

Other members of the cast, most of them in the original production launched one fine December evening, two and one-half years ago at the Windsor Square Theater, scored almost as well with the audience. There was Gary Breckner, as the tall Capt. Pontaine; there was Nenette Vallon in the role of the half-caste seductress; there was Myrtis Chinley as the gangling Susan, and John Merkyl as Gen. Birabeau, all of whom knew their roles backward and forward as well they should. Charles Boyle was seen as the comic, played by Johnny K. Arthur to begin with. Boyle, however, was in the road company for a long time.

Special attention last night was thus directed toward the work of Miss Houston, the one new principal in the cast. She made a very charming Margot, evidencing her good voice and pleasant stage personality in her work.

"The Desert Song" will tarry at the Majestic but two weeks. The company will then move toward San Francisco where members will don other costumes and will be seen in the "New Moon," starting at the Curran Theater April 22.

In case you have forgotten, although this hardly seems possible, "The Desert Song" is a romantic operetta telling a story of love and gallantry in the Riff country of North Africa. Its story is by Otto Harbach, Frank Mandel and Oscar Hammerstein II. Its best tunes are "Ho—Song of the Riffs," and "The Desert Song."

DIVORCE PACT DECLARED VOID

Ex-Wife Fails in Suit for Share in Property

Agreement Involving Reno Decree Related

Husband Asserted to Have Broken His Pledge

If a husband suggests to a wife that she go to Nevada and obtain a divorce and promises to make her certain gifts of money and property after she gets her decree she has no way of making him keep his promise if he changes his mind. Such an agreement is void and the law will not aid the wife.

This is the warning sounded by Superior Judge Yankwich in giving a judgment for the defendant in the case of Isabell Campbell against Thomas R. Bishop, Jr., Los Angeles milliner.

Mrs. Campbell, formerly the wife of Bishop, brought two suits against him, one wherein she sought to set aside a deed she had made to her husband's property on April 2, 1928, and another in which she endeavored to be reinstated to her rights to one-half of the home place and furniture acquired during their married life, which began on October 28, 1924.

Mrs. Campbell testified that some time in December, 1927, she and her husband had a disagreement. He suggested that she go to Nevada and get a divorce, she said. He promised her, she stated, that after the divorce was obtained he would give her a half-interest in the home and furnishings.

The wife further declared that she went to Reno, acquired a residence there and got her divorce on April 2, 1928. On the same day her attorney brought her a deed which she signed. In her complaint before the Nevada court she waived all rights to the community property. It was this waver she attempted to set aside here.

VENICE CONFRONTED BY PROSPECT OF OIL WELL ADORNING EACH LOT

An oil well on about every lot in Venice may result from the policy of the City Council and the City Planning Commission in granting so many permits to drill for oil in that area. Scores of such permits have been granted and additional scores of applications appear on the minutes of the Council and the commission.

During the past week the Council adopted the following drilling ordinances: Samuel G. Hawkins, two lots; Laura M. Locke, one lot; William G. Dickerson, two lots; Fraser Million Dollar Pier Company, two lots; same petitioner, "a number of lots;" S. C. Baxter, three lots; Hattie Weber, one lot; Louis L. Oakley, two lots; John W. Baumgartner, two lots; Shinn & Holtz, two lots.

During the past week the commission has recommended to the Council the granting of drilling permits as follows: Alba Young, four lots; Shives & Robertson, three lots; Gertrude Ross, three lots; Samuel Hawkins, two lots; M. Engel, one lot; B. G. Evans, one lot; Anthony Kaitis, one lot; William G Dickerson, a tract; David H. McCartney, two lots; Fred Young, four lots; Fred G. White, one lot; A. Dell Aqua, two lots; Mrs. W. K. Schneider, a tract; A. K. Crafton, one lot; the same petitioner, another location; J. M. Rusdy, and Higgins & Parkhurst.

The protest from C. S. Boswell against drilling at a certain location was "received and filed."

WATER BOND PROPOSITION SUPPORTED

Community Council for Wilshire District Pleads for Voting of Issue

Speaking for more than twenty commercial and home owners' organizations in the western section of Los Angeles, the Wilshire Community Council has placed itself on record as actively indorsing the water-bond issue on the May 20 ballot and has adopted resolutions setting forth the urgent necessity of developing additional water through the issuance of the bonds.

The organizations included in the council, it is understood, represent several thousand business concerns and home owners who declare only through approval of the water bonds can the city obtain the water supplies necessary to protect the value of every piece of property in the city.

Harold A. Henry is secretary of the council. In the resolution the organization states:

"An urgent necessity exists to increase the water supply of the city of Los Angeles, pending the completion of the Colorado River development.

"Competent engineering authorities find this situation best can be met by utilizing the remaining available water resources in the Owens Valley and Mono Basin.

"By obtaining these water rights, providing additional pumping facilities in the Owens Valley, enlarging the present aqueduct and securing additional storage and distribution facilities locally, additional water can be procured to provide for about double the present population of this city.

"Therefore, the Wilshire Community Council indorses the water bonds."

Among the associations included in the council are the following: Ambassador District Property Owners' Association, Beverly-Heliotrope Property Owners' Association, Central Vermont District Chamber of Commerce, Greater Beverly Boulevard Association, Greater La Brea Avenue Association, Greater Pico Street Association, Greater Vermont Avenue Association, La Cienega Boulevard Improvement Association, Northwest Chamber of Commerce, Pioneer Beverly Boulevard Improvement Association, Redondo Boulevard Association, Third Street Improvement Association, Third Street Major Artery Association Venice Boulevard Improvement Association, Vermontshire Association, West Adams Chamber of Commerce, Western Avenue Chamber of Commerce, Wilshire-La Brea District Business Association, Pico Boulevard Chamber of Commerce and Westlake Business Association.

CRUDE OIL SCHEDULE PREPARED

Report of Conservation Experts Expected to Be Given Out in Day or Two

The report of the special committee of experts appointed by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur to aid in the conservation program by drawing up a schedule of the country's crude oil production needs for the year will probably be given out in Washington in a day or two, H. P. Grimm, one of the members of the committee, said last night upon his return from New Orleans, where the committee met.

Immediately after the end of the committee's labors on Thursday, said Mr. Grimm, J. Elmer Thomas of Fort Worth, its chairman, left for Washington to deliver its findings to Secretary Wilbur. In arriving at its findings, the committee had to digest an enormous supply of data concerning the present industrial situation in the country and also relating to the production situation in all the nation's oil fields, Mr. Grimm said.

Pending the release of the committee's report, Mr. Grimm said, he was unwilling to reveal anything concerning the nature of its findings. Besides Grimm and Thomas, the other members of the committee are Joseph E. Pogue of New York, Ray Collins of Tulsa, and Harold Lowry of Denver. Mr. Grimm is umpire for fourteen oil fields in this State in the carrying out of the State-wide curtailment of production program.

Three Sought as Kidnapers

Three Mexican youths were being sought last night as the kidnapers of 13-year-old Marie Aguilar, from her home at 111735 Robinson street, late yesterday afternoon. The girl was in her home with two younger sisters when the youths drove up in a dilapidated touring car and asked her to go riding with them. She knew one of the youths, according to the sisters, but refused to get in the car.

One of them, whom the sisters assert was Antonio Brabo, drew a knife. Marie fled next door but the youths caught her and after forcing a gag in her mouth lifted her into the car and drove away.

Hosea Aguilar, the missing girl's father, reported to the Florence-avenue Sheriff's substation that Brabo had attempted to force his attentions on his daughter on several occasions.

BIDS ON BRIDGE UP WEDNESDAY

Fourth-Street Viaduct to be Constructed

Span Cost Estimates Range Around $1,000,000

Other Improvements Bring Total to $2,264,000

On Wednesday the Board of Public Works will open bids for the construction of the bridge portion of the Fourth-street viaduct and improvement.

The cost of the entire project, including rights of way, bridge, paving and reconstruction, is estimated at $2,284,000. The bids to be opened Wednesday for the construction of the bridge are expected to range about $1,000,000. The board already has awarded the contract for removing the old wooden structure, which work now is going forward.

The city and county each pay 25 1-2 per cent of the cost, while the Union Pacific pays 13 per cent, the Santa Fe 21 1-2 per cent and the Los Angeles Railway pays 14 1-2 per cent. The city's share is to come from the 1923 bridge bond issue.

The total length of the bridge is 2400 feet, with a 600-foot ramp to Mateo street. The bridge will be seventy-one feet wide over all, with two five-foot sidewalks and a fifty-six-foot roadway. The viaduct will extend from Anderson street on the east to Molino street on the west, passing over Mission Road, Santa Fe avenue, the river and the Union Pacific and Santa Fe tracks.

FRIENDS PAY TRIBUTE TO MRS. JONES

Pioneer School Official's Memory Kept Green by Former Pupils Here

The memory of Mrs. Chloe Blakeman Jones, pioneer superintendent of Los Angeles schools, was honored yesterday afternoon by former students, her neighbors and friends in an informal service in the library of the Friday Morning Club.

Mary E. Foy as chairman called upon various persons in the audience to relate their contacts with this sturdy pioneer educator, who came to this city fifty years ago. Mrs. Jones entered the high school in 1876 and was elected Superintendent of Schools in 1880 and held the position two years. She is believed to be one of the first women in America to hold this office. She made her home in Sierra Madre for forty-eight years.

Frederick Cox, former pupil, Mrs. Frances Peckham, Eugene McDaniels, Sara Reese and Leonard Hall, a pupil, spoke tenderly of her love for her pupils. C. M. Perry told of his professional contacts with her, as did Fannie Harold, a teacher. A score of persons spoke briefly.

Dyer Installed as New Padre

Induction of Dr. Frank Dyer into the office of padre of the new parish of Junipero Serra took place yesterday morning. The ceremonies were conducted at the Fox Westlake Theater by Archbishop E. J. Lloyd of the American Catholic Church, assisted by Rev. Edgar Sneed. The ritual was that used by the Preaching Friars. Consecration of the clergyman recently was conducted at the Armenian church.

A campaign committee headed by R. Franklin Strong has launched a drive for $100,000 to be used in erection of the proposed Church of Junipero Serra in Los Angeles.

ARROYO PARK APPEALS UP

Council Slated to Hear Appeals Against Assessments on Long-Deferred Project Tomorrow

A lengthy and important hearing is scheduled for tomorrow before the City Council when that body will hear appeals against the assessments for Victory Park No. 2, in the Arroyo Seco, in the Highland Park neighborhood.

This project, which has been progressing slowly for the past seven years, has been the subject of lengthy and heated wrangles between proponents and opponents, who will have their final say on the matter tomorrow.

Advocates of the project wish to establish a park in the Arroyo with a high-speed thoroughfare to Pasadena and South Pasadena as a continuation of the North Figueroa street extension. They also wish to rid the Arroyo of rock crushers. Opponents base their contentions upon what they term are excessive and onerous costs.

The territory involved is a long, narrow strip containing about forty acres. The assessments for the land alone run to $797,500, while court costs and engineering fees bring the project up to $867,014. The district contains 14,566 parcels. The average cost per forty-foot lot is stated to be $40, ranging from a high assessment of $160 to a low assessment of $14.

PRIVATE AIR LICENSE WON BY FINANCIER

Licensed as a private pilot after less than three weeks of instruction, J. Cheever Cowdin, eastern financier and vice-president of Bancamerica-Blair, left yesterday for his home in New York. He passed his tests Saturday in an examination conducted by Capt. Walter Parkin and A. L. Jurden, inspectors of the aeronautics branch, United States Department of Commerce. Matriculating at Del Monte on the 10th inst., he trained first under Capt. Harry Claiborne and later under Maj. C. C. Moseley of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service.

Officers Guard Socialists From Menace of Red

Members of the Red squad of the Los Angeles Police Department, half a score of uniformed men, were on guard last night at the City Auditorium to prevent, if possible Communist counter-demonstration against a Socialist meeting which was held there and at which time Dan Hoan, Mayor of Milwaukee, and others spoke. Sklar, Communist organizer, refused admittance at the door, a score of well-known Communists were turned away. Detective Lieutenant Hynes, in charge of the squad, declared that no demonstration had been planned, it was his belief.

Upton Sinclair, novelist and lecturer, presided as chairman of the meeting. Besides Hoan, Morris Hillquit, James Maurer, one-time candidate for Vice-President, and John Oneal, editor, also spoke.

EDUCATOR TO SPEAK

Development in the University of California at Los Angeles will be discussed by Dr. Frederick Woellner at the luncheon of the Los Angeles Realty Board tomorrow. Woellner is associate professor of education.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, enemas, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

VARIETY OF CEREALS MAY BE USED AFTER ONE YEAR.

If we recognize the place of starchy foods in the diet then we will not overdo them, but use them wisely. Crackers, breads, cereals, almost all vegetables, bananas and potatoes are all carbohydrates (sugars and starches) and they supply a large share of our nourishment daily.

But in addition to a goodly proportion of all kinds of carbohydrates, every menu of either child or adult should contain milk, meat, eggs, cheese and nuts for the protein group; butter, cream, bacon, etc., for the fat group; fruits and watery vegetables for the mineral group, and water to make a complete diet.

WHOLE GRAIN CEREALS BEST

For the infant, the usual choice for cereals is either oatmeal or fine wheat cereals. The second year the child may have a varied assortment of cereals, because even if he doesn't get a whole grain cereal daily he has so many other types of food that they make up for it. The best cereals are: Whole wheat, whole barley, oats, brown rice. Use them all in the diet and look at your package cereals to see of what they consist.

Mrs. V. D. M. is evidently worrying about starches in the diet, for her questions point that way. She writes: "I have a boy fifteen months old and he has such a wonderful appetite I can hardly fill him up. I give him whole wheat or rolled oats for breakfast. Can he have the prepared kinds now and should they contain bran? Can these whole grain cereals be given him now without sieving? How many eggs can he have a week? I give him a whole one and he begs for more. My neighbor gives crackers to her baby. Are they starchy?

PREPARED CEREALS ADD VARIETY

In addition to the whole cereals mentioned above, you may use the finer preparations and the ready-cooked ones for variety. Tablespoon for tablespoon the ready-cooked ones do not always represent as much nourishment and they should not be used exclusively, but merely as a delightful change.

Bran might prove too irritating to a young child. If the child is constipated from lack of bulk then give him the unsieved cereals and vegetables in place of the bran. Sieving is usually continued for sixteen months or so, and depends largely on how the individual child reacts to unsieved vegetables and cereals. Sometimes they cause too much bowel activity.

Crackers, because they are made of flour or cereals, are all starchy. They have a real place in the diet, and that is explained in our feeding leaflet which you may have for the required self-addressed stamped envelope. They should not be used as handy pacifiers for children, who feast out of cracker boxes most of their waking hours.

Eggs had better be used only about three times weekly, so that the child becomes used to the other proteins. Better alternate meat, eggs, fish and cheese, thus varying the menu and interesting the child in all types of good food.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

by Honore Booth

FASHION EXPERT OF HARPER'S BAZAAR

NEW YORK, March 30. (Exclusive)—Wanderlust is born of every errant breeze of March. So off you rush, if the gods permit, for bookings on West Indian cruises, to Bermuda, to the Mediterranean or Aiken. It matters not vastly where, so long as it is elsewhere.

The chic woman considers luggage as an important item of her wardrobe. She will be buying more of it this spring. Her dresses are not as compressible this year as they were last and her cartwheel summer hats are not compressible at all. In outfitting herself, she will demand first, durability in her travel equipment (it is both awkward to have luggage which is soon shabby and undependable, and no economy;) second, plenty of room for her clothes, and finally sufficient individuality so that it may be easily distinguished in the bedlam of dock or customs.

Strong and Roomy

To assure yourself of the durability of the luggage you buy, inquire thoroughly into the mysteries of its structure. It may seem unnecessarily complicated, but it is well to know. Light metals are often used, as in the case of airplane bags, with a sturdy lightweight fabric, with splendid results. Reinforced corners, Yale locks or equally stout ones, are important.

As to having plenty of room, much ingenuousness is expended on this. The classic wardrobe trunk, though it does not change in general outline, has valuable improvements each year. I saw one the other day with a spare compartment on the drawer side, made with a door and a lock of its own; for woman's hats or a man's opera hat. If you undertake more than one trunk and the ensuing responsibility, a grand way to travel is with one devoted entirely to hangers and one given over to drawers. Hat trunks are constantly appearing in new shapes. Shoe trunks are a joy, and there are clever combinations of the two. Book trunks are a new luxury and very nice to take to the country for the summer. Also, dog luggage is becoming an elaborate item!

By Their Initials

Finally as to the individuality of your luggage. Have your pieces all of one color, if possible all of one make. This is obviously necessary for the success of your ensemble. Have the marking on everything the same, and not too large, but in bright enough color so that it is readily recognizable. Often it is well to have the name of your city below in small letters. This eliminates the confusion arising from identical initials. Certainly one initial will never be enough. A band of color, regimental striping (very smart) or some such personal insigne may help, but it should not be overdone.

Bags, Large and Small

Fitted dressing-cases, despite their weight, are an unquestionable boon for the week-end or overnight train ride. A new way of making them attractive to the sports-minded woman is to have bottle tops, brush backs et al., enameled with wild-game scenes, exquisitely executed. The pastel colorings are beautiful. They are made in England, where the art of luggage making and the lure of hunting are so well understood, and are imported into America.

Another refreshing idea for small pieces is the use of nubby tweeds instead of leather or canvas. Very ensemble indeed to have your traveling costume and your bags of the same cloth. I do not vouch for the practicality of this, but it is an amusing new angle.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Those Black Rings

Be sure to wipe off the bottoms of the platters and dishes that have been warmed in the oven before placing them on the clean tablecloth. It means a smaller laundry bill.

Home-made Lime Water

Lime water can be made at home very inexpensively by dissolving a fresh piece of lime in two quarts of water. Allow it to stand two or three hours, shaking it occasionally and removing any substance that may rise to the top.

An Exit for the Sand

Use the colander in which to wash the sandy lettuce. Separate the leaves, place them in a colander and let the cold water run through them, washing away all sand and dirt. Drain for a few minutes and then set the colander with the lettuce on the ice until ready for use.

Once a Week

Vegetable soup is just about par excellence for the kiddies' lunch. Children will eat vegetables in a savory soup when it is difficult to get them to eat the same things served by themselves. They are also getting the nutrition of the beef without the effort of digestion.

ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

TEACH YOUR CHILDREN COURAGE

There is an alarming number of student suicides. These youngsters who cut off their lives usually suffer from the fear of not "putting it over"—a fear which to some extent is common to most people. These students are afraid to face life as it is—afraid to take a chance with their own abilities. They become so haunted by this terrifying fear that they would rather give up life, itself, than to face living.

Which would you rather have your child copy—one of these pitiable chaps who couldn't face the problems of life, or a Lindbergh winging across the seas and continents with his own courage pushing him along?

If you wish your boy to be fearless you cannot begin too early. One who succeeds must have a profound belief in himself. According to psychologists, 75 per cent lack this self-confidence. Why do we lack it, when as babies we were born with plenty of it? Where did we lose our courage? Who taught us fear? We have only two fears at birth; one of falling, and the other is of sudden loud noises. All of our other fears, including the fear that we cannot succeed, are trained and conditioned into us.

Some one has said we are all afraid of something. Unfortunately, this statement contains much truth, but most of us are afraid of the wrong things.

If you wish to correct your child from some of the fears which agonized you, then be careful not to teach him fear. There is no sense in being afraid of a mouse, or of being alone, or of thunder, and yet, these are some of the most common fears.

A mother who makes a study of modern psychology has a wonderful advantage, for she can teach her child to be courageous and even teach it to overcome fears which it may already possess. Just because a child is afraid of something does not mean that he need continue to be afraid of it.

Schools often make the mistake of building the fear habit in the children instead of courage habits. The child gets to fear he cannot pass his examinations and in time the habit of fear may transfer itself to other problems. Making children afraid, we crush the national courage. Children's fears may seem foolish to us, but the trouble is that they usually remain through life, in one form or another.

Chronic fears drain the vitality and slow down the powers of the body. They interfere with digestion and the proper tone of the muscles.

It is good to realise that courage and bravery are habits. If the child is properly grounded in these habits you can always be proud of him. Then he will not need a sudden spurt of bravery, or an attack of carelessness. He will not have to whistle to keep his courage up. He will have a natural courage to pull him over the obstacles and difficulties. Thackeray was right when he said that bravery never goes out of fashion, for we all admire a brave man or a courageous woman.

A Bedtime Story

PRICKLY PORKY GETS ACROSS

Some talents that we little guess
Our humblest neighbors may possess.
—Paddy the Beaver.

Prickly Porky the Porcupine was resting on the roof of Paddy the Beaver's house. He had been swimming across Paddy's pond. Paddy hadn't known just what to make of it. He hadn't known Prickly Porky could swim. Having discovered that Prickly Porky could swim, he became fearful that Prickly Porky might also be able to dive and he certainly didn't want Prickly Porky inside his house.

"If that fellow ever got inside our house, we'd just have to move out," said he to Mrs. Paddy. So it was a great relief to both Paddy and Mrs. Paddy to be told by Prickly Porky that he couldn't dive at all and that he wasn't interested in the inside of their house. All he wanted was to rest on that roof.

"Rest as long as you want to, Brother Porky," said Paddy the Beaver, trying to be very polite. "Rest just as long as you want to."

Prickly Porky merely grunted. He was not nearly so polite as Paddy the Beaver. He shook himself and when he did that several of the little spears he carries in his coat fell out. No one noticed this. Probably no one would have thought anything about it if they had noticed it. Finally Prickly Porky slipped into the water and once more headed for the other shore. Paddy the Beaver watched him. Prickly Porky certainly was a funny sight as he swam. What Paddy didn't know was that all those little spears in Prickly Porky's coat were filled with air. Each little spear, or quill, as we call it, is hollow and, of course, being hollow, contains air. So Prickly Porky couldn't have sunk if he wanted to. Those quills all helped to keep him afloat.

Prickly Porky took his time. He never does hurry anyway, whether on land or in the water. He paddled slowly along. He really isn't much of a swimmer, but he gets there just the same. Finally he approached the other shore. As it happened, Yowler the Bobcat had just come down to that very place for a drink. Of course, he saw Prickly Porky coming, but he didn't recognise him.

Prickly Porky was resting on the roof of Paddy the Beaver's house

No, sir, he didn't recognize Prickly Porky.

"I wonder," said Yowler to himself, "who that is coming ashore here. I came down here to get a drink, but it looks to me as if I shall get both a drink and a dinner. Now I think of it, I am hungry." He crouched flat beside an old log and his yellow eyes gleamed with hunger and anticipation. He drew his hind feet under him ready to spring the instant this fellow came out of the water.

Prickly Porky reached shore. As he started to walk out of the water he raised those quills and shook himself. The water flew and the quills rattled. Yowler the Bobcat had been just ready to spring. Instead, however, he snarled as only Yowler can. He had recognised Prickly Porky and he had no desire to have anything to do with him. It was a bitter disappointment. Yes, sir, it was a bitter disappointment. To hear him spit and snarl you would have thought that he blamed Prickly Porky for being himself.

Prickly Porky merely grunted, poked his head under a log—the very log beside which Yowler had been crouching—set his thousand little spears on end and waited. Yowler looked at him in disgust. Then, with such dignity as he could muster, he turned and walked away. He had quite forgotten that he had come down there for a drink.

A LARGE SUCCESSFUL FINANCIAL INSTITUTION would like to interview a few men who are tired of finding a new employer every time they make a sale. SUCCESS cannot be built up in this way. We have over five thousand SATISFIED CUSTOMERS who are reinvesting every week and month with us. Why waste the best years of your life by selling people some commodity or other, that does not make good, and which spoils your chances of ever selling them again? The principle is all wrong.

To such men as qualify we will train and will pay them while training. Thus filling them for the work in hand, and helping them to make a success from the very start.

PROVED STABILITY

"Concerns of proved stability remain firm and strong through all the changes of business. Great success and periods of inflation do not exalt them; periods of inactivity and stagnation do not seriously depress—serving but to temper the steel of their character."

(From the book "Standards of Business" by Elwood E. Rice)

FOR over fifty centuries the Sphinx and the Pyramids—those silent watchers of the ages—have witnessed the ebb and flow of human events. They were built right; and on a sound foundation.

Members of the Rice Leaders of the World Association have built right; and on a sound foundation. These manufacturing concerns represent generations of real accomplishment. Some of them have been in business for a century; many upwards of half a century, during which time their personnel, products and policies have always been found to square with the principles defined in the following

Qualifications for Membership:

HONOR: A recognized reputation for fair and honorable business dealings.

QUALITY: An honest product, of quality truthfully represented.

STRENGTH: A responsible and substantial financial standing.

SERVICE: A recognized reputation for conducting business in prompt and efficient manner.

The Association Emblem portrays these principles by word and symbol. It is a mark of members' proved stability and character—used by them in catalogs, literature and advertisements—on stationery, salesmen's cards and products. The confidence you have in one concern displaying this Emblem justifies equal confidence in all.

It is not inferred that only members are concerns of proved stability and standing. But the Character Emblem of the Rice Leaders of the World Association, in connection with a manufacturer's name, product or policy, is evidence that you can buy, sell or use products made by that concern with full assurance of service and satisfaction.
